FAMILY FRIEND OFFERS SELF IN HOSTAGE ROLE

Spokesman for McMaths Promises Kidnapers Escape Chance.

CAPE COD SEES SIGN OF LINDBERGH GANG

Father Pledges He'll Forego Prosecution; Mother Sends Her Appeal.

Harwich, Mass., May 4 (U.P.).—Detectives feared tonight that little Peggy McMath might be in the clutches of the kidnapers of Baby Lindbergh, whose mutilated body was found on a Jersey hillside a year ago next week.

More than two full days after the pretty 10-year-old heiress to Detroit fortunes was lured from her desk at the village school, heart-broken but still hopeful parents remained without a word as to her fate.

Tonight, William Lee, spokesman for the McMath family, volunteered to become a hostage in the hands of the kidnapers for 24 hours to give them time to complete ransom negotiations and escape.

Lindbergh Similarities.

As clew upon clew fizzled during a day crammed with furious activities by forces of the law on scattered fronts, Federal, State, county and local authorities seemed to have reached a "dead end."

And as key investigators prodded their minds for new leads, they were impressed by circumstances which tended to link the current case with the Lindbergh abduction.

So forceful were these features of the mystery that Brig. Gen. Daniel Needham, State public safety commissioner and in personal charge of the search, was impelled to declare:

"There is nothing inconsistent in this crime with the possibility of its being done by a very clever professional crowd, and it may be the same crowd that operated in the Lindbergh case."

Police Refuse to Leave.

Asserting that their "first duty" was to the Commonwealth, the Massachusetts State police tonight flatly refused to evacuate the Cape Cod area so there would be no possible hindrance to negotiations between the kidnapers and the family.

Previously Neil Cook McMath, well-to-do Harwich boat builder with Detroit social connections, had reiterated his pledge to deal honestly with the kidnapers "without thoughts of prosecution or punishment," and to give his all, if necessary, as ransom for his daughter's safe return.

Activities of Detroit's "Purple Gang," mentioned in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, came under closer scrutiny today as local leads, one by one, failed to materialize. Peggy's two rich grandfathers, Francis Cook McMath and William Robert Kales, live in Detroit.

Trio Waits for Death In Oklahoma's Prison

State's Prison, McAlester, Okla., May 4 (A.P.).—Three men faced death at midnight in Oklahoma's electric chair. There was virtually no hope of reprieve. Gov. William H. Murray having said at the State capitol today, "So far as I know now, they'll go."

Removed to death cells this morning, the trio, Joe L. Martin, 53, and Proctor McDonald, 23, condemned as slayers, and Albert Ellis, 25, condemned for armed robbery, said they had slept soundly.

Odd 3-Day Funeral Ends

Classical Music Closes Long Obsequies for Woman Worth $5,000,000 Who Killed Self in Fear of Blindness.

Los Angeles, May 4 (A.P.).—The strange, three-day funeral of wealthy 49-year-old Margaret Keith ended late today with a concert of classical music.

Her last instructions were for cremation and the scattering of the ashes to the winds because, she wrote just before she killed herself in her Beverly Hills mansion last Friday, she had loved the wide spaces too much in life to permit her body to be confined in death.

For three days an orchestra played at intervals selections from a program of 27 compositions Miss Keith listed after writing the explanation she was dying under self-administered anesthetic because she feared blindness and she did not care to live cut off from "the flowers and the beautiful sea."

No one but a woman attendant was permitted to look on the body in the 72 hours it lay in state. The orchestra played in an adjoining chapel. Flowers about the bier were changed regularly. The funeral clothes were changed daily.

As the last hour of the rites approached, her sister, Mrs. Keith Eskridge, and other relatives and friends assembled in the chapel to listen to the concert, a diverse program ranging from the gentle "Ave Maria" to Palmgren's thunderous "The Sea."

Mrs. Eskridge said Miss Keith, impelled by a "family complex of loneliness," sought to retire as completely as possible from the world when she was 19 years old. It was estimated her fortune totaled $5,000,000.

ACHESON IS NAMED AS AID TO WOODIN

Morris Appointed Envoy to Belgium; Peek Selected as Farm Head.

Dean G. Acheson was nominated Undersecretary of the Treasury yesterday, and Dave Hennen Morris was named Ambassador to Belgium as a Senate committee favorably reported on Henry B. Mitchell and Lucille F. McMillin as members of the Civil Service Commission.

The President named George Peek, of Illinois, as farm administrator under the farm relief bill, while rumor placed Charles Jackson, of South Carolina, in the lead of the contenders to be deputy commissioner of fish and fisheries. Some diplomatic post will go to Gustav Pabst, of Milwaukee, it was said, but the job has not been selected.

Mr. Acheson, a lawyer, maintains a home both here and in nearby Maryland. He is in practice here, and was formerly legal representative of several foreign governments. He came to Washington in 1919 as secretary to Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court. The new ambassador to Belgium is also a lawyer, living in New York, and is interested in various philanthropic organizations. He will take the place of Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who has been transferred to Brazil.

Committee action on the Civil Service nominees was taken so quickly that Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, had no time to object to them. He indicated that he might oppose them when the committee report was submitted to the Senate, but he did not say on what he would base his objection. Mrs. McMillin was appointed from Tennessee, a State whose senator is Kenneth McKellar. Senator McKellar is reputed to be not wholly satisfied with the present Civil Service set-up and his sponsorship of Mrs. McMillin may be questioned.

Mr. Peek has been an officer in several agricultural machinery companies and has written extensively on the farm problem. He was also a member of the War Industries Board. Mr. Jackson is secretary to Senator Smith, of South Carolina.

Other nominations sent to the Senate yesterday by President Roosevelt were George E. Hoffman to be United States attorney for the Northern District of Florida, Francis A. Garrecht to be judge of the Ninth Federal Circuit and Ray P. Bauauz, James F. Lewis and Thomas Hagan to be passed assistant dental surgeons in the Public Health Service.

Storms Again Hit North Louisiana

5 Killed When Tornadoes With Rain and Hail Sweep Sector.

Monroe, La., May 4 (U.P.).—Tornadoes continued their disastrous invasion of north Louisiana tonight, killing five Negroes near Tallulah, 60 miles east of Monroe, and inflicting thousands of dollars damage in property.

One Negro woman, Millie White, died instantly when her tenant cabin collapsed. Tallulah officers, who reported the death toll following a survey, said that about twenty were injured when their homes were unroofed or demolished and that others may have been killed. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Deese and Orville Carter miraculously escaped injury when the large Deese plantation residence, a few miles from Tallulah, was leveled.

At Bosco, 10 miles south of Monroe, the storm was accompanied by a heavy rain and hail, stones of which were said to have been more than 3 inches thick. Two miles of power lines were leveled near there and crops were beaten down over a wide area. Three squadrons of Army planes, en route from Langley field to the Pacific Coast, were forced to return to Monroe after they had traveled 40 miles westward.

RACE SPILL IS FATAL TO JOCKEY HANFORD

Star Rider, 22, Is Thrown Under Flying Hoofs at Pimlico Track.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

Pimlico Race Track, May 4.—Tossed under the flying hoofs of a large field when his mount stumbled, Bernard (Buddy) Hanford received injuries here late today that resulted in his death. Hanford died at South Baltimore Hospital without regaining consciousness. The 22-year-old rider, who battled his way to the first flight among American jockeys, was fatally injured when his mount, Apprehensive, owned by Mrs. P. Ambrose Clark, stumbled as the field swung into the far turn, threw its head in the air and fell backward. The track ambulance rushed him to the hospital, but he died soon after arrival. His injuries were disclosed as a multiple fracture at the base of the skull.

A crowd of 7,500 witnessed the accident and only a few left the course with the knowledge that the fine jockey had passed. Confirmation of his death shocked the occupants of the press box, the majority of whom were friends of the little horse boy who came out of the West. And many of those who were watching the race through strong glasses were of the opinion that it was Hanford's anxiousness to get his mount to the front that was a factor in the accident.

Within 24 hours Hanford would have been on his way to Louisville, Ky., where he was to ride the Audley Farm's Trace Call in the Kentucky Derby Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Hanford was born in Omaha, Nebr., and first took to the saddle at Arlington Downs, Tex., four years ago. He moved up to Chicago and his keen knowledge of horses and his ability to ride them home in front led to a contract with Roy Pollard, Western sportsman. Hanford signed for three years and moved steadily up the turf ladder. Last June, when his term with Pollard expired, Buddy signed with Preston Burch, of Washington, who operates his own stable.

By quirk of fate, Mr. and Mrs. Pollard saw the accident. The latter virtually collapsed when she saw Han-

Indiana Beer Act Declared Invalid

Hammond Judge Upholds Bottler Denied Wholesale License.

Hammond, Ind., May 4 (A.P.).—Judge Virgil S. Reiter, of the Lake Superior Court, today held the Indiana law regulating the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer to be unconstitutional.

The judge made his ruling on the regulatory law in the case brought by Abe Rosen, of Hammond, to restrain State officials from interfering with his sale of beer. Rosen, proprietor of a bottling works, had been denied a wholesaler's license.

Deputy Attorney General Patrick indicated an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court.

Wilmington Gets First Beer Since Prohibition

Wilmington, Del., May 4 (A.P.).—Beer trucks rolled into Wilmington today, bringing the first 3.2 brew to be sold legally in Delaware since prohibition. The office of Pierre S. Du Pont, State tax commissioner, was crowded with applicants for licenses to sell beer.

The beer bill, signed late yesterday by Gov. Buck, became effective today. Manufacture and sale is restricted to Wilmington, because the rest of the State is dry under local action taken before national prohibition was enacted. Under the new law, however, beer can be shipped into dry territory for private consumption.

JOBS OF 10,682 PUT IN PERIL BY BILL "SLEEPER"

Dismissal of Employes From Over-Quota States Directed

CAPITAL IS AT HEAD OF LISTS AFFECTED

Civil Service Commission Puzzled on How to Administer Clause.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

An innocent appearing clause in the pending independent offices appropriations bill yesterday was the source of concern not only to officials of the Civil Service Commission, who are puzzled how to administer it, but to 10,682 District residents, whose jobs are at stake.

The clause was tacked on to the rewritten 30-year retirement provision by the House Appropriations Committee. It reads:

"In making reductions of personnel due regard shall be given to the apportionment of appointments as provided in the Civil Service act."

How District Is Affected.

Unless a legal way out can be found, officials of the Civil Service Commission said last night they must interpret the provision as directing dismissal first of Federal employes from States having more than their quota of workers. And the District heads this list.

House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan said yesterday he personally is opposed to the provision, but some members of the committee wanted it in and he did not attempt to override them. He said no attempt will be made by the committee to change the language when the bill comes up on the floor next week.

At the Civil Service Commission it was said the apportionment proviso apparently will throw overboard the present scientific rating system, based on efficiency, seniority and marital status. Officials yesterday were busy compiling a few tentative tables, placing employes from the five States having excess of quota at the foot of the lists. They would be the first to go in any Federal agency where discharges were necessary.

Individual Merit Cases.

So far as employes from the District and nearby States are concerned, the only redeeming feature is the fact that under existing law the Civil Service Commission has the right to waive apportionment requirements in individual cases of merit.

The "sleeper" clause is the first attempt to apply apportionment to employes already in the service. Under the present law only appointments are made on an apportionment basis.

The phrase, "due regard shall be given" to State apportionment, car-

Britain Scores Victory On German Trade Pact

London, May 4 (A.P.).—The government again scored over die-hard tariffites in the House of Commons tonight, a resolution approving the Anglo-German trade agreement being carried on the report stage by a vote of 304 to 56.

The opposition was loud during the debate, but was unable to muster enough strength. Liberal members supported the government, while many Laborites abstained from voting.

ENGLISH RIFT THREATENS TO SNAG PARLEYS

Agreements With Italian and Argentine Envoys Are Hindered.

LONDON CRITICIZES ATTITUDE ON BONDS

Conversations Here Go on Harmoniously Despite Shadow Abroad.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The shadow of an Anglo-American economic rift was cast across the negotiations now going on here between President Roosevelt and economic delegates from Italy and Argentina yesterday. Secretary of State Cordell Hull held an impromptu conference with his advisers yesterday afternoon following his discussions with the Argentine delegates, Le Breton and Espil, at the Department of State. The subject of the Secretary's conference was the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement which has seriously shackled the efforts of the delegates from the Buenos Aires government as well as the delegates from this Government to arrive at any kind of American-Argentine trade agreement.

Italian Parley Harmonious.

Shortly before the State Department council, sharp criticism of the attitude taken by this Government with regard to the payment of American Government bonds in gold abroad, was being voiced in London by responsible leaders in the House of Commons. The rapidly growing impasse between Great Britain and this country threatened to seriously compromise whatever good affects the exchange of views between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was able to accomplish.

In the face of these unfavorable symptoms, the conversations between the American Secretary of State and the Italian delegations proceeded harmoniously. There were present at the conference yesterday in addition to Signor Jung and Ambassador Rosso, the following:

Secretary Hull, Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Ambassador to Italy Breckinridge Long, Messrs. William C. Bullitt, James P. Warburg, Charles Taussig, of the Department of State, and the two Italian experts, Dr. Eugenio Anzilotti and Giuseppe del Vecchio.

The discussions yesterday were still confined to the subject of general topics, that will be dealt with on the agenda of the World Economic and Monetary Conference to meet June 12. Signor Jung made a favorable impression on Senator Pittman, who confessed himself "charmed" with the manner and "impressed" with the intelligence of Mussolini's envoy. The political discussions which are expected to have a very large place in the talks this week are to be han-

Two Army Fliers Die As Ship Hits Mountain

Alpine, Tex., May 4 (A.P.).—Two Army fliers burned to death in the wreckage of their attack plane late today when it crashed against a mountainside in the Ord Range, 12 miles east of Alpine. They were identified as Lieut. Wayne Gardner, pilot, and Sergt. A. H. Huntley, from Fort Crockett at Galveston.

Auto Accident Jury's Bus In Crash on Way to Scene

Coupe Collides With Heavy Vehicle Containing Jurors in Suit of Senator Schall's Son to Recover $90,000 Damages.

En route to the scene of an accident in which Douglas Schall, son of Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota, was badly injured, a jury sitting in the court of Justice Joseph W. Cox, District Supreme Court, yesterday was given a taste of the "real thing" when a small coupe crashed into the bus in which the jurors were riding.

The jurors were being taken to the Edmonston road and Jefferson avenue, East Riverdale, Md., where a coupe driven by Schall, then a student at the Naval Academy, collided with a heavily laden Standard Oil truck. Suit for $90,000 for the injuries he then sustained has been on trial for two weeks in the District Supreme Court and the attorneys thought it would be a good idea to have the jurors see the actual scene of the accident.

Yesterday, Assistant Chief Deputy United States Marshal John Clarkson was taking the jurors there when they staged their own accident. No one was hurt, though a woman passenger in the coupe was shaken up. The accident happened at Sixth and D streets northeast.

Schall, now a student at the Georgetown University Law School, was forced to curtail his proposed naval career because of the accident. He sustained such serious injuries his right leg is shorter than the other, and his left arm is almost useless. Both sides contend the other was speeding at the time of the accident.

The case will be concluded today. The accident happened September 30, 1930, when Schall and a young lady companion were en route to Washington from the Naval Academy.

Roosevelt Urges Pay Raises as Link Toward Recovery of Country

Britain Asks Special Tariff "Safeguards"

MacDonald Voices First Official Word on Truce Plans.

London, May 4 (A.P.).—The first official expression of Great Britain's attitude toward the American proposal for a tariff truce was voiced by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today when he informed the House of Commons that Britain was asking for special "safeguards."

Mr. MacDonald, reporting to the House on his economic discussions with President Roosevelt in Washington, also revealed that discussion of the war debts had been barred from the program of the World Economic Conference.

American authorities in London, who earlier in the day had asserted that neither Britain nor France was in full accord with the tariff truce proposal, were somewhat more optimistic tonight after a conference between Mr. MacDonald and Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at Large.

Firm hope was expressed that an agreement on the truce pending the France Waits Return of Herriot to Learn Debt Outlook.

Paris, May 4 (A.P.).—The Senate was warned today that it must choose between economies or inflation and that the government has been unable to obtain assurances from President Roosevelt of a moratorium on the debt payment due the United States in June.

Senator Henry Berenger, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, demanded to know whether the government was asking a 90 per cent reduction in the war debts to meet the reduction in reparations granted Germany at the Lausanne conference.

"Our gesture of magnificent chivalry is not yet understood in Washington," he said. "Was the attitude of the American Senate modified by the Herriot misson? I ask explanation of this point."

Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour replied that the senator had asked "embarrassing questions for

CONGRESS TO SPEED RAILROAD PROGRAM

Leaders Move for Enactment of Roosevelt Plan at This Session.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt's emergency program for rehabilitating the railroads during a year's suspension of the antitrust laws was laid before Congress yesterday, and Democratic leaders took immediate steps to push it to enactment at the special session.

Working until 3 o'clock yesterday morning at the White House, the President whipped into final form his 350 word message, asking Congress to create a Federal coordinator to work out immediate economies and permanent financial reorganization of the rail systems, repeal the recapture clause of the 1920 transportation act, and place railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposal is based on the President's campaign speech made last September in Salt Lake City, and is one of the most important parts of his emergency program.

Both the Senate and House were attending during the reading of his message on the important problem. Immediately afterward legislation to carry out the President's recommendations was introduced by Senator Robinson, party leader, and by Chairman Rayburn, who announced hearings on the administration measures.

President on Air To Tell of Plans

Also Sunday Will Review Accomplishments of Administration.

Again going direct to the Nation, President Roosevelt in a radio address Sunday night will review the accomplishments of the administration since March 4 and outline what he expects to accomplish by the time Congress adjourns.

Mr. Roosevelt will speak from 9:45 p. m. to 10 o'clock May 7 over a Nation-wide hook-up. The microphones will be set up in the old diplomatic reception room on the first floor of the White House. This speech will be the second direct talk to the people since his inauguration, the first having been his explanation of the banking holiday.

The announcement of the speech Sunday explains the cancellation of the radio broadcast plans for his talk last night before the United States Chamber of Commerce. It was pointed out that he did not want to speak over the radio too often, and that by waiting until Sunday night he would have more time to prepare his talk.

Picket Demanding Help Found to Have $1,080

Chicago, May 4 (A.P.).—When the police arrested John Martinshek today for picketing a relief station with demands for "$5 per week cash relief" they found $1,080 cash and Denver bank books with a balance of $3,500 in his pockets.

MONEY IS DEMANDED IN THREAT ON WIDOW

Crude Note Slipped Under Door Declares Life Is in Danger.

A crudely written note, demanding money on threat of death, was mysteriously slipped beneath the apartment door of Mrs. Margaret Hatton, attractive 31-year-old widow, sometime late yesterday, resulting last night in a police guard in front of her home, 3302 M street northwest, and an extensive investigation by detectives of the Seventh Precinct.

Written in red pencil on both sides of a cheap sheet of stationery, the missive was found by Mrs. Hatton when she returned from downtown shortly after 4 p. m. All but a corner of the paper was pushed under the door of her second-floor apartment. The edges of the note were scorched—a tradition of the "underworld" meaning death, police explained.

The initials "M. H." appeared at the top of the paper. The note read:

"Have the money tomorrow night—or else. Either have it here or at the terminal at Rosslyn, Va., at 9 p. m. Your life is in danger. Do this or you will die."

No signature was attached and Mrs. Hatton could give no clew to its source. Residents in the building testified that no one had been seen in the apartment house throughout the afternoon.

So crudely was the note written that Mrs. Hatton was at first unable to decipher it. She went directly to the Seventh Precinct Station and turned it over to police.

Mrs. Hatton, a pretty brunette, was the wife of Walter Hatton, killed last February when struck by a motorcycle on a Virginia highway across Key Bridge.

Mexican Minister Pani To Confer With Calles

Nogales, Ariz., May 4 (A.P.).—Alberto J. Pani, minister of finance of Mexico, entered the United States at this border point today and left this afternoon for Ensenada, Baja California, to hold a conference with former President Calles of Mexico. From Ensenada, Senor Pani will go to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt on economic matters concerning the United States and Mexico.

Texas Bill Containing Repeal Machinery Wins

Austin, Tex., May 4 (A.P.).—The Texas Legislature today passed a bill setting up machinery for submission of the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the voters August 26.

Both proponents and opponents of the amendment are to hold mass meetings in Austin June 27 to select candidates for convention delegates. The voters would choose between them August 26 and the convention would be held November 24, when the State's final vote would be cast for or against repeal. One delegate would be named from each of the State's 31 senatorial districts. The bill now goes to Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Audience Cheers Banquet Speech of President.

CUT THROATS ARE WARNED

Cooperative Business at Premium Under New Policy.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Roosevelt carried his battle for economic recovery direct to the banquet board of American industry last night, with a plea for graduated wage increases to keep pace with reflated living costs, and with a vigorous and unequivocal pledge of Federal cooperation in trade agreements to eliminate cutthroat competitive practices branded as contrary to sound public policy.

The address, delivered before the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington Auditorium, was widely interpreted by business leaders in the audience as a firm pledge that group organization within particular industries would encounter the beneficent guidance and assistance of the administration in efforts to advance living standards through cooperative agreements, to shorten the hours of labor, to distribute employment, and otherwise to maintain workable national standards of wages and working conditions.

Vigorously Applauded.

The President's declaration of policy, which required less than 10 minutes in delivery, was vigorously applauded, particularly at those sections urging wage increases and pledging Government aid in a new and vigorous program of industrial stabilization.

An audience of some 1,500 leaders in business and finance, representing the keymen of industry in every section of the country, followed the President's words with tense interest.

There was no discussion or intimation of the President's intentions regarding inflation.

Neither was there mention of the administrative plan worked out for the farm program soon to become law.

Departing from the text of his address for a few minutes to report generally upon the progress of his international conversations here during the past ten days, Mr. Roosevelt said he was greatly encouraged by the disposition of European and South American leaders to pool their energies, in a great scheme for world recovery.

Wage Rises Too Slow.

"Past experience indicates that when the price level begins to rise after a long period of declining commodity prices, wages which have been previously curtailed lag behind the rise in the price level," the President said in outlining three major requests of the domestic industrial leaders.

The Chief Executive's second re-

ANTITRUST STATUTE SUSPENSION DRAWN

Congress Group Has Plan Designed to Promote Business Recovery.

(Associated Press.)

Only a few hours before President Roosevelt last night addressed the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, an unofficial committee of administration congressional advisers and business leaders had completed drafting a plan for a three-year suspension of the antitrust laws to permit trade agreement for restricted production subject to the approval of a Government regulating agency. This proposal awaited the Chief Executive's study.

Among the authors of the plan were Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, outstanding congressional spokesman on administration labor policy, and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Dickinson. They did not indicate in what form labor's safeguards in the bill were framed.

Divergent Viewpoints.

The industrial desire for this general plan as expressed at the chamber meetings was seen to merge two viewpoints: First, the long held desire for modification of the antitrust laws to get away from the ruinous competitive conditions, wasteful and expensive both for which the Federal prohibition on combines with its threat of punitive triple damages to violators, is blamed by business; second, the 30-hour work week bill pending in Congress, together with the wage and production control proposals of Frances Perkins, the Secretary of labor, to which a large section of the business community is opposed. The President has said no word on this bill; it is not now on the emergency administration program; it is subject of most heated controversy in Congress, nevertheless it is regarded as a constant threat unless business can attain the bill's objective voluntarily.

Silas H. Starwn, of Chicago, former president of the chamber, was one of those who today bespoke modification of the Sherman antitrust act. He was emphatic in opposing any more intervention of Government in business, and urged "fullest freedom to individual action within limits defined by a Government agency."

Tacit Modification.

He recommended the plan, much talked of but never acted upon during the Hoover administration, of having an agency like the Federal Trade Commission give approval "express or tacit" of the legality of trade agreements, this approval to immunize the participants from criminal prosecution and responsibility for triple damages.

William L. Sweet, Rumford, R. I., manufacturer, advocated extension of the trade practice agreement system now in limited operation under the trade commission. He saw an alternative of eventual Government control and ownership.

Aside from this absorbing issue the chamber heard from Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor-designate of the Farm Credit Administration, an outline of his plan for an eventual complete system of cooperative farm credit associations. Morgenthau termed essential adoption of a definite land utilization program—retirement to forest, grazing or other purpose, of the poorer agricultural land—if ultimate order is to be established in agriculture.

From Canada, Dr. John W. Ross, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, brought an optimistic view of the Roosevelt international conferences. He said he believed they foretold a successful conclusion for the London economic conference next month.

Text of President's Talk Before Industry Leaders

The text of President Roosevelt's address last night before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States follows:

Because of a national and a world situation which has taken every moment of my time during the past two months I have had to forego the privilege of discussing many methods of common interest with the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. For the same reason, frankly, I have had neither time nor opportunity to prepare for you tonight any complete phase of our national problems.

I do not have to tell you that the Government of the United States in its executive and legislative branches has been seeking and obtaining action relating to our own internal economy and to initiation of a cooperative spirit among all the nations of the world. We have sought through moderate and wise measures to increase the volume of trade, to give employment to the unemployed and to effect a broad elevation to commodity prices.

I present to you three requests. During the past few weeks we have witnessed with a slight but definite upturn in most industries a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices. Past experience indicates that when the price level begins to rise after a long period of declining commodity prices, wages which have been previously curtailed lag behind the rise in the price level.

That result has in the past imposed upon those who labor an unfair burden; has prevented their just and equitable share in the profits of industry and has limited the purchasing power of the overwhelming majority of our population.

I, therefore, ask you, who represent in all probability the majority of the employers of the Nation, to refrain from further reduction in the wages of your employes and I ask you also to increase your wage scales in conformity with and simultaneous with the rise of the level of commodity prices in so far as this lies within your power.

It is a simple fact that the average of the wage scale of the Nation has gone down during the past four years more rapidly than the cost of living. It is essential, as a matter of national justice, that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living and that this process should begin now and not later.

My second request has to do with bringing order out of chaos. During the past four years what previously had been considered to be an orderly industrial system has degenerated into one of the highest disorder. You and I acknowledge the existence of unfair methods of competition, of cut-throat prices and of general chaos. You and I agree that this condition must be rectified and that order must be restored. The attainment of that objective depends upon your willingness to cooperate with one another to this end and also your willingness to cooperate with your Government.

In almost every industry an overwhelming majority of the units of the industry are wholly willing to work together to prevent overproduction, to prevent unfair wages, to eliminate improper working conditions. In the past success in attaining these objectives has been prevented by a small minority of units in many industries. I can assure you that you will have the cooperation of your Government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to a sound public policy.

My third request is of a somewhat different nature though it has an important bearing on the other two. It is human nature to view a problem in terms of the particular existence and interest of the company or the business with which one is personally associated. It is, therefore, not unnatural that the various industries of the country should apply this same point of view to themselves. And yet I call your attention to what must be clear to all of us; that each and all of you in your own units and your own industries are but an integral part of a great whole and that our national economy must be expressed in terms of the whole rather than in terms of the unit.

It is ultimately of little avail to any of you to be temporarily prosperous while others are permanently depressed. I ask that you translate your welfare into the welfare of the whole, that you view recovery in terms of the nation rather than in terms of a particular industry, that you have the vision to lay aside special and selfish interests, to think of and act for a well-rounded national recovery.

May I take this opportunity to express my special appreciation of the fine cooperation which I have had from your president, Mr. Harriman, and from his associates. He has felt free to call on me and I have felt free to call on him. In that spirit the Nation is working itself out of its troubles. In that spirit we shall succeed.

LIEUT. DREISONSTOK ORDERED TO RETIRE

Naval Expert's Method for Navigating Has Changed Maritime Art.

Lieut. Comdr. Joseph Y. Dreisonstok, U. S. N., one of the Navy's leading experts on navigation and author of "Dreisonstok's Navigation Tables for Mariners and Aviators," has received orders for retirement for disability, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

He has been attached to the Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department two years as chief of the Division of Maritime Security and later as chief of the Division of Research.

A native of Washington, Lieut. Comdr. Dreisonstok lives at 3905 Morrison street northwest. He attended local schools and George Washington University prior to entrance into the Naval Academy in 1912. He saw service in the Haitian, Dominican and Mexican campaigns.

Commenting on Commander Dreisontok's retirement Admiral Walter R. Gherardi, U. S. N., hydrographer of the Navy, stated yesterday:

"In 1929, Lieut. Comdr. Dreisonstok produced a new and short method of navigation which has practically revolutionized that art. The method and tables for use in connection with it were given to the Navy Department, and Dreisonstok's navigation tables for mariners and aviators, published by the Hydrographic Office of the Navy as H. O. No. 208, has become widely known and is in general use throughout the world, having been translated into German, Polish, Spanish, Portugese and Chinese."

Lieut. Comdr. Dreisonstok also participated in development of various navigational instruments, the most important of which is a new form of parallel motion instrument for use in aerial navigation which is being produced by the Bureau of Aeronautics under the name of Mark 11 Protractor.

Roosevelts May Attend Langley Day Air Meet

President and Mrs. Roosevelt will attend the Langley Day air meet next Sunday at the College Park Airport, if "official duties do not interfere," Chester Warrington, president of the Washington Air Derby Association, has announced.

Mr. Warrington visited the White House yesterday and extended an invitation not only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, but to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Early and Col. and Mrs. Marvin H. McIntyre, to witness the twelve events in the air meet. In addition to the Presidential party, many people prominent in national aeronautical circles are expected to be on hand for the meet.

4,000 COMING HERE FOR JOB 'CONGRESS'

Parley of Farmers, Trade Unionists and Others Opens Tomorrow.

Promising a "new Declaration of Independence," 4,000 farmers, trade unionists and unemployed workers began to converge on Washington last night for the hitherto unballyhooed "Continental Congress for Economic Reconstruction."

The conclave will begin tomorrow morning at Washington Auditorium and continue through Sunday night. Senator Lynn Frazier, of North Dakota, and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, will address the meeting, it was announced.

Three and a half million persons are claimed to be represented. A program will be drafted for unemployment and economic security, agriculture, taxation, money and banking, international relations.

"Pressure Group" Planned.

A "permanent pressure group" to exert influence for adoption of the program will be created, delegates declared last night.

A special train will steam into Union Station at midnight tonight, railroad officials confirmed, bearing nearly 1,000 delegates from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Early tomorrow another special will arrive from Chicago bearing 500 delegates from the Middle West. Many others were coming in last night and today by bus, private auto and on foot.

Bonus payment advocates will be represented, it was declared, and many of the delegates are expected to take part in the B. E. F. mass meeting at the park at Third street and Maine avenue southwest.

Organizations Represented.

The National Farmers Association, Farmers Union, National Federation of Unemployed Workers and a score of other groups are said to be represented.

Members of the national arrangements committee arriving today include Emil Rieve, president of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers Union, who will open the congress on Saturday; Norman Thomas, Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee; Henry J. Ohl, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor.

Clarence Senior, one of the leaders, declared that all applications for credentials from the Communist party and its Trade Union Unity League have been rejected.

Two Men Die in Truck Crash.

South Bend, Ind., May 4 (A.P.).—James Erdmans, 25, and his brother, Clarence, 21, both of Three Rivers, Mich., were killed today when their truck, loaded with hogs, collided near here with a truck piloted by Olaf Johnson, 48, of Detroit. Johnson was held pending an investigation. The crash killed and injured a number of the hogs.

T. S. Stribling Is Winner Of Pulitzer Novel Award

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—A Tennessee novelist, two university professors, a newspaperman-turned-playwright, and an Illinois-Connecticut poet have won the $6,000 in Pulitzer prizes in letters for 1932.

The awards, as announced tonight at the annual dinner of the friends of the Princeton Library, are:

For the best novel published during the year by an American author, $1,000, to "The Store" by T. S. Stribling.

For the original American play, performed in New York, which shall best represent the educational value and power of the State, $1,000, to "Both Your Houses" by Maxwell Anderson.

For the best book of the year upon the history of the United States, $2,000, to "The Significance of Sections in American History" by Frederick J. Turner.

For the best American biography teaching patriotism and unselfish services to the people, illustrated by an eminent example, excluding as too obvious the names of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, $1,000, to "Grover Cleveland" by Allan Nevins.

For the best volume of verses published during the year by an American author, $1,000, to "Conquistador" by Archibald MacLeish.

Professor Turner, who was 70 years old, died in California last year. Nevins and Anderson are in their early forties. Stribling is 52.

HUGHES PROMISES SPEED ON APPEALS

Chief Justice Addresses Opening Session of Law Institute.

Expedition of appeals in Federal criminal cases was promised yesterday by Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, in an address before the American Law Institute at its opening session yesterday in the Mayflower Hotel.

The Chief Justice declared there is little excuse for delaying appeals in criminal cases, and attributed delays to courts of the first instance. Stipulations for delay, he said, are too readily obtained. "Probably there is no greater reproach to the administration of justice in this country than the delay in criminal appeals," he said.

George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General and president of the institute, described its work during the ten years of its existence. Restatement of the law of contracts, recently published, will be followed by others on the law of real and personal property and trusts, he said.

During the three-day meeting, tentative drafts of restatements of the law of agency, trusts and torts will be considered. The meeting will close tomorrow night with a dinner in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel.

ROOSEVELT URGES INCREASED WAGES

quest was that industry shoulder the task of restoring economic balance and financial stability within the United States by intelligent cooperation and enlightened cooperative leadership.

"You and I acknowledge the existence of unfair methods of competition, of cut-throat prices and of general chaos. You and I agree that this condition must be rectified and that order must be restored. The attainment of that objective depends upon your willingness to cooperate with one another to this end and also your willingness to cooperate with your Government," President Roosevelt said.

Asks Broader View.

The third request was for a generally broader viewpoint in the business man's appraisal and estimate of national policies. Whereas a decision might apear questionable or unwise from the viewpoint of selfish interest, it may yet command rational support when considered in relation to the welfare of the Nation as a whole.

"I ask you to translate your welfare into the welfare of the whole, that you view recovery in terms of the Nation rather than in terms of a particular industry, that you have the vision to lay aside special and selfish interests, to think of and act for a well-rounded national recovery."

In concluding his address the President acknowledged the cooperation of the present executives of the Chamber of Commerce in the recent crises.

"In that spirit the Nation is working itself out of its troubles. In that spirit we shall succeed."

Although the business men assembled for the dinner had hoped for a clear definition of the administration's policy on inflation and the new farm program, President Roosevelt left his expectant audience without a reference to either policy.

To many the address was a keen disappointment in this respect.

The plea for wage increases carries a wide appeal both among industrial leaders and to the populace generally.

In the view of the business community, however, there are a number of more immediately pressing problems on which guiding light might well be shed. The address did not serve to clear up major uncertainties which restrain business and banking confidence.

Skirting the problem of industrial management through group organization within particular industries, the President assured the gathering that the Government would cooperate effectively in restraining the recalcitrant members who disrupt attempted trade agreements. He did not allude, however, to the problem of the antitrust laws, which heretofore have proved the stumbling block in the path toward such agreements.

Government to Cooperate.

"I can assure you that you will have the cooperation of your Government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to sound public policy."

There was no allusion, however, to any practical steps in the direction of making such governmental policies effective.

Coupled with his plea for wage advances wherever possible, President Roosevelt asked for an immediate effective check on pay roll reductions.

"It is a simple fact that the average of the wage scale of the Nation has gone down during the past four years more rapidly than the cost of living. It is essential as a matter of national justice that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living and that this process should begin now and not later."

In explaining his inability to discuss 'any complete phase of our national problems," the President said that the pressure of his international conversations during the last fortnight had required practically every minute of his time.

"I do not have to tell you that the Government of the United States in its executive and legislative branches has been seeking and obtaining action relating to our own internal economy and to initiation of a cooperative spirit among the nations of the world. We have sought through moderate and wise measures to increase the volume of trade, to give employment to the unemployed and to effect a broad elevation of commodity prices."

Approaching the problem of wage scale, Mr. Roosevelt said that the past three weeks have revealed evidences of "a slight but definite upturn in most industries, a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices."

He ventured no prediction how long these tendencies might be sustained beyond the normal seasonal upturn which comes every spring.

$10 Offered for Liner To Use as Club House

San Francisco, May 4 (A.P.).—Ten dollars bid for an ocean liner; who'll make it 15? The Matson Navigation Co. announced receipt of an offer from Schenectady, N. Y., of $10 for its liner Wilhelmina, 451 feet long, which is to be replaced by a new ship. The bidder, whose name was withheld, wants the Wilhelmina for a club house.

Well Fed

Bears and Wolf Ignore Youth Who Leaps in Cage After Dinner.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 4 (A.P.).—William Eckhardt, 19, can thank his lucky stars for the meekness of polar bears with full stomachs.

Apparently disconsolate, the lad leaped into the barless bear den at Washington Park Zoo yesterday. As he lay in a 15-foot moat, a nearby polar bear sniffed disdainfully, but made no move to attack. A wolf was even more shy.

Eckhardt, who evidently intended ending his life, suddenly changed his mind and began to scream. Caretakers lowered a ladder and rescued him.

Today the reason for the animals' behavior leaked out. If the bears and wolves hadn't been fed a hearty meal an hour before Eckhardt's leap, said zoo attendants, the results might have been disastrous.

Eckhardt was held in a hospital for observation.

VETERANS TO STAGE BONUS-PARK PARLEY

1933 Drive for Payment to Get Under Way at Meeting Tonight.

The 1933 drive for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus and for restoration of veterans' benefits eliminated by the administration economy plan, will get under way tonight with a mass meeting in the large public park at Third street and Maine avenue southwest.

A permit for the meeting and for one tomorrow night was issued late yesterday by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, in charge of public buildings and parks. The meeting was called by John H. Newlin, acting commander of the B. E. F., and Harold Foulkrod, legislative agent.

Many delegates of the Continental Congress for Economic Reconstruction, convening here tomorrow, are expected to attend tonight's meeting.

Representatives Lundeen and Shoemaker, both of Minnesota, will be the chief speakers at tonight's meeting.

The Veterans National Liaison Committee again conferred with Louis M. Howe, presidential secretary, yesterday, but retired from the White House without comment.

However, Newlin, speaking for the B. E. F., which is not aligned though sympathetic with the liaison committee, said that an answer on veterans' demands is expected from the White House before May 9 and he inferred that if a favorable reply was not forthcoming a general bonus march on Washington was definitely in the cards.

Green Attacks Hitler As Oppressor of Labor

(Associated Press.)

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor charged last night, "The last semblance of voluntary, free, independent trade unionism in Germany has been brutally wiped out by the Hitler regime." He announced his organization would protest to the United States Government.

Green said that the action had aroused strong antagonism among American working people and that the federation's executive council had voted to "extend to the German trade unionists all support possible."

CONGRESS LEADERS SPEED ACTION ON RAIL PROGRAM

ure would begin before the House Interstate Commerce Committee Monday.

"The steam railways still constitute main arteries of commerce in the United States," Mr. Roosevelt said in his message. "At this time, however, available tariff is not sufficient profitably to utilize existing railway facilities and the supplementary facilities provided by new forms of transportation.

"Our broad problem is so to coordinate all agencies of transportation as to maintain adequate service. I am not yet ready to submit to the Congress a comprehensive plan for permanent legislation."

Suggesting "three emergency steps can and should be taken at this special session," the President said, that "experience gained during the balance of this year will greatly assist the Government and the carriers in preparation for a more permanent and a more comprehensive national transportation policy at the regular session of the Congress in 1934."

President Roosevelt recommended the repeal of the recapture clause, which would cancel $361,000,000 in Government claims against railroads for excess profits. This fund was to be pooled in the Treasury for loans to weak lines. The Interstate Commerce Commission has pointed out, he said, that it is "unworkable and impracticable."

Second, he proposed adoption of the Rayburn bill to place some 600 railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to block mergers and consolidations of lines without Government sanction. The creation of a Federal coordinator of transportation to work with three organized groups of carriers in the East, South and West, with a view to eliminating duplicated services, and unnecessary expenses, and laying the foundation for permanent rehabilitation, formed the third and probably the most important part of his request.

Labor Is Provided For.

Not unmindful of labor's interest in the curtailment of services that might result in wholesale dismissal of employes, the President said:

"Such coordinator should also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage."

Considerable opposition already has been voiced by railway labor organizations, which claim that by eliminating services, hundreds of employes would become jobless.

The President delayed asking for the legislation, in order that this subject might be studied. The bill introduced by Rayburn, however, provides that the coordinator shall meet with representatives of labor organizations and prohibits infringement on the railway labor act or the obligations imposed under it through contracts with labor organizations.

The antitrust laws are suspended for a year to permit the coordinator to carry out the purpose of the bill. President Roosevelt is given the right to continue the act for another year if necessary.

Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is likely to be named by President Roosevelt as the coordinator. The Rayburn bill provides that a commissioner may be named for one year, and then resume his place on the commission. This special provision apparently confirms the report that Eastman will take the office, since he was one of the authors of the legislation.

Text of Roosevelt's Message on Railroads

President Roosevelt's railroad message to Congress follows:

To the Congress:

The steam railways still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States. At this time, however, available traffic is not sufficient profitably to utilize existing railway facilities and the supplementary facilities provided by new forms of transportation.

Our broad problem is so to coordinate all agencies of transportation as to maintain adequate service. I am not yet ready to submit to the Congress a comprehensive plan for permanent legislation.

I do believe, however, that three emergency steps can and should be taken at this special session of the Congress.

First, I recommend the repeal of the recapture provisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission act. The commission has pointed out that existing provisions are unworkable and impracticable.

Second, railway holding companies should be placed definitely under the regulation and control of the Interstate Commerce Commission in like manner as the railways themselves.

Third, as a temporary emergency measure, I suggest the creation of a Federal coordinator of transportation who, working with groups of railroads, will be able to encourage, promote or require action on the part of carriers, in order to avoid duplication of service, prevent waste and encourage financial reorganizations. Such a coordinator should also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage.

The experience gained during the balance of this year will greatly assist the Government and the carriers in preparation for a more permanent and a more comprehensive national transportation policy at the regular session of the Congress in 1934.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

PRESIDENT TO OPEN PROGRESS EXHIBIT

Date of Chicago Exposition Is Changed to Suit His Convenience.

President Roosevelt plans to open the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, it was announced yesterday after Presidents Rufus C. Dawes, of the exposition, had advanced the date of the opening to May 27 to fit in with the President's schedule.

Mr. Dawes called on the President yesterday to invite him to the opening of the celebration, which was set for June 1. President Roosevelt told him that he planned to go to Annapolis to present diplomas to the midshipmen on that date. Mr. Dawes then offered to advance the opening day of the exposition, and the President accepted the invitation, pointing out that the exigencies of the congressional situation might still compel him to remain in Washington.

The President will also open the Illinois waterway on the same day, it was said. He does not plan to spend the night in Chicago, but will arrive by train in the morning and leave on the train that night.

Senators McNary and Steiwer, of Oregon, also called on the President yesterday to present plans for the development of the Columbia River Valley. Finding him busy with his Chamber of Commerce speech, they reported, they spoke only briefly and will return again to present the proposal.

Senator Bulkley, of Ohio, and a delegation from that State also called at the White House yesterday to ask the President to attend a meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs in Cleveland on May 20.

Pointing out that about 200,000 men will be thrown out of work on July 1 unless Federal appropriations for road construction in the States is continued, Senator Hayden and Gov. Blood of Utah also called at the White House. They told the President that about $250,000,000 is needed to carry on the work as it has been in the past, they said.

Smith Asks $5,000 For Lowell Probe

Resolution Referred to Accounts Committee by Rainey.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Smith (Democrat), Virginia, yesterday introduced a resolution asking for $5,000 for the House Judiciary Committee to investigate official conduct of Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Boston. The investigation was instituted by him and approved by the House.

Lowell was impeached by Smith in the House for his freeing of George Crawford, Negro, on a habeas corpus proceeding, after Gov. Ely of Massachusetts had granted Crawford's extradition to Virginia to face an indictment for the murder of two white women.

Speaker Rainey referred the measure to the Accounts Committee.

ried in the language of the bill, was interpreted by officials of the commission as calling for "strict compliance with" apportionment requirements. They conceded, of course, that there might be a legal loophole.

House Appropriations Chairman Buchanan said "he did not expect much to come of the provision."

Unfairness Charged.

"It all depends on how it is administered," he said.

Nevertheless, 10,714 Federal employes who hail from the District, which has an apportionment quota of only 132, are not encouraged over the prospect.

They point out that it is not fair in all cases that they should be apportioned to the District merely because they took their examinations here. Many of them have lived in Washington only a few years, where Federal workers with 20 years' residence are charged to the apportionment of the under-quota State where they originally applied for a Federal job.

States in excess of their quotas were listed by the Civil Service Commission yesterday as follows:

State.	Quota.	Employed.
District	132	10,714
Maryland	441	2,044
Virginia	655	2,254
Iowa	668	741
Vermont	97	124

It was stated that New Hampshire is exactly up to its quota, while West Virginia lacks only two.

Civil Service Test Near For Pharmacists' Posts

Applications for the positions of junior pharmacist and assistant pharmaceutic aid to fill vacancies in the Veterans' Administration and the Public Health Service will be accepted by the Civil Service Commission up to May 23, it was announced yesterday.

Applicants must submit evidence that they are full-licensed pharmacists. Entrance salaries are $2,000 and $1,620 per year, respectively, less economy cut.

New Deficiency Bill Is Sent to Senate

$30,000 for Capitol Power Plant Is Largest of Expense Items.

The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate the $46,800 third deficiency bill, second of the appropriation measures scheduled for consideration at the special session of Congress.

The largest appropriation in the small supply measure calls for $30,000 for the Capitol power plant.

Another item of $14,391 provides for payments of judgments on claims against the United States. Passage followed two days of general debate, not confined to the bill.

3 ADJUDGED GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Verdict Returned Against Rose Welch and 2 Men Accessories.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 4.—A jury in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court late this afternoon returned a verdict of manslaughter against Miss Rose Welch, tried for the murder of Howard Stonesifer, 28, former watchman at the Naval Academy. Howard Givens and Irving Ford, taxicab drivers, tried on accessory charges, also were found guilty of manslaughter.

The jury deliberated 40 minutes. It recommended mercy of the court. Judge Nicholas H. Green said he would reserve sentence for the time being. The maximum penalty for manslaughter in Maryland is ten years in the penitentiary.

Stonesifer met death on the night of last February 14. His charred body was found in the ruins of his home destroyed by fire. He gave a party there on the fatal night, Miss Welch, Edith Brandenberg, Leona Swink and Givens and Ford, being the guests.

Evidence was that the party was marked by considerable drinking and terminted in a brawl between Miss Welch and Stonesifer, who it was shown had been close friends. Miss Welch seemed to resent Stonesifer's attentions that night, and admitted throwing milk bottles and other missiles. She denied that any of the articles struck him, as testified by Miss Brandenberg, state witness. She said further that when the party broke up and she started for home with Givens and Ford, Stonesifer was in a coma, a condition not infrequent with him when he had been drinking. She said he had been drinking heavily since losing his position at the Naval Academy. Miss Brandenberg's statments as to the alleged death blow were uncorroborated, while the testimony of Givens and Ford agreed substantially with that of Miss Welch.

Givens and Ford also are under indictment for arson. County Prosecutor A. Theodore Brady is handling the case on the theory that Givens and Ford, aware that Stonesifer was injured fatally, returned and set fire to the bungalow to hide the crime.

Children representing classes from the kindergarten to the sixth grade will participate. Sleepy youngsters, the sandman and good fairies comprise this scene, one of the many to be offered tonight.

STATE DEPARTMENT STARTS BROCK HUNT

Seeks Pseudo Clergyman and 2 Capital Boys in England.

An inquiry was begun yesterday by the State Department as to the whereabouts of the "Rev." H. Priestly Brock and two Washington boys, with whom he vanished overseas on March 4, The Post learned last night.

A search, apparently unavailing, was begun for the trio early in April by the Rev. George Dow, head of the Episcopal City Mission here, through which agency the two boys—Robert and Richard Vinall, 16 and 15—were given into the custody of Brock, also was determined by The Post.

The American Embassy in London probably will be asked today to begin a quest for the two lads and the man who took them on the sudden trip across the ocean to his claimed motherland, Great Britain.

Sailing Is Established.

Brock closed the school he had started at Cockeyville, Md., a Baltimore suburb, on March 3. In a telegram he told servants to send the boys—most of them Washington children—home. He had left about the first of the month with the two Vinall boys, declaring he was going to Roosevelt inauguration ceremonies.

On March 4, passport records reveal, the two lads sailed from New York on a passenger liner for England. The passport was taken out by the elder of the two lads.

State Department officials anticipate little difficulty in locating the trio, inasmuch as British police maintain a strict surveillance of all aliens entering the country, requiring registry at entry and after two months.

Postcard Is Received.

Late in April a playmate of one of the Vinall boys, who lives near the site of the former Cockeysville School, received a postcard with a boyish message scrawled on it. The postcard was postmarked London and gave a return address of the Shaftesbury Hotel, a middle class hostelry in the English capital.

Meanwhile, Robert Vinall, Bureau of Engraving plate printer, father of the two boys and of another boy and a girl, is greatly concerned about their welfare, but has declared that "the matter is being taken care of."

Yesterday was the first time the State Department began to take an interest in the incident of the boys' disappearance inasmuch as no formal request had been made for any action.

Senate Acts to Cut Big Rail Salaries

Loan Measure Restricts Wages by Companies Seeking Funds.

(Associated Press.)

Steps to force railroad, bank and other large corporations to slash big salaries paid their officers were taken by the Senate yesterday in passing a bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to purchase or make loans on preferred stock of insurance companies.

The measure as amended and sent to the House carried a provision prohibiting future loans by the R. F. C. to any corporation paying a salary to an individual exceeding $17,500.

The salary restriction was proposed by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusets, and was interpreted by senators as meaning that many railroads and banks, in order to obtain further loans, must reduce present salaries sharply.

DIED

SHEAHAN—On Thursday, May 4, 1933, at his residence, 144 E street southeast, JAMES E., beloved husband of the late Mary L. Sheahan (nee Connolly), brother of Mrs. Thomas A. Hughes. dread interlude of unbroken silence between the kidnaping and the anxiously awaited first contact, Peggy's mother broadcast her first open appeal to the abductors, penciled in her own hand on a scrap of brown paper:

"If it is necessary to take Peggy in an automobile, please give her some gum, because she is subject to car sickness.

"Regarding her food, she likes all kinds of meat and is very fond of milk. Don't give her any turnips or spinach. She does not like them and please do not force them on her.

"Tell Peggy I wish her to be a good girl and do just what she is told. She loves nothing more than a puppy or a kitten to play with. Please try to put her to bed at 8 o'clock."

Telephone Call Confessed.

Columbus, Ohio, May 4 (A.P.).—Police said James A. Griffin, 29, Clinton, Ind., salesman, was taken into custody here tonight, and that he admitted he had made a telephone call to the home of 10-year-old Margaret McMath in Harwichport, Mass.

While Massachusetts authorities placed little credence in the man's telephoned statement in which he indicated he knew where the kidnaped child is hidden, Columbus police held him in city prison pending further investigation and declined to reveal all that he had told them.

North Adams, Mass., May 4 (A.P.). The Cheshire barracks of the State police tonight broadcast an order to stop a coupe with Rhode Island license plates, driven by a Negro and carrying a white girl, about 10, as a passenger. Police were asked to halt the car to investigate if the child could be Margaret McMath, kidnaped Harwichport girl.

Negro Thanks Jurymen For Not Giving 'Justice'

Corsicana, Tex., May 4 (A.P.).—"I thanks you jurymen for turning me loose," Dan Lewis, aged Negro, said today when a verdict of acquital was returned in district court for the slaying of Cleveland Crawford, another Negro, a few weeks ago.

"What do you think about the verdict" a member of the jury queried. "I figured if I got justice, it'd been one or two years," was Lewis' reply.

NATIONAL FARMERS TO STRIKE MAY 13

Des Moines Parley Results in Unanimous Vote for Holiday.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 4 (A.P.).—A Nation-wide strike May 13 on all farm products was voted today by the National Farmers Holiday Association in convention here.

For the second time within a year the delegates decided to withhold farm products from market in an effort to obtain prices covering cost of production.

Adoption of the resolution for the declaration of a farm holiday was unanimous.

As in all strikes no time limit was set. Members of the association would observe the strike order until prices rose to production cost levels or the movement definitely had failed.

The resolutions called for:

1. The declaration of a farm marketing holiday effective May 13.
2. Resubmission of the association's legislative demands to Congress.
3. Adoption of a scrip resolution for exchange of farm produce for shop labor and appointment or election of a committee to outline the plan to labor organizations.

Included among the legislative demands of the association are the enactment by Congress of the Frazier bill, the Patman bonus bill and the Willer bill.

One thousand farmers from various States and from Canada were present. John A. Bosch, national secretary, estimated the total membership of the association at between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000.

Receipts on Beer Tax Top $3,600 to Date

One hundred and fifty-five more beer dealers yesterday reported sales of 1,186½ barrels dring April to the District tax assessor's office and paid $1,686.50 in taxes to the tax collector, bringing the total receipts to date to $3,682.46 on slightly over 3,682 barrels.

The Beverage Permits Board approved 26 additional temporary licenses, acting on the smallest number of applications in recent weeks. It is believed that the number of applicants for temporary licenses will continue to dwindle and that the board will be able to devote more attention to annual permits.

outcome of the economic conference would be reached by the powers at the beginning of the world parley.

Other British and American consultants were called in by Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Davis that they might examine more fully into the details of the general topics with which not only the World Economic Conference will have to deal but with which the disarmament conference also is concerned.

It was understood that the conferees found themselves in close affinity of view on the general program. While differences existed over details, the belief was expressed that nothing insuperable in this connection would present itself.

France was said to be moving rapidly toward acceptance of the tariff truce in principle, and there were indications that the same favorable attitude might be expected from Great Britain.

This hopeful attitude toward eventual acceptance of the truce was confined, however, to action by the conference itself when it is convened June 12.

Numerable Obstacles in Way.

The American desire still is to put the truce in operation as soon as possible, preferably at as early a date as may be before the conference session. There are numerous obstacles in the way of this, however, and while the possibility still exists that some pre-conference arrangement might be agreed upon, it was indicated that this was only a possibility and not a probability.

The question of war debts was raised in the House of Commons after Prime Minister MacDonald had completed his report on his Washington discussions. He was asked whether the debts would be discussed at the parley, and he replied, "No."

In his statement to the House the prime minister revealed that the debts had been "frankly examined in all their aspects" while he was in Washington. He said that no fuller statement was possible at present as the problem "necessarily has not yet reached the stage of agreement."

The House listened with eager interest to Mr. MacDonald's account of his Washington journey, the purpose of which, he said, was "to ascertain by intimate discussion what the prospects were of cooperation."

"We both shared the view," the prime minister continued, "that our respective countries should enter the conference, which is now to meet so soon, with hands completely untied. The result of these exchanges of views and examinations of problems was most encouraging.

"In view of the controversy which has arisen with reference to the suggestion of tariff truce, I had better say that I felt it my duty to point out how different is the position of a country like our own from that of those which are already high tariff countries with policies of economic defense fully worked out and in operation.

"Whilst I welcomed the idea of a truce during the period of the conference, I made it plain that its application would have to be subjected to safeguards which this difference in our position requires.

"This was considered to be reasonable. I took the opportunity of putting before the President a full account of the British policy on disarmament and as a result of our discussions we reached common views which have been reflected in the effective cooperation between British and American delegates in support of the draft convention now before the disarmament conference at Geneva.

Problem Frankly Examined.

"We also discussed the question of the debts and frankly examined the problem in all its aspects. These exchanges of views were of particular importance as they brought out in well defined detail what differences have to be reconciled, and not only in the final settlement but in the immediate handling of the question.

"On this subject I can make no fuller statement at present as the matter has necessarily not yet reached the stage of agreement.

"As for the visit on the whole, while I wish to convey no exaggerated impression I would say with confidence that mutual understanding between ourselves and the American Government has been materially improved by the discussions which I have had with the President, for whose friendly hospitality and unreserved helpfulness throughout all our deliberations the warmest thanks of the government are due."

AGREEMENT IS NEAR ON FARM PROGRAM

Conferees Approve Bill Except Cost-of-Production Amendment.

(Associated Press.)

Agreement on all provisions of the administration farm program except the Norris-Simpson cost-of-production amendment was reached last night by House and Senate conferees after eliminating sugar beets, sugar cane, cattle and sheep from the list of basic commodities.

Five senators and five representatives made quick work of ironing out differences along a pattern conforming to the views of President Roosevelt until the production-cost provision—approved by the Senate but opposed by the House and Secretary Wallace—came up.

It was decided to refer this question back to each branch for final decision, with the House group prepared to make its partial report today. If the House is willing to accept the amendment, final congressional action will be a mere formality. If it decides to support Wallace, another vote on the amendment will be necessary when the Senate resumes work Monday with a prospect of further delay if the Senate insists on the amendment's retention.

A House provision that farmers obtaining mortgage refinancing loans shall pay 4½ per cent interest when the loans are made through cooperative loan associations, and 5 per cent if obtained directly from land banks was retained. The Senate had voted that the lower rate prevail in both cases.

The limit on salaries for administrators of both the farm relief and mortgage refinancing sections was raised to $10,000, as approved by the House, from the maximum of $8,500 set by the Senate.

The cost-of-production amendment, the only snag in the way of complete agreement, was championed in the Senate by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska. Although exercise of its provisions would be optional, Secretary Wallace is strongly opposed to it.

On the sidelines were two men watching this little drama of conflict—John A. Simpson, the veteran president of the Farmers Union and legislative representative of the Farmers Holiday Association, which yesterday at Des Moines voted to call a farm strike for May 13, and Frederic P. Lee, Wallace's spokesman to the conferees. Lee, who drew the administration farm relief program under the direction of the President and Wallace, urged the amendment's quick removal.

4 Federal Judges Cut Own Salaries

Cummings Makes Public Names of Those Accepting Reductions.

(Associated Press.)

The names of four Federal judges who voluntarily have accepted pay cuts, although not constitutionally bound to do so, were made public yesterday by Attorney General Cummings, with indications that others who offer to accept less compensation would be listed upon his public roll.

Those who have taken cuts are Judge Edwin Y. Webb, of the Western District of North Carolina; Alfred C. Coxe, of the Southern District of New York; Elliott Northcutt, of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, with headquarters at Richmond, and William S. Kenyon, of the Eighth Circuit Court of Iowa.

The Attorney General did not state the amount of the reductions they had taken. A proposed constitutional amendment has been introduced in Congress to permit cutting the salaries of the 192 Federal judges.

Viscount Ishii Off For Parley Here

Veteran Diplomat to Seek U. S. Consent to Nippon Primacy in East.

Tokyo, May 4 (A.P.).—Viscount Kukijiro Ishii, veteran of many diplomatic encounters, sailed today to speak for Japan in the Washington conversations, in which he will seek to win American assent to Japanese policy of primacy in the Far East.

Political problems, chiefly revolving around the status of Manchukuo and the Japanese conquest of Manchuria, will form the subject of his discussions with President Roosevelt, Viscount Ishii said before leaving to take the steamship at Yokohama.

Viscount Ishii was accompanied by Eigo Fukai, vice governor of the Bank of Japan, and seven advisers and secretaries. Mr. Fukai will be Japan's chief spokesman in discussions of economic problems at Washington.

Dr. Albert Shaw Weds His Youthful Secretary

Gainesville, Fla., May 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Albert Shaw, 75, editor of the Review of Reviews, and his 22-year-old secretary, Miss Virginia McCall, were married here shortly after noon today in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

The wedding was attended by a few friends and the bride's relatives. The Rev. Williams S. Stoney, rector, performed the ceremony.

JUDGE TELLS COURT OF MOB'S BRUTALITY

Iowa Troops Defy County Threat by Invasion and Arrest of Two.

Le Mars, Iowa, May 4 (A.P.).—An elderly judge told a military court today how a mob of farmers dragged him from his court, threatened him with hanging, subjected him to indignities, and finally left him unconscious.

The four members of the court did not reveal whether the judge, 54-year-old C. C. Bradley, gave the names of the leaders of the farmers seeking to halt mortgage foreclosures on farms.

The "war front" in northwestern Iowa broadened, meanwhile, when National Guard troops entered Cherokee County — where County Attorney James Smith had threatened to jail any arriving troopers—and arrested two men. They were brought to the camp prison here.

Smith, advised of the arrests, issued the following statement:

"If the men were taken without their consent, I shall present to the guard jury evidence against the officer who sent the troops there, the officers who were in charge in making the arrests, and every man with them, on a charge of violating the civil law for kidnaping, which carries a life sentence.

"The proper way to have arrested these men was for the soldiers to swear out warrants and allow civil authorities of this county to make the arrests.

"The troops in coming in here did so in violation of the constitution of Iowa.

"If those tin soldiers wanted to get any one they could have done so through the courts of Cherokee County."

PARIS IS AWAITING HERRIOT'S RETURN

which I must ask at least a 24-hour moratorium."

The foreign minister said that former Premier Herriot, France's special envoy for President Roosevelt's economic discussions in Washington, had failed to get any definite indications on the war debt settlement.

"The man we sent to Washington is returning," the foreign minister continued. "He contributed to the amelioration of the atmosphere, but it will be difficult to bring the two points of view together. The negotiations will be long.

"We would like to know if negotiations can take place with the certainty that a moratorium will be granted while they last. We did not want to invoke the clause of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement permitting a moratorium on capital payments because we consider that the entire question must be reexamined."

The inflation warning came from Marcel Regnier, reporter for the budget committee, who declared:

"Before it is too late we must choose: Either economies or inflation."

Financiers and bankers say that unless the budget is cut drastically there will be a threat of inflation. Weakness in state finances is the sole danger, in the opinion of officials of the Bank of France, who insist that France will remain on gold no matter what happens.

The chamber has voted a budget with a deficit of 4,177,000,000 francs ($167,000,000) and the Senate is seeking to reduce it to 3,000,000,000 francs ($120,000,000).

Curb on Security Sales Approved in Wisconsin

Madison, Wis., May 4 (A.P.).—The administration measure to tighten regulation strings on sales of securities was passed by the Assembly yesterday without a dissenting vote and now requires the signature of the governor to become law.

One of the provisions is that securities listed on the New York, Chicago and Boston Stock Exchanges no longer may be sold in Wisconsin without specific approval of the Public Service Commission. The present law exempts such securities.

75,000 CHEER QUEEN AS APPLE FETE ENDS

Parade, "Trail of the Pink Petals," 5 Miles Long at Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 4.—Between cheering lines of 75,000 people, Queen Shenandoah X, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador at Washington, rode this afternoon in the "Trail of the Pink Petals" concluding the tenth apple blossom festival here glorifying the blossoming of 13,000,000 apple trees of the Shenandoah-Potomac-Cumberland apple belt of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

For two hours scores of organizations, exhibits and floats filed past the reviewing stand of the queen, Mlle. Francoise May. Led by the drum and bugle corps of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Washington, the parade extended for more than 5 miles. Loew's Fox Cadet Band, of Washington, headed the second division.

Washington-Lee High School Cadet Band, of Clarendon, led the third division, which included a half dozen cadet corps, among them the corps of Arlington County and Fairfax Schools. The historical background of the Shenandoah Valley was portrayed in another division.

Commercial floats completed the line of march, led by the Manley High School Cadet Band. More than a score of exhibits typified the industries of the section, especially the growth of the apple industry.

Nine hundred dollars in cash and a half dozen silver cups were offered participants. Prizes were awarded:

Artistic floats—First, $100, Handley High School, Winchester; second, $50, Kiwanis Club, Winchester; third, cup, Northern Virginia Power Co., Winchester; fourth, American Legion, Winchester; honorable mention, Rotary Club, Winchester.

Commercial floats—First, $150, Virginia Apple Storage, Winchester; second, cup, Waynesboro (Pa.) Ice & Cold Storage Co.; third, cup, Winchester Cold Storage Co.; fourth, cup, Riverside Manufacturing Co., North Carolina; honorable mention, Hershey Ice Cream Co., Hershey, Pa.

Military schools—First, cup, Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va.; second, cup, George Mason High School, Alexandria, Va.

Military Winners.

Nonmilitary drum and bugle corps—First, cup, Cumberland Valley Drum and Bugle Corps, Chambersburg, Pa.; second, cup, Moose Drum and Bugle Corps, Hagerstown, Md.

Tonight the queen's ball was under way in Shenandoah Valley Academy, where her majesty and court of 32 princesses from girls' schools of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia were special guests.

ENGLISH RIFT LOOMS AS PARLEY THREAT

dled by the ambassador himself, who has had long experience in disarmament problems and will be able to take up the realistic details of any American attitude toward the Mussolini-MacDonald four-power pact.

Treaty Revision Untouched.

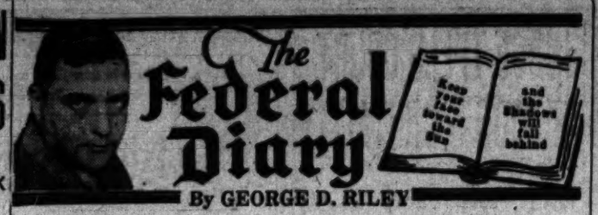
There has as yet been no specific approach to the burning question of revision of treaties, which Mussolini regards as the keystone of all continental stability. Such a position naturally has aroused panic in the allies of France, whether in Poland or in the Little Entente. It is believed that Ambassador Rosso is feeling his way before making any proposals along these lines, although he would be sure of senatorial approval, particularly when such a revision would be linked with disarmament.

The conversations between the American experts and the Argentine representatives were continued yesterday in the office of the economic adviser at the State Department. The afternoon sessions were in the office of the Secretary. The prospects for some agreement that will have mutual advantages for the two countries are not particularly bright at this point. Little hope is held out for lifting the sanitary cordon that was thrown around the importation of Argentine beef. Some measure of agreement may be arrived at for flax and linseed, although the monetary provisos of the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement are causing some difficulties here.

Trade Truce Doubted.

The atmosphere of international cooperation was further clouded by the doubt that the offer of an American tariff truce for the duration of the Economic Conference will be accepted by Great Britain. France had already signified her acceptance of the proposal but the acceptance was conditioned with three reservations which seriously hamper the operation of the truce in the form desired by this Government. The departure of Senator Joseph Connally for Ireland Wednesday night revealed the tentative agreement that has been made between the President and the Irish Free State for an Irish-American trade agreement to assist the exports of both countries. Irish Minister Michael MacWhite has been charged by President De Valera to carry on the negotiations here which will determine the final details of the agreement, as soon as the President has been invested with the plenary tariff-making powers by Congress.

The next international delegate to exchange views with the President will arrive here today. He is the representative of Hitler and is also head of the German Reichsbank, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht. Dr. Schacht speaks English fluently and has been a frequent visitor here before. The Mexican secretary of the treasury, Alberto J. Pani, is also due soon and the Chinese minister of finances and acting premier, T. V. Soong, will be here Monday.



The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

What's Sauce for You Is Not for Judges.

THE Federal Judiciary (will we be in contempt of court to say so?) as a class is slow to catch the spirit of the times. While other Government servants are busy taking up the slack and computing their net losses, Federal judges are not worrying.

Uncle Sam's judges can't be cut. They're in there for life or good behavior and the pay sticks closer than a brother. Of the Federal judges all over the broad expanse of the U. S. A. two judges have remitted the difference in their pay and what it would be if they had been reduced in salary; one sent his remittance for a while and stopped and a fourth said he thought "a salary cut would be a good thing" and there his action rested.

"Personally," says Representative Woodrum, "I am at a loss to understand how a member of the Federal judiciary would be content to draw his full salary, knowing full well it is only the provision of the United States Constitution which prevents him from taking the same cut as every other employe of the Government has been compelled to take.

"EVERY Federal attorney who appeared at his bar, all the personnel in his court and the janitor who cleans his cuspidor is contributing 15 per cent of his compensation to help rescue the country from its economic plight, and yet the judge of the court, a symbol of justice, equity and fair dealing, serenely protected in the sheltering folds of the Constitution, is content to let his fellow man bear the whole burden of this economic disaster."

Whereupon, Mr. Woodrum introduced a resolution proposing amendment to the Constitution repealing the provision under which the judiciary is immune to salary reductions.

It should be an easy matter for Government workers to feel a contempt for court, most Federal courts, who still have that feeling of security of a lifetime and nonshrinkable pay checks.

APRIL 19 the Federal Diary President would restore all pay cut July 1.

That prediction was brought nearer realization last night when Mr. Roosevelt urged the United States Chamber of Commerce to adopt a graduated wage scale increase. It takes only a few commodity price rises to change the entire living cost index figures. Commodity prices are edging up here and there by degrees.

The President reminded the United States Chamber of Commerce that better prices are essential to national recovery. It follows that better prices demand higher wages.

Once again, let us look forward to July 1.

Origin of Decoration Day.

Date worth remembering: May 5, 1868—Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief, Grand Army of the Republic, issued a general order designating May 30 of that year "for the purpose of strewing flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village or hamlet churchyard in the land."

Committee chairman appointments, buying service aid and discussion of Navy Department employes' problems were the headline events at the Navy Department Branch of Federal Employes' Union No. 2 meeting. President L. C. McNemar, Judge Advocate General's Office, presided over an eager and attentive meeting.

Mr. McNemar announced the following committee chairmen: William B. Crowell, Judge Advocate General's Office, executive committee chairman; C. A. Ketcham, Marine Corps, legislative committee; Mrs. Mayme E. Smith, Ordnance, membership committee; Mrs. Anne Breen, Secretary's Office, entertainment committee; M. S. Noyes, Engineering, publicity committee.

A special committee to liberalize the branch by-laws was appointed, consisting of J. I. Sullivan, Judge Advocate General's Office; C. M. Baruch, Secretary's Office, and M. S. Noyes, Engineering.

Miss Matilda Lindsay, national organizer, outlined efforts to ease effect of retirement and salary cut proposals during this session of Congress, value of the educational forum, increase in number and character of social events among various local unions and branches, value of credit union activities and insurance and hospital guild benefits. Miss Lindsay outlined the present legislative situation with regard to retirement.

Henry G. Nolda, secretary-treasurer of Union No. 2, explained services listed in the buying service and stated additional information would be available to the membership soon. He answered questions on the 30-year and 15-year retirement, dismissal wage, veteran preference and other rights of civil service employes.

TO Miss Ruth B. MacManus, (*) Smithsonian: That information will be published soon. . . . Well, they've uprooted the last vestige of the kiosk at Pulaski Park . . . Two buses of sightseers start making their rounds quite early. The visitors must have gotten up before breakfast. . . . And we've heard nothing lately from Tom Blanton on how he's getting along hunting "long-haired scientists in Agriculture. . . . Eddie Savoy, former State messenger, honored at dinner party. . . . The grants are designed to assist mature scholars in the completion of research projects already well under way and provide study in economics, political science, sociology, cultural anthropology, social psychology, history, law, statistics and human geography.

Hoarding Ban Brings Out $20,000 in Alaska

Anchorage, Alaska, May 4 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt's decree against gold hoarding has brought a response from the far north. A shipment of a thousand shining $20 gold pieces, sent by a man living in the Kuskokawim Valley arrived by plane yesterday, consigned to an Anchorage bank. The man's name was withheld.

DR. H. S. MUNROE, 86, GEOLOGIST, EXPIRES

Former Federal Expert Dies in Litchfield, Conn.; Had Home Here.

Litchfield, Conn., May 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Henry Smith Munroe, 83, geologist and mining engineer, died today at his home here. He also maintained a home in Washington, and was brought from that city in an ambulance two days ago.

He joined the Columbia University faculty, of which he was a graduate, in 1877 as assistant professor of surveying and practical mining. He was professor of mining and a member of the university council from 1891 to 1915. In 1917, after retiring from the Columbia University, he became a consulting engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines.

He was president of the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America in 1908 and 1909, and a member of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education in 1909.

In 1870 he was named assistant geologist of the Ohio State geological survey, and a year later served as assistant chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In 1872 he went to Japan as assistant geologist and mining engineer of the geological survey of Yesso, and in 1875 and 1876 was professor of geology and mining at the University of Tokyo.

His widow, one daughter, Mrs. Eleanor M. Green, and a son, Robert K. Munroe, survive. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Poll Tax Deadline To Fall Tomorrow

Young Democrats Club of Fairfax Sounds Warning to Voters.

The executive committee of the Young Democrats Club, of Fairfax County, Va., has issued a warning to all voters in the county that tomorrow is the last day on which a person can pay his poll or capitation tax in order to participate in the primary election in August.

During the primary the Democratic voters of Virginia will select a candidate for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, United States senator and the members of the House of Delegates to represent them in the general election in November. In Virginia the selection of the Democratic candidate in the primary is usually tantamount to election.

Not only does the poll tax for 1932 have to be paid but the poll taxes for the two preceding years must also be paid up.

"Babies" Signs Off Till Better Times

Magazine Mrs. Roosevelt Has Edited to Cease Publication.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—MacFadden Publications announced today that with the June issue the magazine "Babies—Just Babies," which has been edited by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will cease publication "at least, until there is a change in the present financial situation."

The decision to discontinue the magazine, the MacFadden Publications said, followed Mrs. Roosevelt's decision to withdraw as editorial supervisor.

Mrs. Roosevelt's action was based, it was announced, on the "onerous character of her duties at the White House," and the difficulty of finding time for her magazine duties.

Man Crashes Cruiser Before Police Court

John J. Gleason, 460 H street northeast, a taxicab driver, must have had some premonition about Police Court. If he did, he was undoubtedly right.

Mrs. Annie Mahon Expires Suddenly

Native of Capital Stricken While Being Treated at Doctor's Office.

Mrs. Annie M. Mahon, widow of William W. Mahon, of Washington, died suddenly yesterday while undergoing treatment in the office of a physician.

Mrs. Mahon was born here 58 years ago, the daughter of James and Nora O'Day, pioneer settler of the District. Her father was consulting engineer during the regime of Gov. Shepherd, the last Governor of Washington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at St. Matthew's Church, the Rev. Edward H. Roache officiating. Interment will be in Holy Rood Cemetery.

Mrs. Mahon is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Norine Mouradian, and two sisters, Mrs. Delia L. O'Brien, and Miss Mary A. O'Day, all of Washington.

SWANSON REMOVES RADIO BAN ON BANDS

'Patriotic Hours' Suggested by Secretary Expected to Be New Feature.

As a result of an order of Secretary of the Navy Swanson restoring the Marine and Navy Bands to the radio networks, schedules were being arranged last night for their early reappearance. Although Secretary Swanson's order did not stipulate the number of broadcasts, it was thought they would not be as frequent as in the past and for the time being, at least, would be limited to the "Patriotic Hours," which he suggests.

This was understood to include a restoration of the "Shut-in" Hour of the Marine Band, the cancellation of which probably brought in more protests than any of the other concerts. This program was inaugurated about a year ago by Capt. Taylor Branson and the mail received by him in response to his efforts soon began pouring in from all parts of the country.

It became one of the most popular features on the networks and it is believed the pleas of the patients in hospitals or otherwise shut-in had a great deal to do with Secretary Swanson's removing the ban.

Following complaints from the musicians' union, which contended that the Marine and Navy Bands offered unfair competition, former Secretary of the Navy Adams ordered the bands off the networks. This was just before the close of the Hoover administration. They have not been heard over the radio since. However, in the meantime the Army Band has been allowed to broadcast regularly.

When asked last night how soon or how often the Marine Band might be heard again, Capt. L. A. Dessez, liaison officer for that organization, said this detail would have to be worked out after consultation with the networks.

U. S. May Publish Gold Hoarder List

Cummings Is Considering Publicity for Those Who Hold Metal.

(United Press.)

The names of gold hoarders may be published, the Justice Department announced last night as the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Board revealed a total of $701,430,000 of the country's $4,312,000,000 of yellow metal still in hiding. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings cautioned persons holding more than $100 in gold or gold currency to surrender it at once.

"If I were a gold hoarder," he said, "I would make good haste. Those who promptly purge themselves are in a far better position than those who defy the Government."

The Government gave hoarders until May 1 to return their gold. The Department of Justice said yesterday publication of the names of hoarders is one of several steps being considered to bring the metal under Government control.

COL. LOCKETT DIES; ONCE FT. MYER HEAD

Native of Georgia Served in Army 40 Years; Son Survives Here.

Col. James Lockett, U. S. A., retired, in command at Fort Myer, Va., in 1919, died yesterday at his home in Coronado, Calif., according to a dispatch received at the War Department.

Born in Culloden, Ga., in 1855, Col. Lockett entered the U. S. Military Academy in 1875 and was graduated and commissioned a second lieutenant, Fourth Cavalry in June, 1879. In 1886 he was promoted to first lieutenant and served through the various grades to and including colonel, August 28, 1913. He was retired at his own request after 40 years' service on June 30, 1919.

He served in the Philippine Insurrection and was awarded two silver stars and cited "for gallantry in action against insurgent forces at Manila, Philippine Islands, in 1899" and "for gallantry in action against insurgent forces at Marilao, Luzon, in 1899."

Col. Lockett served at various posts in the United States, and from March 18 to June 26, 1916, was with the Punitive Expedition in Mexico. During the World War he served as inspector-instructor, National Guard Cavalry, at El Paso; chief mustering officer, National Guard of Kentucky at Louisville; at Fairmount, W. Va., and Pittsburgh, Pa., mustering in National Guard; at Santa Fe, N. Mex., examining officer for Officers' Training Camp, and in command of Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., from August, 1917, to September, 1918.

His is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen W. Lockett, of 560 Avenue A, Coronado, and a son, Lieut. Col. James M. Lockett, Infantry, on duty with the Sixteenth Brigade, Washington.

Frank Butts, aged 52 years, whose body was found in the Potomac River on Wednesday, after having been missing since April 24, will be held at 4 p. m., today from the Cunningham funeral home, 809 Cameron street. Services will be conducted by the Rev. J. M. Jennings, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, and private burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Real Milk Maids to Stage Record Attempt at Carnival

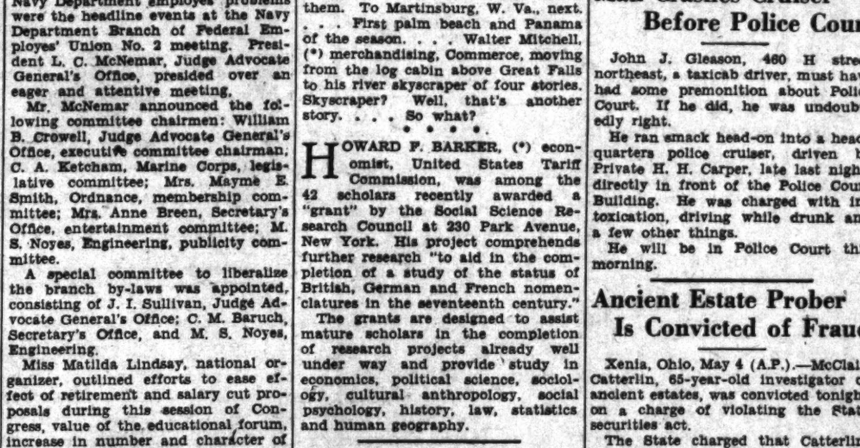
Washington has been the scene of contests of almost every description, but it remained for the Vincent Costello Post, American Legion, to stage at their midway and carnival, now in progress at Wisconsin avenue and Thirty-fourth street, a milking contest witht real cows and milkmaids from the farms of Maryland and Virginia. The first milking contest will take place next Monday night.

Post Commander Grant was able to secure the services of Albert A. Ady, Montgomery County assistant farm agent, to act as judge, and it is through Mr. Ady that the large number of milkmaids of the 4H Clubs have been induced to enter.

An attempt will be made to break the world record for milking a cow in three minutes, now held by Dorothy Wilhelm, of Connorsville, Ind., who drew 22 pounds of milk (11 quarts) at the National Dairy Show in St. Louis in 1931. Dr. J. Thomas Kelly, jr., will furnish some of his fine Holstein cows for the contestants from his Pleasant Hills Stock Farms at Darnestown, Md.

Two minutes will be allowed each contestant before starting to milk in which to acquaint the animal with the milker's touch. The milkmaids will then milk for three minutes and the winner determined on weight of milk drawn in that period. The prizes will be three loving cups and cash as follows: $10 first, $5 second, $2.50 third, and $1 fourth.

Another contest will be staged Wednesday night, a butter churning contest. Friday night the beautiful Hollywood public wedding will be held.



More entries received for the Federal Dairy's First Annual Golf Tournament at Silver Spring, May 25. Latest to enroll include William H. Scruggs, Library of Congress; John Harvey, Interior; J. S. Whitt, State; A. E. Willmett, J. J. Black, Interior; F. B. Garrett, Navy (U. S. M. C.); Clarence Sipes, Internal Revenue; H. W. Bearce, Bureau of Standards; R. R. Hair, I. C. C.; A. R. Strohm, I. C. C. and Lewis R. Watson, Interior. Above view shows fairway from fourteenth tee.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN IN BALL BOND CASE

Arlington County Board and School Board Advised to Act Separately.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Pursuant to an opinion handed down by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas that the county school board should act separately on the proposal of the bonding company to make settlement of claims of the county and the State against the Fidelity & Deposit Co. as surety on the official bonds of E. Wade Ball, former county treasurer, no action was taken by the county board yesterday.

Mr. Douglas further pointed out that the school board is custodian of school funds and should concur in the matter with the county board.

The question raised by members of the school board in session at the time the county board met as to what proportion they would receive should the offer be accepted was settled when it was pointed out that the school funds would be returned in same amount as charged in the audit.

School Shortage $103,000.

Of the total shortage claimed amounting to $520,154.63, it was pointed out that the school shortage was $103,000.

Finding that nothing could be accomplished at this meeting the school board informed Chairman Fellows of the county board that they would take the matter under consideration and report following a meeting Monday night. Mr. Fellows announced that the county board will meet Tuesday morning to receive the report of the school board's action and vote on the bonding company's proposal.

Douglas submitted a letter to the county board in which he recommended the acceptance of the offer. The letter reads in part:

"The claim of the county against the bonding company is based upon a shotrage for the year ended August 31, 1924, of $1,134.10, with additional amounts at the end of each fiscal year thereafter, except the year 1926, the total accumulated shortage claimed as of June 30, 1930, being $384,743.56, and the total county shortage claimed for the entire period being $520,154.63. If this matter should go to trial, interest at the rate of 6 per cent from February 26, 1932, on the last-named amount would be claimed.

Ball's Bond $200,000.

"Ball's bond was $200,000 for the period 1924 to 1927, both inclusive, $300,000 from January 1, 1928, to April 30, 1929, $450,000 from April 1, 1929, to December 31, 1931, and $300,000 from January 1, 1932, to February 26, 1932. This coverage is sufficient to embrace the shortage during each of the periods.

"I have today received from a representative of the Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland an offer to pay to the county, in case, as soon as the necessary formal suit can be prepared, the sum of $350,000, in settlement of the entire claim of the county. This offer also embraces a proposition to pay to the State, in addition to the sum payable to the county, the amount of $47,945.48, in full settlement of the State's claim. I am advised that the State is willing to accept the offer. The difference in proportion of loss which the company is willing to pay to the State and to the county may be accounted for by the fact that the State's claim is much more recent and more certain in its nature, and would not be subject to any of the several possible defenses which undoubtedly would be interposed against portions of the county's claim if the matter were brought to litigation. The above offer to the county is the result of protracted negotiations among the representatives of the parties in interest. I am certain that the offer to the county represents the highest figure that can be reached without litigation."

Boy Scout Inspection At Falls Church Tonight

The regular spring inspection of the Boy Scouts of Fairfax and Arlington Counties will be held tonight in Falls Church, Va. Boys from the various troops of the two counties will come prepared to stand inspection by the county scout officials.

The county scout executive committee that will have charge of all scout activities for the next year will be elected. It has been decided by the present executive committee to recommend several changes in the program of the county organization for the next year.

ADVENTIST FAVORS BATTLE ON REPEAL

Rev. Longacre Says Effort Should Be Made to Uphold Dry Law.

Declaring that the denomination is facing a national crisis, along with all other dry advocates, the Rev. C. S. Longacre, secretary of the American Temperance Society of Seventh Day Adventists, appealed to the delegates attending the spring council in Takoma Park to lend their cooperation toward keeping enough of the States dry to prevent repeal.

He said that no law can be maintained unless it is supported by public sentiment, and there can be no public sentiment unless there is education. "There is a moral paralysis attacking society, especially on the liquor question," he declared, "and not only should we circulate our literature on temperance and prohibition, and hold public mass meetings, but we should by our activities become the head of the dry forces throughout the Nation."

The Rev. W. H. Branson, as secretary of the Bureau of Home Missions, urged the leaders from abroad to broaden the scope of their evangelization to include every nationality in their territory. He said plans should be devised to send preachers to give the gospel to the vast foreign-born population of the United States as well as to the English-speaking peoples.

There are 9,265 colored people who are members of 180 churches in the United States, according to a report given by the Rev. F. L. Peterson, who declared that these members paid a tithe of $133,326.91 in 1932, and $87,132.80 in foreign mission offerings. He said there are 56 ordained and licensed ministers in the denominational ranks and 75 church schools are being conducted for 1,300 colored pupils.

The delegates approved of a home missionary convention for union conference secretaries being held in the denominational college at La Grange, Ill., on June 5 to 7.

Board of Women's Club To Meet at Mt. Rainier

The county board of the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at 10:30 a. m. today at Star Hall, Mount Rainier, Md.

The meeting, to be presided over by Mrs. Albert Roussel, president, will be held for the purpose of making final arrangements for the club's annual meeting at Laurel, Md., May 19. The State meeting, to be held in Baltimore next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will also be discussed.

Brothers Freed of Charge.

Irvin Daniels and Kermit Daniels, of Chillum, Md., accused of assault on Aileen Lough, 2911 Mills avenue northeast, were exonerated yesterday by a Prince Georges County Circuit Court. The assault was alleged to have occurred last December 15, at the home of the men, who are brothers.

Sanitary Employes Form New Society

2,000 Participating in Social-Benefit Organization Here.

Sanitary Grocery Company employes—2,000 of them—yesterday made final arrangements for a social S-E-A, Sanitary Employes Association, one benefit of which will be a group rate on life insurance. More than $5,000,000 of such insurance was taken up yesterday.

Two Washington men, G. H. Robertson and W. E. Cartwright, were elected divisional president and general secretary after a hotly-contested election. The groups of officers were installed yesterday in the Washington, Baltimore and Richmond sections.

Each section has elected social and disbursing committees, whose duties will be to receive and study loan applications. Loans are handled through the by-laws of the association which call for a loan and gift fund. Nearly all employes of the company have joined. Each member is automatically insured for $500.

Aviation Experts Meet at Langley

Annual Conclave to Make Flying Safer and Faster Opens.

Langley Field, Va., May 4 (A.P.).—A review of their labors during the last year today provided a peep into the future of American aviation for the engineers and experts of the industry who came to the Langley Field laboratories for the eighth annual conference of the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

Progressive strides in commercial and military aviation alike were reported and predicted with the safety element and speed predominating as their research and experimentation objectives.

More than 150 men and women engaged in making flying safer for both pilot and passenger, civil and military, were shown through the giant tunnels and laboratories of the N. A. C. A., where they saw in progress experiments in "drag" reduction, high lift devices, new types of lateral control, air loads in flight, rotating wing machines and spin control.

TOMORROW IS LAST TO PAY POLL TAXES

Alexandria Treasurer Will Keep His Office Open Until 9 P. M.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Tomorrow will be the last doy for paying capitation taxes to qualify for voting in the primary August 1, when State and other officials will be nominated for the general election in November.

Up to yesterday 5,262 persons had paid their capitation taxes to City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan.

To accommodate those unable to come to his office during the day, the city treasurer will keep his office open all day tomorrow and from 7 to 9 p. m., instead of closing at 1 p. m. as usual. It is regarded as unlikely that the number of qualified voters will equal or exceed the peak reached in 1932, but several hundred are expected to qualify before tomorrow night. Capitation taxes must have been paid for the last three years to qualify a voter, except in the case of persons coming of legal age this year, or coming to this jurisdiction this year, after having previously paid taxes elsewhere.

Herndon High Seniors To Present Play Tonight

The annual senior class play of the high school at Herndon, Va., will be presented tonight in the school auditorium. Those taking part in "Home Again Harry" include Ellen Cockerille, Clara Piggott, Clarke, Blevins, Hazel Miller, Betty Brown, Culver Gates, Emilie Robb, Roy Tate, Joseph Linkins, Franklin Ellmore, Louise Harrison and Henry Kirkpatrick.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. Harry Middleton and Mrs. Granville White, of the high school faculty.

Graduation Dates Fixed.

Announcement has been made that the dates for the graduating exercises of the Alexandria high schools will be June 8 for the George Mason and June 9 for the Alexandria High School.

5 MERCHANTS FINED IN TAXATION DISPUTE

Minimum Penalty Imposed in Business Levy Case at Capitol Heights.

The question of whether the merchants of Capitol Heights, Md., will pay a disputed tax, imposed last February on business establishments within the corporate limits, was settled yesterday when five of the ten men for whom warrants had been sworn out were fined in the Capitol Heights Police Court.

Four of the other cases were thrown out of court on account of various technicalities, and one was continued. Judge J. Chew Sheriff handed down the minimum penalty, $1 and costs.

Those appearing in defiance of the tax law, which was believed to be "unjustly discriminatory" because of the various amounts assessed each merchant, included John Luckett, a lunchroom proprietor. His case was thrown out because he had agreed earlier to pay the tax. M. Geruchunowiez, who operates a shoe shop, was also dismissed for the same reason.

Frank Vendemia, barber, was fined $1 and costs, as was John Complier, proprietor of a bakery shop; Paul Rector, grocer; Frank Rooney, gasoline station operator, and Samuel Lagana, grocer.

The cases of Jacob Boyer, owner of an auto sales service shop, and William F. Stembler, in the building material business, were dismissed because the warrants were made out in the name of the firms instead of the individual. The case of Henry Miles, grocer, was continued.

Slashes Hit Staff At Naval Academy

25 Civilian Teachers and Four Post-Graduate Men May Lose Places.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 4.—The Navy's economy program as regards the Academy, which has already placed 25 civilian instructors on the brink of losing their jobs, was extended to the teaching staff of the Navy post-graduate school, it was learned today. At least four of the corps of instructors there received notices similar to those served on the academic tutors, that is that their services probably would be dispensed with by July 1.

The four at the postgraduate school affected have held their positions for eight years or more, while the tenure of office of those at the Academy range from 4 to more than 25 years. All civilian instructors at the Academy are uneasy lest the economy wave may also hit them.

The rank and file of civilian personnel employed at the reservation is to be reduced by at least 10 per cent numerically, in addition to previous pay cuts.

Ammonia Fumes Invade Cow Barn

Hyattsville Firemen Cut Off Gas on Bellevue Dairy Farm.

Several hundred cows threatened to break from their stalls early yesterday at the Bellevue Dairy Farm, Chillum, Md., as a break in a large ammonia pipe in an adjoining building sent stifling fumes throughout the entire area.

The Hyattsville Fire Department, called to the scene by frightened employes, donned gas masks to enter the building. Efforts were concentrated on the closing of valves on the lead-in pipes, but so heavy were the fumes that attempts were made with extreme difficulty.

After more than half an hour had been consumed in repeated short trips into the building by Firemen Harry Wilcoxen and Earl Dorelle the flow of gas was checked. Christian Heurich, owner of the farm, said he thought very little damage had been done.

NEW BANK PLANNED FOR SEAT PLEASANT

Project Is Submitted to Maryland Officials for Approval.

Plans for the establishment of a new bank in Seat Pleasant, Md., through the reorganization of the now closed Southern Maryland Trust Co., have been submitted to Maryland State Bank Commissioner John J. Ghinger, according to an announcement from the office of Walter L. Green, attorney for the bank.

The new bank, to be created under the provisions of the Maryland emergency bank act, will be known as the Seat Pleasant Bank. Operating on a 100 per cent basis, the organization is expected to be capitalized at $25,000. A total of 2,500 shares, to be sold at $10 a share, will give the bank a surplus of $25,000.

The Seat Pleasant Bank, it was stated, will make application to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond for membership in the Federal Reserve System.

"A conservator for the trust company, who will also be a cashier in the new bank, will be appointed," Mr. Green said. "As the assets of the closed bank are liquidated they will be placed in the Seat Pleasant Bank as credit on the accounts of the various depositors."

AN INVITATION

PACKARDIZED USED CARS

This Evening, May 5th

at our used car building, 17th and Kalorama Road

Seven to Ten

AT THIS TIME no cars will be offered for sale—the sole purpose of this invitation is to give you an opportunity to see why are different from other used cars you have been wont to picture in your mind.

We know Packardized Used Cars are different because Packard clientele is composed of those who take pride in their transportation. When they trade in their cars they are naturally in much better condition than the average traded-in automobile.

Packardized used automobiles are thoroughly reconditioned both as to mechanics and appearance.

We value our Packardized merchandise so much that we keep it under cover.

The value in these cars, once you see them, and read the price tags, you will agree are exceptional. We can do this because of our location—out of the high rent district, with consequent low overhead—volume of business—an efficient organization backed up by more than 10 years of successful merchandizing of used transportation during which time we have built up a clientele of more than 5,000 satisfied customers.

All Packardized Cars Are "Eight Point" Automobiles

1. UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE. If, through loss of employment, regular monthly payments can not conveniently be made, the sales agreement will be extended if necessary for the number of months that regular monthly payments have been made during which period of extension one-half the regular payment will be accepted each month.
2. DISABILITY INSURANCE. Should the purchaser become disabled or injured and should the period of certified disability extend over 15 days, the company will make all payments until recovery, excluding the first 15 days and such payments do not have to be made up.
3. ACCIDENT INSURANCE. Upon receipt of proof of death of the purchaser through bodily injury by accidental means at any time after date of delivery and until further notice, a bill of sale for the Packardized used car will be delivered without demand to the legal heirs.
4. TRADE-INS. A satisfactory allowance will be made for your present car on any Packardized used car. This value is probably such as to fully cover the down payment, thus requiring no cash outlay.
5. COMPLETE EQUIPMENT. All Packardized used cars are equipped with spare tire and tube, tire cover and other necessary accessories. There are no extras to buy.
6. INSPECTION SERVICE. This extraordinary feature applies to Packardized used cars and entitles the purchaser to the same mechanical inspection at the end of 30, 60 and 90 days, exactly as if he purchased a new Packard automobile.
7. LOW DOWN PAYMENT. Your opportunity to buy a new Packardized used car with a small initial investment.
8. MONTHLY PAYMENTS. Conveniently arranged monthly payments adjusted within your income. Every opportunity is afforded to make it convenient for you to own a Packardized used car.

Accept our invitation for this evening . . . See for yourself why you would like to be numbered among Packard clientele . . . and remember, we will not take your order though you should tender it.

Joan Blondell's Opinion of Packard

Joan Blondell, now appearing in person at the Earle, was so satisfied with her former Packard that after her three thousand mile cross-country trip from Hollywood to Washington she has placed her order for a Packard Twelve.

May 4th, 1933.
Dear Mr. Coolican: driven in Hollywood with such satisfaction that we unhesitatingly used it for the nine-day cross country trip that brought us to Washington.
No thought of motor trouble — just comfort and relaxation for all the three thousand miles thru deserts and over mountains.
Our satisfaction was so complete that we have now purchased one of the new twin-six Packards and only hope you will be able to get it here from Detroit before my engagement is finished at The Earle.
When you told us about the wonderful trade-in value of our old car we realized that comfort and safety are not the only reasons why so many in Hollywood have always preferred the Packard.
Sincerely yours,
Joan Blondell

Fairfax Quandary Grows On Hog Farm Prosecutions

Who will take the initiative in prosecutions for violations of the Fairfax County, Va., hog farm ordinance, is the question confronting the local authorities. The County Board of Supervisors at its monthly meeting Wednesday decided that its duties ended when it passed the ordinance and considered the applications for permits to operate commercial hog farms in accordance with its provisions.

Sheriff Epps P. Kirby was quoted as saying that he did not propose to arrest anyone violating its provisions unless some one swore out a warrant charging a violation and then he would serve the warrant. Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr informed the board some time ago that he would not swear out warrants but would prosecute persons arrested for violations of the county ordinance.

The ordinance requires persons keeping ten or more hogs for commercial purposes to obtain a permit and gives several requirements to be fulfilled before such a permit can be obtained from the supervisors. Several members of the board stated yesterday that they were receiving complaints alleging violations of the ordinance but these complainants were hesitant about incurring the enmity of their hog-raising neighbors.

The board asked the county surveyor, Joseph Berry, to give an estimate on the cost of surveying the boundary line between Falls Church and Providence magisterial districts. It had been brought to its attention that several pieces of property on the boundary line had been assessed in the wrong districts. Some had been assessed in Falls Church District when they actually were in Providence District and vice versa. There is a difference of 50 cents in the local tax rate in the two districts.

THE RAILROADS' OPPORTUNITY.

Railway carriers will have a great opportunity, under President Roosevelt's emergency transportation program, to work out their own problems. The President's bill avoids the mistake of evolving an elaborate program and trying to force the railroads into it. The carriers are given a chance to get together within three well-defined regions and set their own houses in order. Assistance and encouragement will be given them by a Federal Coordinator of Transportation, and if this aid is not sufficient to bring about the necessary adjustments the coordinator will have power to force the carriers into line.

President Roosevelt is not yet ready to submit a comprehensive program of railroad legislation to Congress, but he has made an intelligent approach to the problem. Experience has proved the difficulty of trying to work out detailed consolidation plans in Washington. The Government could not expect to manage the details of this reorganization without taking over the railroads. And only an insignificant group of socialists favors Government operation of transportation agencies. The alternative to railroad bureaucracy is to free the carriers from undue restraints and pave the way for cooperative action among them for their mutual improvement. This is the path into which the Roosevelt measure leads.

Repeal of the provision under which the Government has been "recapturing" part of the railroads' "excess" earnings has long been recommended. The scheme of adjusting rates so as to provide the carriers with a "fair return" on their investments under all conditions has proved to be a failure. The placing of railway holding companies under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission is an obvious necessity. Reforms have been delayed until now only because Congress has been too busy with emergency matters in recent years to give them attention.

The President's "comprehensive plan for permanent legislation" will doubtless be shaped by the experience of the coming year. If the carriers in the eastern, southern and western groups coordinate and improve their services, reduce their expenses, and trim down their excessive capital structures they will be able to influence the nature of the permanent legislation by their own actions. President Roosevelt has shown no disposition to act arbitrarily with the railroads. He is genuinely interested in their welfare and in guaranteeing to the public an adequate transportation system. If the carriers are disposed to cooperate for their mutual welfare, they have a remarkable opportunity to cut the Gordian knot that has bound them to deficits and slack business for the last three years.

INFLATION HAZARDS.

The history of currency expansion programs shows that they all began with the good intention of launching a plan of "controlled inflation." Good intentions, however, seem to be powerless against the immutable laws under which government credit dries up when confidence is impaired and good money goes into hiding as cheap money appears. No government starts out with the deliberate intention of adulterating money until it becomes valueless. The rules for limitation and regulation of issues seem clear and practical, but the insatiable demand for more and more fiat to maintain values reaches a point where it can not be met.

In France today there is considerable amusement in financial circles over the promises here that inflation will not be allowed to run wild. It was what was promised there, but the franc fell to 2 cents, and it took the heroic efforts of three successive cabinets to get it stabilized at one-fifth its former value. The thrifty people of the nation lost 80 per cent of everything they had accumulated. Brokers and gamblers with experience and facilities for taking advantage of quick market changes and exchange fluctuations made fortunes. The laborer suffered along with those who had saved or made investments.

If a more recent example of the results of inflation is desired than those offered by France and Germany, one may turn to Chile's experience. The Central Bank at Santiago has just issued a statement admitting that its "regulating functions have been virtually suspended as a consequence of the inflationist policy," and adds that the re-establishment of those functions will not come for many years. The bank statement urges that "a sound economic policy should unquestionably be to put an end to inflation, and, if that is unattainable, immediately endeavor to mitigate the evil effects before they become more acute."

The fear that currency inflation impends in this country has caused uneasiness among investors. As is always the case, speculators are reaping a harvest while the small man is confused and knows not which way to turn to protect his savings.

With the announcement that the Government will not honor its promises to pay off the principal and interest on its bonds in gold the conservative American investor is for the first time at a loss to know where to look for security. When his own Government withdraws the assurance that he can get back the same dollar he invests in Treasury securities he is indeed undone. If a United States Government gold bond, bearing the pledge of the Government to repay in gold, is not worth its face value, what is any other "security" worth?

THE COOPERATIVE SPIRIT.

Preparations for the world economic conference are going forward at a rapid pace. In Washington a magnanimous effort is being made to smooth out the difficulties and pave the way for world cooperation on all economic problems. In other national capitals there is a scramble to consolidate advantages in trade before the opportunity is cut off by international agreements.

Great Britain is working feverishly to "sew up" all the tariff bargains in which she is interested before other countries get a chance to act. While the delegates of Argentina are in Washington talking over the prospects of reciprocal trade agreements with the United States the British government announces the terms of a treaty that gives that country a virtual monopoly on Argentine trade. Apparently Great Britain is obtaining a corner on the Argentine peso. Under the agreement the whole of Argentina's free exchange would be controlled from London. Argentina might enter into tariff agreements with other countries, but she would have no exchange to pay for any goods, except those from Britain.

Is this the first example of the new cooperative spirit that is supposed to have been unloosed by the White House conferences? Great Britain agreed in principle to the theory of world cooperation in the fields of trade and money. Now she proceeds to destroy the trade of the United States and Germany in Argentina. The London government apparently is out to get all it can before the world economic conference even gets under way.

France has agreed in principle to the American proposal for a tariff truce, but France calls attention to a clause in her customs law permitting the government to increase duties against imports from countries using depreciated currency. This is undoubtedly a warning to the United States. Officials in Paris have prepared a decree imposing a 15 per cent tax on American goods, in addition to regular tariffs, and this will soon become effective if the dollar continues to depreciate in terms of the franc.

Of course, the United States can not object to France's exception to the tariff truce, because this country is making exceptions of its own. Congress is about to raise the duties on agricultural products. Some duties will be increased by as much as 100 per cent, while entirely new duties will be laid on such items as cotton. Congress regards this action as essential to the protection of the American farmer. It is a domestic problem that can not be neglected for the sake of encouraging world trade. France takes the same attitude by imposing special duties upon goods from countries using depreciated currency. Britain, too, considers her virtual monopoly on Argentine trade as necessary to the welfare of her people.

Nearly all statesmen love to talk about the advantages of cooperation for the mutual welfare of nations, but when the preliminary talking is over they are even more fond of preserving their own advantages while rushing in to grab the first fruits of cooperation.

PROTECTING INVESTORS.

Notable improvements have been made by the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce in the bill for controlling the issuance of securities. The measure has undergone almost a complete metamorphosis in the committee room. As it emerges for consideration of the House, some of the objectionable features have been removed and the publicity requirements have been strengthened.

Under the original bill the Federal Trade Commission was given power to forbid the issuance of securities by any corporation if it should find the business of that corporation to be in an "unsound condition" or if its business should "not be based upon sound principles." This generous grant of dictatorial powers was doubtless written into the bill by the "brain trust." It went far beyond the purpose of President Roosevelt, which is to protect American investors from being swindled. It is reasonable to assume that the President never intended to permit a governmental agency to destroy a business organization on the flimsy pretext that it is not, in the opinion of that agency, "based on sound principles."

At any rate, the House committee threw out this section of the bill and inserted a provision giving the commission power to issue "stop orders" against the sale of securities when it finds that statements made in the registration of the securities are false or insufficient. A period of 30 days between the time of registration and sale of securities is allowed for the commission to make its investigations. Instead of trying to set up a dictator over the financial affairs of industry, the new bill requires full information for guidance of the public. Wherever false information is given or vital facts affecting the value of securities are concealed the individuals responsible would be held accountable before the courts.

One ambiguous provision of the original bill was eliminated. The measure would have applied the publicity requirements to existing securities as well as to those to be issued in the future. Such a provision, experts say, would have forced the securities markets to close until these elaborate data could be compiled. The purposes of the act will doubtless be served by applying it only to new stocks and bonds. The House committee made that change.

The plan of forcing promoters to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth is fundamentally sound. The Government can not certify that stock sold to the public is good stock, nor can it undertake to put out of business every concern that some official may consider "unsound." But it can turn the floodlight of publicity upon securities offered to the public, thus forcing promoters to deal honestly with investors or suffer severe penalties.

DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS.

The President is expected soon to nominate Commissioners of the District of Columbia. Two of them will be civilians. Experience has proved that a bipartisan board works for the elimination of politics in the District government. The law does not require the appointment of commissioners belonging to different parties, but whenever a board has represented a single party there has been a tendency to make the District government a medium for the distribution of political pork without much regard for the public interest.

The system of government of the District of Columbia is admirable. The National Capital is free from graft and political turmoil. The commissioners allocate their work so that all departments are carefully supervised, and above them the President is always available in emergencies. If Congress would enlarge the authority of the commissioners to deal with certain minor matters that are now handled by the committees of Congress, the District government would be the best that could be devised.

Some of President Roosevelt's friends hope to persuade him to bring about a radical change in the District system of government, by substituting a single dictator for the three commissioners. That plan has been tried here, and has been found wanting. In theory it is well to have a single head, but in practice the plan gave rise to violent controversies. Congress is jealous of its exclusive legislative jurisdiction over the District. It will not permit a "boss" to direct local affairs, nor would it relish the idea of the President governing the District through a figurehead. The present system works well, in spite of the undue restriction upon the authority of the three commissioners. There is no necessity for a change, and certainly District resident should be spared the ordeal of serving as subjects for civic experimentation.

When the boys who are working eight hours in the woods received the glad news that they are to have an opportunity to study forestry at night schools they enthusiastically shouted with one voice, "Baloney!" which is supposed to be a secret woodcraft password.

Ramsay MacDonald tells Parliament that he heartily supports the President's proposed tariff truce—with the usual "safeguards" for Great Britain, of course.

"The world is moving with the rapidity of a comet," shouts Newton D. Baker, showing that he hopes that it will catch up with this administration.

MUSICAL BELLS

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bells, which were introduced to England from Italy in the seventh century, are prehistoric in origin. The first church bell of which we have authentic record was placed in the tower of Wearmouth Abbey in 680, and less than a hundred years later bells were ordered to be tolled at appointed hours.

A peal was installed at Croyland Abbey in the tenth century, and from that time onward the ringing of bells from almost every steeple became common.

The development of bell ringing is due to the vision and fervor of ecclesiastics in the Middle Ages, and it is a curious fact that ringing "in peal" is, with the exception of a few "rings" in America and the Dominions, peculiar to England. In the Low Countries, where every important belfry has from 20 to 65 bells—the latter number belonging to Antwerp Cathedral—the bells are either played mechanically; that is, by means of a revolving drum, or by an expert carillonneur, who controls them by hands and feet in the same fashion as an organist controls his instrument. The usual number of bells in an English peal is from six to twelve.

There is something inexpressibly soothing about bell tunes, and Victor Hugo, in spite of a sleepless night engendered by the carillon of Mechlin Cathedral, could scrawl on the window pane of his room a glowing tribute to the beauty of those Old World chimes. In England, where people are unaccustomed to such music, there would be protests against nocturnal music, however lovely it might be, but few would object to the carillon during the working hours of the day.

In Italy, Malta, and, in a smaller degree, France, the case is different. These countries have bells, but they are "clashed," and I remember as a nightmare the clangour from a score of belfries within a mile's radius at Valetta during Holy Week. The din began at dawn and continued until dusk.

America and Canada vie with each other in cultivating bell music on Belgian lines. New York has a carillon of 53 bells, the heaviest weighing nine tons. Ottawa has a carillon of the same number, installed in the government buildings in 1927. The heaviest of these superb bells weighs ten tons and the smallest twelve pounds.

St. Paul's Cathedral, London, has the heaviest bell in England, "Great Paul," weighing fifteen tons. "Big Ben" weighs a ton and a half less. In addition to their prime function, the calling of worshipers to church, bells are associated with rejoicing and with sorrowing. The passing bell, nearly obsolete, was rung to scare away evil spirits from the departing soul. The signal for the massacre of St. Bartholomew was given on one of the bells of St. Germain l'Auxerrois, Paris. On board ship the periods of time are marked by bells, as were the canonical hours in monasteries.

The loveliest girl in the world he saw.

Oh, curious ways of the gods of chance!
He had passed her once with never a glance
For his head was high and his mind intent
On some problem deep as to work he went,
But the wind blew straw from a wagon rack
Which got in his eye, and he turned his back.

And there she stood! The mother to be
In the years to come of his children three!
Yes, there she stood, with a smiling face
And holding her hand in a firm embrace
He got the first look at his mother-in-law,
And all because of a wisp of straw.

Who knows what waits for us down the street
By what curious chances good friends meet,
Had that farmer a moment or two delayed—
A different marriage that man had made.
But a puff of wind and a wisp of straw
Gave him wife and children and mother-in-law.

If Queen Bee Is in the Hive, You Need Make No Effort to Catch the Others.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ARE you old enough to remember how important the World War seemed?

To many millions of people it seemed the one important thing in life. The loss or gain of money, births and deaths, virtue, education, fame, religion—all of these seemed petty matters with no more significance than social rank in time of shipwreck.

It was the greatest disaster in history. It affected every human being in Christendom. It changed the destiny of mankind.

Yet today it is almost forgotten, except by those it maimed. It is used to point a moral or explain a duty, but men think of it without emotion. It is history.

But if this greatest of all events is so quickly forgotten, what thing within man's knowledge and experience has lasting importance!

Certainly not the political issues and the economic and social questions that are endlessly discussed in the public prints and in private conversation.

These occupy the foreground and all eyes are focused upon them; but however great their significance in shaping the history of the race, they are not of vital or lasting importance to the individual. Tomorrow or some other morrow he will forget them and worry about something new.

What things, then, are important?

Only the things so essential that he can not be happy without them. Only the few things whose loss would doom him to misery and despair.

First, of course, is health. All of earth's riches and honors are as profitless as praise to the dead when health is gone.

Next is love. No normal human being, old or young, rich or poor, can be happy without someone to love.

Third is friendship. Without friends, life is ashes and the earth barren.

Fourth is self-respect. When it is gone, all that remains is without value.

Last, but equally essential, is money enough to afford freedom from misery and shame.

These are the things of vital and lasting importance to the individual. To strive for them is the height of wisdom.

And the height of folly is to sacrifice one of these or live in anxiety and dread because of other things that soon will be one with the snows of yesteryear.

POLITICAL COMMENT

What Politics Does to Schools.

Kansas City Star.

The plight of unpaid teachers in Chicago is not to be confused with the position of many thousands of other persons throughout the country who have been called upon to make sacrifices in the last few years. The Chicago teachers not only have suffered more, but their distress had its origin much less in general economic conditions than in an intolerable political situation years ago. It was political rottenness reflected in grossly unequal city assessments that brought on the tax crisis under which Chicago has been laboring.

The teachers, together with the school children, now are paying the penalty. The strike of Chicago high school students and of some of the teachers has had the immediate effect of bringing out a little money for the teachers, for work done in June of last year! But the protest may serve to direct attention once more to the real root of the trouble and to warn other communities of the havoc that can be wrought once politics is allowed to creep into school affairs.

Carter Glass.

Los Angeles Times.

The speech of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, in the Senate when he denounced the inflation measure and its vagaries and made a plea for the sound currency to which the Democratic party and its Presidential candidate were both solemnly pledged by the party platform and by the President's campaign, may go down in history as one of the great senatorial addresses.

No charge of party disloyalty in breaking with the administration over this measure can be charged to Senator Glass; it is the party which is departing from its principles, not the senator; but what he did took real courage and must excite the admiration even of his opponents.

Public Never Happy.

Philadelphia Bulletin.

Whereas purveyors of beer used to be blamed for having too much alcohol in it, now some of them are being censured for having too little.

Juggling $200,000,000,000.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Two hundred billions of dollars is a lot of money, but that is the sum which Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, insists the Government is juggling in its credit expansion program. We must take the senator's remarks with a grain of salt, for it is very probable that the total of our national wealth, at present price levels, is not greatly in excess of this tidy sum.

Senator Thomas, who is one of the most enthusiastic advocates of the administration inflation program, says that depreciation of the dollar and corresponding increase of price levels will shift that amount of purchasing power from the creditor classes to debtor classes. He has been bitterly assailed, and properly, for that remark.

Farmers' Own Relief.

Elk River (Minn.) Star-News.

In the long run, the farmers themselves will decide whether agriculture is to prosper or to continue in the doldrums—whether it is to advance or go back. In recent years the farmer has developed a great weapon—the cooperative. We have seen that it can do under the most unfavorable conditions and its potential achievements must still be left to the imagination. It has been a stabilising influence when stabilization was the thing the farmer most needed. It has fought valiantly for better prices and markets when markets and prices were shrinking. It has not, of course, done all it wanted to do. But if it had never existed, there might be chaos in agriculture far more severe than anything the country has experienced.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Federal Government Should Not Be Regarded Merely as a Giver of Gifts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I expect, if those panicky citizens who try to make an economic emergency the excuse for doles by the National Government would calm themselves long enough to glimpse what may happen as the result of such a policy, they would favor calling a halt on what seems to be a tendency to go the limit in that connection. Today's dole legislation is not a new thing. It started more than a century ago as a tender growth of the "general welfare" heresy and has gradually developed until it is now a deep-rooted menace. A glance at what former Presidents thought of it may be interesting.

A clause of section 8, article 1, of the Constitution says that "the Congress shall have power to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

As stated in Thomas James Norton's excellent "Constitution of the United States: Its Sources and Application"—

"President Monroe vetoed a bill for the improvement of the Cumberland road because he did not believe the work to come within this clause. President Jackson, for the like reason, vetoed every bill for public improvements that was not clearly for national welfare as distinguished from local or State advantage."

Said Old Hickory, "Against the dangers of unconstitutional acts which . . . proffer local advantages and bring in their train the patronage of the Government, we are, I fear, not so safe."

Presidents Tyler, Polk, Pierce, Grant, Arthur and Cleveland vetoed river and harbor bills. By 1882 the greed for Government largess had become common enough to pass such a bill over President Arthur's veto, and in 1896 the same thing happened to a river and harbor veto by President Cleveland.

Cleveland deplored "the unhappy decadence among our people of genuine love and affection for our Government as the embodiment of the highest and best aspirations of humanity, and not as the giver of gifts."

In 1921 President Harding said, "Just government is merely the guarantee to the people of the right and opportunity to support themselves. The one outstanding danger of today is the tendency to turn to Washington for the things which are the tasks or the duties of the forty-eight commonwealths." FEDERALIST.

Texan Sees Big Difference Between Rooseveltian and Jacksonian Democracy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "farm aid bill" is one of those pipe dreams of politicians not intended to be taken too seriously by farmers.

Government beneficence, according to this writer's observation of things, as a rule arrives too late to do the poor farmer and renter any good. Such farmers under the stress of mortgages sell as fast as gathered upon a market that carries the distress signal of low prices.

In most agencies of government established to help the poor farmer it so turns out that the agents of government and speculators in farm products reap the real financial benefits. The poor farmer and renter stand in the "unwanted column" when financial benefits are being handed around. This writer takes no stock in "farm aid bills," high protective tariffs alid up and down by "presidential discretion," instead of by joint action of Congress and the President as laid down in the Constitution of the United States.

Our patriots seem to have forgotten we have a Constitution, and proceed to nullify such parts of it as do not agree with their judgment of things politically best. This may be the way of "progressive democracy," but not the way of "Jeffersonian" or "Jacksonian" democracy. A yawning gulf of differing political principles lies between "Rooseveltian democracy" and Jeffersonian-Jacksonian type.

QUINCY DAVIDSON.

Victoria, Tex.

Beer Law Not Well Designed—Beer Should Be Cheap if It Is to Displace Whisky.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To give 3.2 per cent beer legal status as a soft drink and then legislate for its control as though it were in fact a harmful and intoxicating beverage, is the rankest hind of hypocrisy, which will defeat the earnest hope of millions of our people for the return of a sane and orderly handling of the beverage business.

A low license fee on manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer and dispenser, with the highest and most stringent requirements for personal responsibility and probity will do more to bring about orderly consumption than any other course.

The price at which beer will be available to the consumer will be a large factor in the illicit manufacture and distribution of hard liquor. The cheaper it is legally sold the more likely will it successfully compete against liquor of greater alcoholic content. PAUL CIFRINO.

Dorchester, Mass.

Zoo Inn, With Lectures on Animals, Would Be Public Benefit.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think the suggestion of "Nature Fan" that an attractive visitors' rest house or inn should be erected at the National Zoo is a good one. I think it might be a good idea if provision were made for popular lectures in natural history in such a building, especially on zoological subjects. It strikes me that lectures on zoology right among the animals would be well patronized. W. JAMESON.

Joan Blondell Asks Quiet After Playing Lurid Roles

Simplicity of Old, Homey Things Appeals Most to Young Actress.

The home wrecker, the racketeer's sweetheart, the chorus girl and others of the 32 roles already taken by Joan Blondell in her scant three years of stage and screen playing, fit oddly into the demurely simple background that the actress, here for a vaudeville engagement, sketched yesterday for a Post reporter.

"My home looks over the lovely landscape about Hollywood. It's early American in every detail," she said. "I like the simplicity of the old things. Chintzes and hooked rugs, old pewter, and a quiet atmosphere." Original etchings, the property of her newlywed husband, George Barnes, expert cameraman, who is in Washington with Miss Blondell, are the only decorations on the walls of their Hollywood home.

Few parties disturb the peace that the actress longs for outside of working hours.

"We have a 12-hour working day," she said. "We begin work on the lot at 6:45 in the morning, and it is after 7 always before we have dinner. So we naturally do not feel like giving much time to parties at home."

Frivolity may not disturb Miss Blondell's quiet, but her beloved dachshunds, her police dog and cocker spaniel must contribute a bit of noise now and then. The actress has missed her pets so mournfully that she bought a tiny Persian cat in a Washington pet shop, and the kitten, christened "Washie," for the National Capital, goes "wherever Joan goes," almost.

Children of her own are a part of Miss Blondell's scheme of life.

"We're going to save up for a family later on," she said. "I can't imagine life going on forever without children."

Next to having at least two children, Miss Blondell said her ambition is to travel about the world on a slow boat, like a freighter.

"We'd not care especially to visit Paris, or other big places," she said. "We'd rather tie up in the harbors of smaller places and see things up back alleys."

Children's Classes Ready for Riding

Capital Horse Show Will Offer Trophies for May 13 Event.

Because of the added interest in riding by Washington children a number of children's classes have been arranged for the National Capital Horse Show.

Saturday morning, May 13, will be devoted to the children's classes. All of the pony classes are well filled and there will be many attractive trophies. The "good hands" class will have a large cup donated by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Twenty entries have been received for this class.

The show, which will open May 10 at Bradley Farms, is sponsored by the Junior League of Washington, which will give all proceeds to charity.

Center Sponsors Program.

Southeast Community Center will sponsor an entertainment by "Lippy, the Master Magician," in Hine School Auditorium, Seventh and C streets southeast, tonight at 8 o'clock, when a program of interest to young and old will be given, including many feats of illusion and experiments in chemical magic for which Lippy is well known.

The Meanderer

Finds Sensational Black Linen Dresses Arriving in Washington; Discusses Clothes With Joan Blondell.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Black linen and black pique—the sensation of New York fashion centers, has arrived in Washington. The stylist in the cotton wear department of an F street shop who spent this week in New York, found no higher fashion anywhere than the black linen and cotton frocks. Street type black linen or pique dresses are worn with white pique or matelasse jackets. One of the new types in these black frocks is for beach wear, cut almost to backlessness, with large bows tying on the shoulders. This high fashion of black washable dresses is not an expensive mode, for their price tags say only $5.95. The white jackets for wear with the black gowns have not arrived, but are expected within a few days. They will sell for $2.95.

"What would you choose to wear if you were the average young matron of modest means—limited to only one or two street costumes each season?" the Meanderer asked winsome Joan Blondell, during the motor ride the actress allowed the Meanderer to share while she saw Washington with all its May-time charm.

"I'd have one or two plain dark suits with which I could wear several changes of blouses, hats, shoes and small accessories," the actress said promptly. She was wearing one of the several attractive costumes she chose from Washington shops. It was a three-piece suit, composed of bright field print blouse and three-quarter coat, worn with a skirt of dark brown crepe silk. Her hat was a dark brown sport felt, worn with an exaggerated tip to one side to expose her bright, short hair.

Other gowns chosen by Miss Blondell in Washington shops include the gingham evening gown in which she is pictured this morning in The Washington Post; a swagger suit of white, combined with brown and white silk, and a red-dotted white mousseline de soie party frock with an enormous red sash. The latter was purchased in a Fourteenth street shop and others mentioned from a store on F street at Seventh.

Outstanding fashion notes the Meanderer has taken through the week concern a demure gray handkerchief linen frock, with a neat tie at the throat and puffed sleeves. An eyelet embroidery coat in the new beet shade is worn over the gray dress, and the ensemble is offered for $7.95.

Men's and boys' wrist watches are to sell on Saturday in an F street store for $1.89. The watches are of recognized make and have two styles of wrist strap from which to select.

Children's hose, 5,000 pairs of them, are to sell two pairs for 25 cents in the same store featuring the wrist watch sale. They are half hose made to sell for 25 cents or more a pair.

Home makers who live in old houses where shower baths have not been installed will like the faucet shower attachments for 65 and 95 cents showing in the bath and boudoir shop of a large department store on Fourteenth street. The shower bath attachments for the tub are in white or colored rubber. This shower arrangement may be set about the shoulders to prevent wetting the hair while bathing.

Comedian Signs for $1 a Week.

Hollywood, Calif., May 4 (A.P.).—Harry Green, film comedian, was so anxious to play a tragic part in a Cecil de Mille picture that he signed a contract today to work for $1 a week. This is about $999 less than Green takes in as a comic character.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. and from 10:50 p. m. to 11:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 12:30 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

You may possibly receive some very good news concerning a friend very dear to you. A good day for travel and to begin a long journey. Children will be inclined to sulk if they do not get their way. More than one pair of lovers will "come to an understanding" this day.

The child born on this May 5 will probably do outstandingly good work in school. He will not be the easiest person for his parents and teachers to handle, and, due to his conceited manner and "uppish" attitude toward others of his own age he will not be a popular little one.

If May 5 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a very impractical person. You are not a dependable person. Easy going and desirous of maintaining peace at any price you spend a great deal of your time running around trying to agree with everybody. As a result, no one is ever quite sure just where you stand on any question and it is often the case that you can not make up your own mind. Usually a most considerate person, there are times when in seeking to satisfy some almost childish whim of yours you totally disregard the desires as well as the rights of others. You take an almost childish delight in "going places and seeing things;" your sense of humor is quite immature.

Born on May 5, you will do your best work if you are not too much "pinned down" or "hemmed in" by others. A goodly amount of independence should be yours, but you will not succeed if you are absolutely and unreservedly your own boss. You have no idea of money and you are not one to be intrusted with the funds of others; it is not that you are dishonest, but that you are not sufficiently alert to keep a good eye on it. Married to a mate who is wise enough to see your possibilities and to handle you and direct your efforts along right channels you make quite a success of yourself. You will make a good wife or husband, as the case may be, and you will be devoted to your family.

Successful people born on May 5:

Frederick A. P. Barnard, educator.

John W. Draper, chemist and physiologist.

John B. Stetson, merchant and philanthropist.

Hubert Howe Bancroft, historian.

William Potts, author.

Elmer Gates, inventor and scientist.

World's Sunday School Group Elects Etchison

Page McK. Etchison, religious work director of the Washington Y. M. C. A., has been elected a member of the North American administration committee of the World's Sunday School Association, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Etchison is also secretary of the District of Columbia Sunday School Association and president of the Organized Bible Class.

Today's Recipe

Brown Sugar Cookies (2 dozen).

½ cup butter
1 cup dark brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoon cream
¼ cup nuts
¼ teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and cream and beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and drop portions of stiff dough onto greased baking sheets. Flatten with knife and bake 12 minutes.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A couple of chic and subtle evening decolletes. (Selected from New York shops.)

SOME of the loveliest evening dresses that have made their appearance in Paris look as though they emerged from a jeweler rather than from a couturier. Huge paillettes or big cabochons are interspersed at regular intervals on a dress—and held together with embroidery which looks for all the world like the slender chains of a piece of jewelry, or they are sewn onto a foundation of net which doesn't seem to be holding them together at all.

This may have something to do with the revived interest in costume jewelry which Paris reports. Real, or more costume jewelry, is used in many ways right on frocks—as neck finishing, or fastenings or belts. Other and very new costume jewelry is fashioned to be especially worn on various parts of a dress—something hard to describe, but best explained by saying that it is an offspring of the famous jeweled clip.

Patou and Ardanse are both sponsoring jewelry sewn right on or into the frock. Maggy Rouff makes necklaces and dress fastenings of various sorts in jewelry.

• • • •

One must not think that the high crown hat is matronly. It is—but not entirely. There are versions of it which are very youthful as well as those which are ageless, but should be worn only by definite personalities. Little by little we are getting accustomed to this high crown—it was hard to get used to, you know. Still is, I can hear you say!

• • • •

Evening decolletages are so important—it almost seems as though Miladi doesn't exist between her ankles and her bust! I sketched two for you today, decolletages I mean. One is very simple and graceful, more subtle than the other. But the other front and back, is quite delightful, too.

• • • •

One shoulder can support a huge ruche or feather pompon—and be even smarter than when two shoulders do it!

• • • •

And if you want to know where the emphasis is on skirts, if and when any—it is in the back only. Trains are here and there, but I never see one in the salon of a famous couturier that I don't wonder where else it ever goes! Hostess dinner gowns and tea gowns, of course—all often allow trains. Even hostess pajamas have occasionally an amusing train effect on each trouser hem—reminding one of certain proud birds with feather tufts at the back of their claws!

• • • •

Felt bags made from flat felt, or flannel, or those felt hat forms which come in such lovely colors; velvet bags cut "en volante" and a fluffy flower vanity for evening which looks like a corsage but is an evening vanity—these and others make our leaflet on bags for you. You can have a bag for every single outfit in your wardrobe without being obliged to buy cheap bags or go without! Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make them. You can turn the leaflet over to your maid or dressmaker if you haven't time to make these bags, and with it they can make them for you as they never could without it!

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

670.

LOSING AN ACE.

VOLUMES have been written for the admonition and guidance of Bridge players, who, to use the popular slang phrase, "go to bed with an Ace"—in other words, fail to take a trick with the highest card in the suit. Generally speaking, such criticisms have a sound basis in fact, but, like all other generalizations, they have their qualifications and exceptions, as I was fortunate enough to demonstrate in a recent Rubber game in the Experts' Room at Crockford's Club, New York, on a hand in which I was defending a contract of six spades with the East hand pictured below:

North, Dealer.
Both side vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 5 ♡ 6 ◇ A 9 8 4 2 ♣ A K 7 4
♠ J 7 3 ♡ 9 4 ◇ Q 10 6 5 2 ♣ Q J 10	N W E S	♠ 10 6 ♡ A 10 7 3 2 ◇ K J ♣ 9 8 6 2
	♠ K 9 8 4 2 ♡ K Q J 8 5 ◇ 7 ♣ 5 3

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1◇	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♣(1)	Pass	3♡(2)	Pass
4♠(3)	Pass	5♠(4)	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A Jump bid in a new suit; therefore a Force to game, justified by the ascertained fit in spades.
2—Disclosing a second biddable suit.
3—A mild Slam try.
4—Justified in view of his partner's strong bidding.

My partner opened the club Queen against the Slam contract. This trick was won in the Dummy, and the Declarer, one of New York's strongest experts, then led the singleton heart 6. The obvious play, of course, which would avoid the danger of "going to bed with the Ace," would be to play that card at once, in view of the fact that it might be the only opportunity to win a trick with it if the Declarer's spades included the Knave as well as the King. However, this appeared to me like giving up the ship, and instead of the Ace I played the 2. A small heart was led by the Declarer and ruffed in the Dummy hand with the 8. Then two rounds of spades were taken with the Ace and Queen. The Ace of diamonds was laid down, and the Declarer reentered his own hand by ruffing a low diamond, then drew my partner's last trump with the King, but the prospect of making the contract had vanished into thin air. He led his last club, won in Dummy and returned to his own hand by ruffing the third round of clubs. This voided my hand of clubs, and South now made his last desperate try for the Slam by leading the King of hearts. Of course, should I win now, his heart tenace would be sufficient to assure success, but being able to count to thirteen, I refused the profitless eleventh trick, preferring instead the twelfth and that all-important trick, the thirteenth and contract-setting trick.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If West has opened the spade 6 against a contract of three notrump, what later defensive measures can he adopt to prevent the making of the contract?

South, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ K 8 5 3 ♡ J 8 7 5 ◇ 9 8 ♣ 8 5 4
♠ Q 9 7 6 2 ♡ A 3 2 ◇ 4 2 ♣ A Q 10	N W E S	♠ J ♡ 10 6 ◇ K J 10 7 6 5 ♣ 7 6 3 2
	♠ A 10 4 ♡ K Q 9 4 ◇ A Q 3 ♣ K J 9

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DENTAL WORK AND ELECTRIC BATTERIES.

MANY write this column asking the reason for metallic tastes, sore tongue and excess salivation, and they have no satisfactory explanation. Some of the tongue and mouth troubles are due to pernicious anemia and pellagra, some of the bad tastes are due to reverse peristalsis and sleeping with the mouth open, and some of the ulcers are due to eating badly balanced diets. These facts have been told many times, and some have found in one or another explanation of their difficulties. But many who have come asking for bread have gone away with stones.

Dr. E. S. Lain, of Oklahoma, has answer for many thousands who are in the group who have these various disagreeable mouth symptoms. He first wrote his observations and opinions a few years ago. What he thought has been confirmed by several men in Europe and America. He now repeats his former statements, supporting them by much scientific work and observation of several hundred cases, and quoting others who are of his opinion.

His explanation is metallic plates, crowns, bridges and fillings. When the mouth contains metallic appliances, including fillings, and more than one kind of metal is used, galvanic action goes on between the metals. One piece of dental work containing certain metals acts as the positive pole of the battery and another piece containing other metals the negative one.

Between the two there is a steady flow of electricity of low grade. This may act on the tissues of the mouth directly. It breaks up the metals of the dental work and carries them through the tissues of the mouth from one pole to another. In this way the tissues of the mouth are indirectly injured. The products of this electric action may be absorbed and cause organic disorders in other parts of the body, Dr. Lain thinks, but he has not much proof on that point.

In at least four-fifths of his patients with trouble due to this cause complaint is made of excess flow of saliva. Peculiar sensations of the throat and dryness of the throat are also listed among the effects. It causes erosions of the teeth, though it may not be the only cause or even the most frequent one. There may be pigmentation of the gums and the lining membranes of the cheeks as a result of this ionic action. Ulcers, patches, including leucoplakia patches, and zones of inflammations are among the more serious effects.

36-Year Silence Ends As Daughter Gets $750

Seattle, May 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Nels Peterson, of Port Blakely, has heard of her father for the first time since he left her as a child in Massachusetts 36 years ago. The message was in the form of a check for $750, representing her share of the money he left when he died, friendless and alone, in the city hospital here a year ago, not knowing his daughter was living just a few miles away.

The relationship was traced through an old note book in his effects, and advertising in an Eastern newspaper. A son was found in New Hampshire.

Community Group Creation Proposed

Rabbi Says Sunday School Breeds Agnosticism and Atheism.

Cincinnati, May 4 (A.P.).—Two suggestions that would drastically alter or possibly replace a long-standing institution—the Sunday school—were placed before the Religious Education Association delegates here today.

Dr. Adelaide Case, of Columbia University Teachers College, said she felt Sunday schools were retarding religious progress and proposed the creation of community groups of wider scope.

Previously Rabbi Isaac Landman, of New York, editor of the American Hebrew, called Sunday schools, as now constituted, breeders of agnosticism and atheism and the "greatest weakness" and "most costly liability" of the church.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

FREE SPEECH.

VERY little children do not question their parents' opinions. As far as they have thoughts about concerns beyond the home, these thoughts are identical with those of their parents.

It is not until they have developed thinking powers of their own and have met, in addition, experience which shows them that other opinions are possible and that, indeed, these may reflect a more enlightened attitude than that of father or mother, that a conflict may arise.

It is important for our future citizens to be able to think about social questions as nearly without prejudice as possible.

In many of our more progressive communities this is furthered by discussion groups in schools in connection with history and other social sciences.

Under the guidance of a good teacher these groups frequently engage in discussions which cause many children to hear expressed views at variance with those which they have heard at home.

When your child comes home from such a group with an opinion—about some aspect of history, politics, patriotism or the solution of an economic problem—which is at variance to your own, resist the impulse to tell him that what he thinks is all wrong and that what you think is all right.

Instead, ask him for his reasons and then, if you like, counter with reasons of your own.

The main point is to remain reasonable, to defend your different stand with evidence. Bring all the arguments you like, but don't browbeat, and allow your child to answer freely.

If you must voice your opinion, then voice it as such and let your child feel that he has an equal right to an opinion of his own.

Beery Gets Delay In Insurance Row

Barbara Bedford Charges Actor Is Abusing Power of Attorney.

Los Angeles, May 4 (A.P.).—A demand that a citation be issued to "drag" Wallace Beery, movie villain, away from a picture set to a court hearing was denied today by Court Commissioner Clemence Brown. The hearing was put off two weeks.

The demand was made by Nathan Friedman, attorney for Barbara Bedford, former movie actress, who is at odds with Beery over the $10,000 insurance policy of John Albert Rascoe, her late former husband.

Miss Bedford's complaint said Rascoe left his insurance to Beery with the understanding the latter would care for his daughter, Barbara Edith Rascoe, 8 years old, and that Beery now wishes to send the child away to school, while Miss Bedford is determined to keep her at home.

Jury Women Sob In Convicting Boy

Young Georgian Is Facing Prison for Part in Robbery and Kidnaping.

Madison, Wis., May 4 (A.P.)—Camie Holman, 19, Columbus, Ga., was convicted on three charges, including kidnaping, today. Woman jurors sobbed as the verdict was read. In addition to the kidnaping charge, Holman was found guilty of assault with intent to rob, while armed, and of larceny of an automobile.

J. C. Gray, Madison salesman, identified Holman as one of two men who held him up on a street last January and took him to a lodging house where he was bound and gagged. Holman subsequently was arrested in Columbus, Ga., driving Gray's car.

Conviction on a kidnaping charge carries a penalty of 1 to 15 years.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A SURVEY by Capt. S. C. Hooper, chief of naval communications, shows that while Great Britain controls 187,584 nautical miles of cable service and the United States 83,012 miles, the latter "has a leading place in world rapid communication because of radio." When the World War ended, Great Britain was planning a monopoly of radio. A beginning had been made in constructing a chain of stations. Except for the competition of the United States, Great Britain would have dominated both cable and radio communication.

There were American-owned radio patents, and the United States was able to form a powerful company and outstrip Great Britain in spite of her early start. Last year the American company operated 27 circuits connecting New York City with Europe, Asia Minor, Africa, South America, the West Indies, Panama and Canada. In addition, there are relay extensions in Africa and Asia. The United States is now taking the leading part in this method of communication.

Mrs. Raymond B. Dickey will give a program of violin music over the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs period (WMAL, 11 a. m.). She will be accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Frietag . . . Mrs. Adolf Torovsky will speak over WMAL at 7:31 p. m. . . . Services of the Free Methodist Church, of Alexandria, of which Rev. J. M. Jennings is pastor, will be broadcast (WJSV, 7 a. m.) . . . Commander W. C. Graham will offer suggestions on "How to Get a Job" (WJSV, 1 p. m.). . . . Beginning tonight at 7 o'clock the New Willard Concert Ensemble, under the direction of Harry Albert, will broadcast its first program to the National Broadcasting Co. Southeastern network. The program will not be heard locally.

In the old days, when a distinguished guest said good-by that was usually the last you heard of him. Maybe there was a message of farewell as he boarded his ship. In later years there might even have been a wireless as he left our shores.

Now it is different. Perhaps before many realized that he had time to get back, Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon will be heard from London with a final word to President Roosevelt and the American people.

The address will be broadcast over WMAL at 3:10 o'clock.

PREPARATIONS are being made to broadcast the graduation exercises at the Naval Academy, June 1, which President Roosevelt will attend. The microphones will pick up the cheering of the midshipmen and a description of the "hat tossing" climax.

Things are so tough in Texas, report Eddie and Ralph, Sisters of the Skillet, that horse thieves are stealing Shetland ponies.

The First Nighter, weekly dramatic program, will reach its coast-to-coast listeners at a new hour as it goes into its third year over WJZ network, beginning tonight at 9:30 o'clock.

Peggy Cartwright, English stage and screen actress, will join her husband, Phil Baker, the Jester, in a special skit over the WJZ network tonight at 8:30 o'clock, during the Armour program.

GRACE MOORE, operatic soprano, will appear with Edwin Hill on the "Inside Story" program over WJSV tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Moore was born at Jellicoe, Tenn.

Richard S. Simon, head of the publishing house of Simon & Schuster, and his brother, Dr. Henry Simon, professor of English at Columbia University, will be the amateur guest artists on the Music Is My Hobby program over WMAL tonight at 9 o'clock. The brothers, who have studied music for many years, will be heard together in the first movement of Cesar Franck's Sonata for violin and piano.

Zona Gale, the novelist whose "Neighbors" sketches are heard weekly, is a member in good standing in the Literary Housewives' Union. Among other members are our own Mary Roberts Rinehart, Dorothy Canfield and Margaret Culkin Banning. They all achieved success in literature while presiding over homes.

"Some observers believe Mars is trying to signal us," said an astronomer on the airways. "Well if they are," remarked Jack Benny, "they must want to sell us war bonds."

Louise Starkey, of Clara, Lu 'n' Em, defines a pedestrian as a man with a roadster and four grown daughters.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE HENRY A. WALLACE and Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, who may be radio's new czar, will be heard over WMAL today, at 10 a. m. Secretary Wallace will discuss "The Future in American Agriculture" and Secretary Roper will talk on "The Place and Functions of the Department of Commerce." They will address the National Chamber of Commerce Convention.

"Critical appreciation of the beauty of speech is spreading across our country for the first time in history," says Emily Post, arbiter of manners. "At the moment America has suddenly become appreciative of distinguished diction, including that of President Roosevelt. This much radio and motion pictures are doing for us."

A feature listed by Station WOL is the good-will religious programs presented by the Rev. Clark Forcey, the evangelist of the air.

The programs are interdenominational in character, and include the singing of the old Gospel hymns, prayer, and brief inspirational talks. They will continue over WOL on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 12:45 noon, and on Sundays at 1

IRVIN S. COBB'S drawl will come into its own when the humorist from Paducah tells a famous Bert Williams story as the highlight of his second program over WJSV tonight at 8 o'clock. It is also possible Irvin may have a word or so to say about the Kentucky Derby. Al Goodman's Orchestra will provide the incidental music.

"Two Tickets to Georgia," with Southern Betty Barthell leading the way, will be sung in the program in which the blue-eyed songstress joins forces with the Eton boys and Freddie Rich's Orchestra over WJSV tonight at 9:15 o'clock.

The special dance on the eve of the Kentucky Derby at the Brown Hotel in Louisville will be broadcast over WJSV from 11:30 to 12 midnight tonight. The Brown is the traditional gathering place of those who troupe to the Kentucky city for the race on the morrow. Barney Rapp and his New Englanders have been imported for the occasion and will supply the music.

NINO MARTINI, the young Italian tenor, who via radio has just sung himself into a contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be heard tonight (WJSV, 7 o'clock). John Charles Thomas, also well known to the radio, likewise has been signed by the Metropolitan for next season.

"Let's Call It a Day" is the melody which Dolph Martin has chosen to open his orchestra's program with the Travelers Quartet tonight over WJSV at 6:30 o'clock.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK.—It happened on a terrace looking out upon the East River. Light clouds, running across the sky, kept the moon partly obscured. From below occasionally came the plaintive moan of a tugboat whistle.

It is at such moments that a person is likely to throw aside his mask, his play acting gestures of every day life, and confess his real self. It was at such a moment that I heard a confession that was indeed surprising.

She was a woman whom I had heard of for several years, but this was the first time I was introduced to her. One of those strange quirks of the human race is that it nearly always chooses a new acquaintance to hear what is really in its heart.

This woman is about 30 years of age, and her life, seemingly, has been a full and successful one. She is in the Social Register. She is a well-known actress on both stage and screen. By right of unlimited education in fashionable schools here and abroad she is regarded as one of the princesses of the intelligentsia.

Having unlimited wealth and a taste for chic fashions, she is one of those who is looked to to inaugurate new styles. While attractive looking, her beauty is not that glorified feminine type. Rather she is a comedienne. Looking at her, you think she is very fascinating, but she impresses your sense of humor more. Just glancing at her makes one chuckle.

Life's Disappointing.

"You think I should be a happy woman," she said. "Maybe I should be, for I've had more than my share of advantages. But, I've never had a thing in my life I really wanted.

"People think I am witty, intellectual and a charming companion, and I've worked so hard to live up to that role. I am the scintillating Miss Lah-de-dah of the cosmopolitan drawing room; the too, too hilarious comedienne of the theater.

"I get so utterly weary of being all that. Even when I was a young girl in school in Paris, I wanted only one thing. I wanted to get married, to live away from people out in the country. I wanted only to be myself, but I never have been.

"I've been in love once or twice, but it was no go. The men liked me, but it was because they thought I was funny, entertaining. I know I sound like a Pagliacci, but it's the truth. And I suspect I'll have to go on being Pagliacci to the end of my days. I not only have the reputation, but I look the part. So there is no escape."

Manhattan Notes.

Jimmie Durante was almost mobbed by admirers at the Giants' opening game.

Jim O'Connor has closed his famous Broadway tavern and gone back to fishing and golfing at his Albany country home.

Rails, Oils and Rubber Lead Stocks in Another Advance

Net Gains of 1 to 3 Points Recorded; Sales Up to 4,596,517 Shares.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—Stocks entered the third week of their "inflation market" today with the appetite for equities still unsated and prices rolled higher after a little early unsettlement. Many commodities were again hesitant, but secondary categories in the bond list, as well as a goodly number of high grade loans, appreciated. Net gains for shares ranged from 1 to more than 3 points.

Rail securities struck out for higher prices and attained considerable momentum and volume on the upswing. Oils also perked up after their recent period of depression, while steel shares were prominent. Metals, which did nobly Wednesday, rested on those laurels. Motors and chemicals rallied, but some utilities did little more than mark time. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press industrial average made a new 1933 high, while the 90-stocks composite did likewise.

President Roosevelt's message and introduction into Congress of the legislation necessary to make his recommendations law found the carriers already on their upward move. The Chief Executive's proposals had been well publicized in advance, but the market evidently felt they had not been fully discounted. No doubt enthusiasm was bolstered by evidence of improving traffic and a thought that actual movement of commodities into actual consumption would give the roads' business a substantial boost. Many carriers reached new 1933 highs, gains ranging from 1 to 2 points or better for most of the actives.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, National and Republic steels improved fractions to a couple of points. General Motors was up 2 on a large turnover, while gains for Du Pont and Allied Chemical were more than 3. Standard Oil of New Jersey was up 2⅝, Texas Corporation nearly 2 and Standard Oil of California 1½; Socony-Vacuum rose half a point.

Rubber issues were strong. American Telephone closed 2 points above par for a net gain of 2½; the dividend meeting comes soon. Case rallied with wheat. Pillsbury Flour, achieving distinction by virtue of an increase in the quarterly dividend to 25 cents from 15, made a new high for the year. Turnover maintained a very profitable volume for commission houses, totaling 4,596,517 shares.

Some forecasters are talking about a 35 per cent operating ratio for the steel industry in the near future. Much stronger support would be provided if railroad buying were to develop on an appreciable scale; Pennsylvania's plans to purchase 20,000 to 25,000 tons of rail are interesting in this connection, though numerous roads still have sizeable tonnages on hand.

Chain store stocks made little response to their April sales statistics. These companies apparently enjoyed a marked pickup last month; in at least one instance dollar volume ran ahead of a year ago. Automobile shares were favored by an April production estimate that represented the best single month for that industry since July, 1931.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	555	384
Declines	138	293
Unchanged	137	158
Total issues	830	835

Stocks.

Upward trends in trading entered the third week with stocks gaining 1.9 points. Advances were more widely distributed. Sales volume increased to 4,596,517 shares.

Bonds.

Rail loans repeated their role of leading the list to higher ground. The average gain was six-tenths of a point. Sales totaled $18,153,000.

Curb.

Taking its cue from the big board, the Curb gained in buoyant trading. Oils led the advance. Sales dropped slightly to 463,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values continued to advance. The political outlook at Washington and economic moves were regarded as aids. Corn and oats gained. May wheat sold at 72½ cents.

Cotton.

After a mild reaction, prices advanced on renewed buying. Realizing and Southern selling caused the early drop. The market closed 2 to 9 points up. July sold at 8.30.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for May 2 were $573,454,977.89; expenditures, $366,649,013.77; balance, $545,869,930.91. Customs duties for two days of May were $1,637,957.88.

RAIL BONDS REPEAT HIGHER LEVEL CLIMB

Secondary Issues in Lead as Sales Mount to $18,153,000.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—Railway loans led the bond market on another upward spurt today as the administration's new carrier relief bill, accompanied by a special explanatory message from President Roosevelt, reached Congress.

Secondary issues, as in recent sessions, were the most buoyant, but United States Government securities, at the same time, maintained their forward trend and various of the so-called "gilt-edge" corporation maturities displayed a steady to firm front.

The trading volume again expanded on the upturn, sales totaling $18,153,000 par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds gained six-tenths of a point.

The more active rail loans, with gains of 1 to around 5 points, included some of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Central Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Scrap Iron Activity Points to Recovery, Leaders Say

Cleveland, May 4 (A.P.).—Activity in the scrap iron business, widely recognized as a barometer of all industry, is signaling "good weather" ahead, leaders in that trade agreed today.

Twenty-five directors of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel emerged from an all-day conference here with these predictions, as formulated by the institute's director-general, Benjamin Schwartz:

"A further increase in scrap prices, which within the last six weeks have risen 50 to 75 per cent, is imminent, due to a scrap shortage and increased demand by the steel mills.

"The rising of steel mill operations, now about 30 per cent, will reach 35 per cent within three weeks."

Mr. Schwartz said there is only enough prepared scrap in dealers' yards in the United States today to supply the steel industry at the present rate of operations for six weeks. That estimate does not include the millions of tons of unprepared scrap which has been accumulating throughout the country for the last three years.

The scrap shortage, he said, has come about because the mills have been digging heavily into their own scrap piles while, on the other end, dealers' piles have been depleted.

"A for the dealers' reserves, very little scrap has been added in the last three years, due to the slackening of industrial activity. There have been occasional distress sales by dealers who had to strengthen their financial positions, and the mills have permitted the export of tremendous tonnages of scrap.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement today of any change in the rediscount rate of 3 per cent.

CURB PRICES HIGHER UNDER LEAD OF OILS

All Groups Join Advance as Turnover Declines to 463,000 Shares.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—Taking its cue from the action of the big board, the curb market, after early unsettlement today developed a degree of strength that increased on spirited demand for oil shares in the late trading.

Virtually all groups participated in the improvement which netted advances of fractions to more than 2 points throughout the list.

Among the petroleum issues, recent recessions were sharply reduced by Gulf Oil and Humble Oil, which rose 2¾ and 4¾ points respectively. Standard Oil of Indiana, International Petroleum and Standard Oil of Kentucky improved major fractions to a point.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON TRADE'S OUTLOOK

Washington News Expected to Aid Upturn; Other Grains Advance.

Chicago, May 4 (A.P.).—A strong upward movement of grain prices developed special energy late today owing to belief that an address by President Roosevelt tonight would prove constructive.

The rise carried wheat for the first time in a long while to within hailing distance of 80 cents a bushel here. No. 2 red wheat sold at 78 cents spot cash with demand extremely active from millers. Future deliveries were stimulated by persistent speculative purchasing attributed largely to inflation and to proposed novel methods of the Department of Agriculture under the new farm bill.

Wheat closed firm, ⅞ to 1½ above yesterday's finish; corn, ½ to 1½ advanced; oats, ½ off to ⅜ up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a gain of 15 cents.

Heavy Wheat Buying.

Heavy buying in wheat in the final hour appeared to come from eastern sources and from a Chicago trade leader. Earlier, there was selling that was ascribed to liquidation on the part of eastern holders. This selling weakened the market at times, but it was readily absorbed by commission houses, and the market bounced back whenever the selling let up.

Tending notably to help wheat prices higher were reports that spring seeding in Canada was ten days to three weeks late. Enlarged receipts of domestic wheat southwest and northwest attracted considerable notice, but failed to have any lasting market influence, although Kansas City totaled 121 cars against 78 at this time last year, and Minneapolis and Duluth made an even more striking comparison. Today's price for No. 2 red wheat in Chicago, 78 cents, was the highest in sixteen months.

Corn and oats we epenlernd

Corn and oats were independently strong, on account of widespread delays to corn planting.

Provisions went higher with grains.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON DRIVE OF BUYING

July Sells at 8.30 With General Market Up 2 to 9 Points.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—The cotton market was mildly reactionary in the early trading today, but prices firmed near the close.

July contracts sold from 8.15 to 8.40, but met increased realizing at this figure and closed at 8.30. The final tone of the market was barely steady, although last prices showed net gains of 2 to 9 points.

The opening was 7 to 10 points lower, in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, further realizing and some Southern selling.

Pressure was not heavy and this, combined with firmness in grain and strength in the stock market, started another flurry of buying during the afternoon.

October sold up to 8.65, or 19 points net higher, while March touched 9.02, making a new high for the movement, before the advance was checked by renewed realizing, which caused reactions of 9 or 10 points from the best on the more active positions.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today, closing 1 to 4 points higher on scattered convering, promoted by the steadiness of grains and other commodity markets. Sales were 7 contracts. Bleachable spot and May closed 4.65, July, 4.86, September 5.00 and December 5.10.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Copper—Buying in the domestic market has turned quiet but is broadening in the export division, according to trade interests. The price abroad has been marked up to around 6¾ cents a pound, compared with a recent level of 6¼ cents.

Flour—Production in April in the principal milling centers totaled 5,013,892 barrels, compared with 5,367,252 in April, 1932, General Mills, Inc., reports.

Alcohol—Trade reports indicate a considerable increase in consumption during the past few weeks. Some consumers having contracts for their requirements to the end of June are said to be calling for immediate deliveries.

Linseed oil—Seed prices continue strong, fostering talk of another advance in oil prices in trade quarters.

Steel—Tin plate production, in response to seasonal influences, has risen to an average of 55 per cent of capacity, and continues the most active branch of the steel industry.

Paint materials—Dealers report some pickup in demand, particularly in lead pigments, pigment fillers and white zinc oxides.

BANK OF FRANCE.

Paris, May 4 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 31,000,000; sight balances abroad increased 14,000,000; bills discounted at home increased 617,000,000; bills bought abroad decreased 49,000,000; advances decreased 26,000,000; circulation increased 1,212,000,000; current accounts decreased 446,000,000.

Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

DIVIDEND INCREASED BY PILLSBURY FLOUR

American Steel Foundries Will Pay 50 Cents on Preferred.

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., today increased the dividend over the rate paid in the last two quarters. Directors voted a quarterly disbursement of 25 cents a share compared with dividends of 15 cents three and six months ago. It is payable June 1 to stock of record May 15.

Bendix Aviation Corporation reports March quarter net loss of $367,463 against profit of $26,364 in the corresponding period last year.

The first-quarter report of the Tide Water Associated Oil Co., to be used soon, will show a substantial operating loss, Axtell J. Byles, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting today.

Questioned regarding a possible resumption of dividends on the preferred stock, he said that such action would have to depend on the course of business.

American Steel Foundries reports net loss of $495,582 for the first quarter of 1933, as compared with net loss of $350,800 in the corresponding period. Directors have declared a dividend of 50 cents a preferred share, payable June 30, to stock of record June 15. A similar payment was made three months ago.

Chicago, May 4 (A.P.).—Edward G. Seibert, president of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, declared today, as the corporation's annual report was issued, that "conditions and practices in the oil industry must be improved."

Earnings of the company in 1932 were $16,558,291, or $1.04 a share of the 15,941,849 shares outstanding, compared with $17,596,366 in 1931, also equivalent to $1.04 a share.

"Nearly 1,000,000 shares of its own stock were bought by the company in 1932 and retired," the report said. "The decrease in earnings is explained as resulting largely from unprofitable markets for finished products."

O'NEAL GIVES VIEWS ON WORLD TROUBLES

Farm Bureau Official Says Men Must Learn to Work With Fellow Man.

Man must learn to work with his fellow man before the country can emerge from its economic troubles, speakers declared yesterday afternoon at the second session of the citizens conference on vocational education and the problems of reconstruction being held at the Willard Hotel.

Charges that Americans have forgotten the value of human relations and that individualism has overshadowed all else were made by Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau, and Charles A. Ewing, president of the National Live Stock Marketing Association.

Arthur E. Holder, of the Department of Labor, envisioned effective trade union organizations as a step toward solution of the problems of workers. Not until then, he said, will confidence and buying power be restored.

"Crime of Century."

Mr. Holder described "as the crime of the century" the effort of war profiteers in 1920 to defiate labor. He said that the most significant trouble in the country today is that labor is being pinched and it is not getting the proper proportion of what it earns.

Successful training of boys as shipbuilders was described by Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. Mr. Ferguson declared that through vocational education skill once imported from abroad is now obtainable in a community.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, who opened the afternoon session with an address of welcome, attributed the present difficulties of the Nation to the fact that the United States has become a creditor nation instead of a debtor one, and to the rapid changes in scientific technique.

Million Go to Farms.

Secretary Wallace pointed out that 1,000,000 persons have returned to the farms from industry and that they are facing the problem of readjusting themselves to the changes in agriculture since they left it.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, were the principal speakers at the morning session.

Senator La Follette deplored the lack of any accurate information about the depression, that there was no statistics regarding the number of unemployed and those on part-time wages.

Secretary Perkins declared that greater versatility is needed in training, pointing out that many are unable to get employment because they are not equipped to do but a certain type of work.

Edgar Morris Gets Post on Gas Board

Southern Association Ends Three-Day Meeting; Memphis Next.

Edgar Morris, president of the Edgar Morris Sales Co. of Washington, was elected a member of the board of directors of the Southern Gas Association at the close of their three-day convention yesterday at the Shoreham Hotel.

Other officers elected were B. B. Ferguson, of Portsmouth, Va., president; Edmund S. Dickey, of Baltimore, first vice president; W. W. Winters, of Atlanta, Ga., second vice president, and S. L. Drumm, of New Orleans, secretary and treasurer.

Other members of the board of directors are Street Russell and W. L. Plummer, both of Atlanta; L. H. Hungate, of Memphis; C. L. Ridgeley, of Nashville; C. B. Gamble, of Birmingham; J. F. Orr, of Houston, and C. M. Rogers, of New Orleans.

The association voted to hold its 1934 meeting in Memphis.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

WHILE Georgie Jessel variously occupied himself welcoming new guests, answering the almost incessant jingling of the telephone, brewing the tea and otherwise general-factotuming in the role of host, in a spacious suite at the Shoreham yesterday afternoon, one gathered from Miss Norma Talmadge's valiant attempt to keep abreast of a constant barrage of pertinent and impertinent questions exploded in her face by the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the press, photographers, sun-parlor squatters and just plain laity, that she is not in pictures primarily by reason of a dismal paucity of suitable stories for the proper display of her talents as a star of the audible celluloids; that picture house appearances at the rate of four of five a day do not constitute her ideal of the art of Thespis in its more impressive manifestations; that something dramatically excellent, to be performed six nights a week and at two matinees, would be greatly to her liking; that a tentative excursion into musical revue, in the grand manner, and Chicago's World's Fair crowds rather intrigues her; that Washington has improved vastly since she was last here, sixteen years or so ago; that she and sister Constance, the present Mrs. Netcher, both fear that their public of the silent days has largely forgotten them and that their names would mean nothing to the young people who have come along since the advent of sound and dialogue to the screen; that movie stars are entitled to headline salaries on a basis of a proper percentage of what they can draw to the ticket wickets; that although once an ardent equestrienne, the only part of a horse she cares for now are his eyelashes; that Mr. Jessel is a bully and that her bump of geographical sense is a dent!

NORMA TALMADGE.

This, it may interest you to know, was not expounded in one long breath, as it has been written, but evolved more or less naturally, even if under slight pressure, during the considerable interval that Miss Talmadge was curled up on the deep end of an overstuffed divan watching her guests doing their best also to become overstuffed under the encouragement of great salvers of hors d'oeuvres, strewn indiscriminately about like fussily landscaped miniature golf courses entirely surrounded by whatever it was Mr. Jessel kept on so assiduously brewing.

As she sat there, Miss Talmadge looked precisely as you knew Miss Talmadge would look sitting there—those great dark eyes have lost none of their expressiveness or depth, her hair is still a rich dark brown, her smile illuminating and contagious and a sense of humor that the old silent pictures did not always reveal is constantly at play.

Any one meeting her now would know that back in the era when pantomime and the eloquence of facial play were the prime essentials of successful screen acting she would have been the "first lady."

NORMA TALMADGE probably has not the remotest notion of how many pictures she has made, or when or where many of them were filmed. One was a little surprised when she experienced some difficulty in remembering that she had once made a tremendously moving picturization of Jane Cowl's "Smilin' Through."

"You mean Norma Shearer's, of course."

"No, I mean Norma Talmadge's!"

"Oh, do you remember that? That's kind."

Can you imagine!

And about that vagueness in the manner of geography. Another guest inquired what picture it was she had made at Plattsburg, N. Y., along about war time.

Miss Talmadge did not remember whether she had ever been in Plattsburg. She did, however, recall the time in Seattle, Wash., when she expressed a keen desire to see the place where the salmon swam upstream to their home waters in the Colorado River to spawn and die.

When told that it was not the Colorado, but the Columbia River, she suddenly became acutely aware that the morals of the salmon didn't interest her such a lot, anyhow, and wondered why she had ever brought the subject up!

THE scheme Mr. Jessel and Miss Talmadge have for that Century of Progress Exposition is to take some such musical as "Strike Me Pink," with Miss Talmadge, Beatrice Lillie, Eugene and Willie Howard, Mr. Jessel, and such other stars as they may think of in the meantime, in the cast and plop it down in the Windy City for the edification of such visitors to the fair as may also have the price of a ticket over and above carfare and the cost of the requisite number of sandwiches.

There seems to be some doubt in the minds of all concerned that there will be any present with that much money. Then there is the minor matter of capital to back the venture. Max Gordon and some of the boys, I believe, are at the moment interested, but there is still a vagrant 25 per cent or so of the nut that could do with a little taking care of.

All of which has nothing to do, of course, with the excellence of the diversion Miss Talmadge and Mr. Jessel will purvey to the cash customers at Loew's Fox, beginning today. Having seen Mount Vernon, Arlington and the Lee Mansion, the Washington Monument and several quarts of the turgid Potomac yistiddy, they now feel that they can devote their entire time and energy to the stage business in hand, and score the same hit that characterized their every appearance in the same routine for 16 weeks last season.

If you ask me—and probably nobody will—they can't miss.

IT is perhaps a fine arrangement that has the Talmadge-Jessel combination at Loew's Fox, and Joan Blondell in person at the Earle, opening today. That leaves a fairly free Saturday afternoon to give Glen Echo Park the c. o. on the opening day of its new season.

Manager Leonard B. Schloss is emphatic in his declarations that Glen Echo this season will be the finest park Washington has ever been privileged to enjoy. A new ballroom that about answers the description of the Palace at Versailles will house Dave McWilliams and a new and enlarged orchestra, and most of the other attractions have been remodeled, refurbished, or both. Enough paint has been splashed around the park to overflow Lakes Michigan, Superior, Erie and Chevy Chase!

Three weeks from tomorrow, May 27, the Crystal Pool will be open and then Washington's joy will be complete!

When the National Theater Players open in "Good-by Again," at the National next Monday night, they will come close to setting a record by appearing in a play that is still enjoying an initial presentation on Broadway, with Osgood Perkins in the part to be played here by Donald Woods. Rarely does a stock company so near New York succeed in obtaining rights to a play that is still current there. In the case of the National Theater Players, it has only happened once before, and that was when Panjandrum Stephen E. Cochran secured "Nancy's Private Affair" while it was still running in Gotham.

Incidentally, it was just one year ago this week that Constance Collier was appearing at the Belasco in Patterson McNutt's production of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," the vastly amusing farce that the Nat. Players will present following "Good-by Again."

It is worth noting that Manager Rodney Collier, of the Rialto, is holding "Slim" Summerville and ZaSu Pitts for a second week in "Out All Night," a comedy that has caught on with the crowd, and that Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's, is getting back on schedule by inaugurating the engagement of Wheeler and Woolsey in "Diplomaniacs" today, despite the fact that "Below the Sea" only opened last Tuesday.

Fred and Tom Waring, of the Pennsylvanians Warings, gave a farewell party to their Washington friends in the Cabinet room of the Willard yesterday at 5, of which a full report later.

More caviar for the general party practitioners. But it would be just as well next time if the boys and girls would scatter their shot a little more!

Montgomery League To Open Drive Tuesday

The annual drive for funds of the Social Service League of Montgomery County, Md., will be held May 10 to 24. The goal for 1933 is $10,000. The drive will be opened with a dinner at the Rockville Baptist Church, Tuesday at 7 p. m.

The program for the dinner includes the following speakers: Dr. J. W. Bird, Sandy Spring, president of the league; Miss Lavinia Engle, executive secretary of the Maryland League of Women Voters; W. B. Armstrong, Cabin John Park, chairman of the finance committee; James W. Hepbron, director, Community Fund of Baltimore, and George W. Davis, chairman of the drive. Each branch committee chairman also will be asked to speak in support of the league.

GEORGETOWN CLUB WILL REPEAT PLAY

Mask and Bauble Players Give Washington View of "Wings Over Europe."

The Mask and Bauble Club of Georgetown University gave Washington its first production of "Wings Over Europe," the dramatic hit of the Theater Guild, last night at Trinity Church Hall. The play and the scenes followed closely the Broadway production which had a run of eighteen months.

R. Vernon Murphy played the leading role. He was ably supported by a capable cast.

The performance will be repeated tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The cast is as follows:

R. Vernon Murphy, '33, Francis Lightfoot; John F. Drum, '33, Prime Minister; Joseph S. Kirby, '35, Lord Privy Seal; Frank B. York, '33, Lord High Chancellor; Roland T. Gallagher, '34, Chancellor of Exchequer; Elmer P. Freischlag, '33, Secretary of State-Home Affairs; John T. Leal, jr., '34, Secretary of State-Foreign Affairs; George D. Crowley, '34, Secretary of State-War; Richard E. Coyle, '33, Secretary of State-Dominions; James Stewart, '34, Secretary of State-Air; Donald F. McCahill, '34, First Lord of Admiralty; Paul H. Ducharme, '33, President of Board of Education; Neal T. Regan, '34, Attorney General; John J. Power, jr., '33, First Commissioner of Works; Thomas J. McCarthy, '36, Neurological Specialist; J. Nicholas Schriver, jr., '33, Neurological Specialist; William J. Doyle, '36, Clerk in the Foreign Office; John G. O'Brien, '36, a mechanic; Vincent Conlan, '36, a messenger; James Curtin, '36, a messenger.

Jewelers Association Headed by A. C. Mayer

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—A banquet and dance tonight at the Lord Baltimore Hotel closed the nineteenth annual convention of the Maryland, Deleware and District of Columbia Jewelers' Association, which opened at noon with a luncheon.

During a business session in the afternoon A. C. Mayer, of Washington, was elected president. Others elected were J. A. Montgomery, of Wilmington, and E. D. Sturmer, of Easton, first vice president and second vice president, respectively; James Levi, Baltimore, secretary, and William Wright, Washington, treasurer.

Dr. Austin Speaks On Quake Tonight

Long Beach Pastor to Talk at Epiphany Parish Hall at 8 P. M.

The Rev. Perry G. M. Austin, rector of St. Luke's Church, Long Beach, Calif., and famous track star during his student days at Harvard University, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock in Epiphany Parish Hall on G street on "The Human Side an An Earthquake." At this meeting, sponsored by Bishop James E. Freeman, Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander and the Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, rector of Epiphany Church, Mr. Austin will give a vivid recital of his personal experiences during the earthquake which devastated a large section of southern California two months ago.

He has come East as chaplain of the Bishop of Los Angeles, the Right Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens, to bring the acute needs of the earthquake sufferers to the attention of leaders of the Episcopal Church.

As director of the Red Cross in his home community, Mr. Austin called yesterday at the office of Miss Mabel T. Boardman to make a personal report on the southern California earthquake. During his visit here he is the guest of the Rev. Albert H. Lucas.

CAMPING EXHIBITION WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Sessions at Y. W. C. A. Are Designed for Children and Adults.

Washington's first camp exposition will open at 8 o'clock tonight in the Y. W. C. A. Building, Seventeenth and K streets, and will continue tomorrow, with sessions scheduled of special interest to children and adults, who are hoping for outdoor recreation during the summer months, and who have too limited budgets to cover the expenses of costly camps.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chief sponsor of the Camp Exposition, had hoped to be in the city to officially open the exposition, but in a letter to the Council of Social Agencies, expressing regret for her absence, she extended wishes for its success.

At tonight's session, the first of a series of three skits will be offered, extolling the importance of camps and camping. Mrs. Alice Sigworth Morse will direct the skits, in which Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and other organizations will take part.

The principal speakers tonight will be Ann Shumaker, editor of Progressive Education Magazine, who will speak on "What parents should expect from camp," and Dr. Joy Elsner Morgan, editor of the National Education Association Journal, whose subject will be "The Value of Camps in Education."

In addition to the exhibits, there will be a camp fashion show, arranged through the courtesy of Woodward & Lothrop's, Lansburgh & Brothers', Hecht's, Garfinckel's, Army & Navy stores and other dealers in camp outfits and equipment.

At 10 a. m. tomorrow a "Make-Believe Camp" will be staged especially for boys and girls. This will be followed by a wiener roast on the roof of the Y. W. C. A. The exposition is open to the public.

Insanity Increase In Slumps Denied

Dr. Moss Also Denounces Dream Analysis as Fraudulent.

Decrying the "hocus-pocus of dream analysis," Dr. Fred A. Moss, professor of psychology at George Washington University, declared in an address broadcast last night that "if cures are to be found for mental disorders we must give up our seances with the Freudian metaphysicians and go back to our laboratories."

Dr. Moss asserted that all true mental disorders have a definite physical cause; that the physical basis for many forms or insanity are now definitely known and curable, and that others still unknown to science will be discovered in time.

The speaker refuted the popular belief that hard times such as have been experienced for the last four years are followed by a marked increase in insanity.

FRIDAY MAY 5, 1933 SPORTS

NATS DROP TO FOURTH AS INDIANS SCORE, 6 TO 5

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Municipal Stadium, Cleveland, Ohio, May 4.

CLEVELAND made 11 hits today, more than the Tribe has collected in any game this season, and they knocked Al Crowder from the box, but the latter achievement is nothing to boast about. Crowder, who turned in more victories than any other pitcher in the league last season, has started five games for the Nats this year and as far as the ninth inning is concerned he is still a virgin. He has gotten out from under in three games, however, in time to escape being charged with more than two defeats.

It was unfortunate for Umpire Vangraflan that Owner Clark Griffith was on the scene today. Graflan's decision on the fourth ball to Barnett in the ninth inning just about relieved him of the job as the Nats' umpire in the 1934 exhibition games.

Before the game today, some of his teammates jokingly told Dave Harris that he was to be sent to Chattanooga. "The only way I'll go to Chattanooga is as playing manager," Harris said without the trace of a smile.

The Indian outfielders were playing out on the shores of Lake Erie when the Nats' hits were dropping safely in the first inning. The fellow who gets a homer inside the big stadium deserves it.

The Indians previously had made no more than 10 hits or one error in a game this season, but both records went by the boards today with three big boots chalked up against the Tribe in the first inning.

Joe Cronin held up the game for a full minute to argue with Vangraflan over the second strike in the eighth but quit the palavering just as Van was about to thumb him out of the game. Then he slashed a blistering single to center and resumed the argument with Van from first base.

Ladysman's Hopes Seen Waning

Upset Tomorrow Is Not Unlikely in Wide-Open Race.

Not More Than 18 to Start; 30,000 Will See Derby.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

LOUISVILLE, May 4 (A.P.).—Instead of clearing the extraordinary atmosphere of uncertainty surrounding the Fifty-ninth Kentucky Derby, for the benefit of the visiting vanguard of the turf faithful, today's developments mainly served to emphasize the chances or expert convictions that the prime Eastern choice, William R. Coe's Ladysman, will be chief among the victims of an upset in the big classic this Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Although the Coe entry of Ladysman and Pomponius rules a 2-to-1 favorite after being at the top of the books nearly all winter and spring, the prospects favor a wide-open race among no more than 18 and possibly only 15 starters. The third Coe horse, Pompoleon, is a doubtful starter, but insofar as the railbirds will admit any chances of a son of Pompey going the derby route of a mile and a quarter successfully, they consider Pomponius to have equally as good prospects as the more renowned Ladysman.

Workout Fails To Impress.

Ladysman's workout this morning, while not calculated to furnish anything but exercise for the favorite, caused a number of observers to come away shaking their heads over the horse's behavior. The chestnut colt jogged a half mile alone, under the watchful eye of Trainer "Buddy" Stotler and then galloped another half in company with Pomponius, returning to the stable to receive the attention of three grooms. Stotler pronounced his pampered charge to be in first-rate condition but declined to make any predictions.

The reluctance of Kentuckians, as

REDS WIN, 4-0; ONE HIT OFF JOHNSON

Only 27 Braves Face Hurler; Seven Balls to Outfield.

BOSTON, May 4 (A.P.).—Si Johnson, Cincinnati right-hander, today held the Boston Braves to one hit as his slugging teammates batted out a 4-to-0 victory. Only 27 Tribesmen faced Johnson during the game, for Wally Berger, who registered the only Boston hit in the second inning, was thrown out going down to second.

Johnson, who got off to a slow start this season, did not have a single strike-out or yield a base on balls. Berger was the only Brave to reach first base during the entire game, and only seven Boston batted balls went out of the infield. The one-hit shutout gave Johnson his second victory in six starts.

Philadelphia, May 4 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals, in a big fifth inning pushed five runs across the plate—their total for the day—to hand the Phillies a 5 to 2 defeat today. Jim Mooney, Cardinal left-hander, hurled effectively through the whole nine innings, holding the Phils to six scattered hits.

Detroit Held To Two Hits By Gomez

Homer by Gehringer, Walker's Double Come in Ninth.

Blows Net Only Tiger Runs as Yankees Win, 5 to 2.

DETROIT, May 4 (A.P.).—Charley Gehringer blasted Vernon Gomez, southpaw ace of the New York Yankees, loose from a niche in baseball's hall of fame today when he clouted a home run at the start of the ninth inning to ruin a prospective no-hit game. The Yanks had little trouble winning the game, 5 to 2, even though Gomez weakened a bit when he saw his hopes for a record game knocked away.

For eight innings Gomez didn't give a hit and, although he walked seven, no Tiger got past second base. Then Gehringer clouted his first pitch in the ninth into the right-field bleachers and Gerard Walker followed with a double that led to Detroit's other run.

Giants Twice Beat Cubs In Close Double-Header

New York, May 4 (A.P.).—The Giants took two close decisions from the champion Chicago Cubs in a hard-fought double-header today, 2 to 1, and 5 to 4, and captured the series, two games to one.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched steady ball in the opener, while New York came from behind in the fifth and sixth frames to score the deciding runs. Sam Leslie's triple and George Davis' single in the seventh won the game.

Hanford Dies In Spill at Pimlico

ford fall off his mount. She was in a highly nervous state tonight. The Pollards were very close to the boy and showed a fatherly interest in him since their association.

It was last season that Hanford made his biggest name in racing. He booted home 148 winners and gained third place in the national standing. Only the champion, Johnny Gilbert, and Silvio Coucci, showed the way to the Nebraska lad.

Hanford Popular In Maryland.

In Maryland, Hanford's name became a by-word with turf fans. Many race players disregarded horses entirely to place their wagers on the little blond, who seemed to revel in getting any one's horse home in front of the pack. He had an ever-ready smile and often went to the post sitting back on a horse's haunches with a grin on his face, to return laughingly to the judges' stand after a victory.

Hanford campaigned in Florida during the winter and rode for Joseph E. Widener at Hialeah Park.

Hanford is survived by five brothers and three sisters, all living in the West.

The death of Hanford was the first in a number of years of flat racing in this section. Jockey Bourassa was killed at Havre de Grace some years ago, but was the victim of a workout accident and not in actual racing.

No Intimation Of Foul.

There was no intimation that foul riding might have had a hand in today's mishap. Apprehensive, a slow starter, broke tardily. The field, sent away from the six-furlong chute, was running in two groups going down the backstretch, with Happy Anne, the ultimate winner, in front. Hanford was seen to hustle his mount along near the rail. Apprehensive reached the first group as the horses began to swing the turn at the three-eighth pole. It was at this point that the horse fell. Hanford was thrown off toward the rail and in the path of the second section of the field.

Apprentice Jockey Langley barely escaped a like fate on Tuesday. Gay Party, his mount, stumbled and threw the boy over his head. However, Langley was fortunate enough to cling to the reins and hold on until the field had passed. He then dropped himself off to safety.

Pirates Winners; Wagner Honored

Pittsburgh Beats Dodgers in Tenth, 2 to 1, Before Crowd of 10,000.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 4 (A.P.).—It was Hans Wagner Day in the Brooklyn Ball Yard today and the Pirates and Dodgers put on one of those ball games for the delight of the "Flying Dutchman" and a crowd of 10,000 that carried all the way back to the hey day of baseball's greatest shortstop.

Pittsburgh came from behind after trailing seven innings of the way and won in the tenth, 2 to 1. Piet singled to left with two out in the tenth, his third hit of the day, and scored on Hal Finney's double to left. Meine set the Dodgers down in order the last three innings.

Wagner, coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who made many trips to Brooklyn as a Pirate player when he was the greatest shortstop in baseball, was the recipient of an official civic welcome.

While an estimated 20,000 persons jammed the little park and streets adjacent to Brooklyn Borough Hall, Borough President Henry Hesterberg, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, and other baseball officials lauded Wagner as one of the game's greatest players.

REVERENCE, IN BRISK FINISH, WINS PIMLICO JUMPING RACE

Dash Leaves Greatorex Second

San Romolo Is Third; Lester W. Falls After Good Start.

John Gilbert Rides Royal Past in 4th to Easy Win.

(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 4.—Hunters and gentlemen jockeys had their inning here today and provided some five minutes of excitement in a 2½-mile journey over the timber and brush. The climax was a thrilling dash for the finish that found Reverence, representing the Justa Farm Stable, the most speed on the flat and the winner by more than two lengths over the Dorwood Stable's Greatorex, which in turn had another two-length margin on San Romolo, the property of Mrs. John Hay Whitney.

Mr. R. P. Hamilton had the mount on the winner and rode a very confident and well-timed race to get home ahead of Mr. J. V. H. Davis. Mr. R. McKinney was third in a race which was marked by the absence of Mr. G. H. Bostwick.

Mr. D. D. Odell, who had the mount on one Lester W., the property of L. C. Leith, really wanted to go places and see things. He took Lester W. out in front at the break and began to open a lot of daylight on the field. Annapolitan was the satisfied second at this stage. The first time around, Mr. Ordell went out to a mere twelve-length lead and then added another five or six lengths in the swing for the straightaway.

Rest of Field Comes Up.

In the meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton and Reverence were tending strictly to their knitting, back in the second flight. Passing the judges stand the second time, Lester W, a 91-1 shot by the way, began to show the effects of the Paul Revere ride and the rest of the field, led by Annapolitan came thundering up.

To make a long story short, Greatorex and Annapolitan then hooked up in the pace-setting battle while Mr. Odell and Lester W fell in opposite directions in trying to negotiate the thirteenth jump. It was at this point that Mr. Hamilton led out Reverence and the gelding skidded through the field. Greatorex and San Romolo came over the last jump together and appeared to have the main award between them. But up jumped Reverence and once on his feet, the gelding showed a burst of speed that made the others appear to be dragging anchors.

On of the promising 2-year-olds of the season was shown in the first race when C. V. Whitney sent Lynx Eye to the post and the juvenile broke on top from No. 1 post position to speed to an easy victory. Albert Robertson, who had the mount, coasted to the wire six lengths ahead of If Ada which broke slower than usual. Liberty Oak, which did the principal chasing was a tiring third. Lynx Eye was backed into favoritism and paid a $4.40 mutuel.

Favorite players were in their glory again with the running of the second race. This time it was Lodorus which scored a handy three-length victory over another group of juveniles under the handling of Pat Remillard. Dixie Bee was second all the way and Billies Tryst moved up along the rail to take the show. Lodorus rewarded at $4.80 for the well-known deuce.

Royal Past Wins, Gilbert Up.

The Justa Farm Stable collected its second purse of the day when John Gilbert rode Royal Past to victory in a sprint. General Lejeune was second and Bright Bird third. Benish Way, a well-played favorite, set the early pace, but wilted fast in the stretch. Royal Past paid $9.80.

Old bad-legged William T ran one of his good races to take the fifth race and then limped back to the judges' stand. Pelham, a longshot, was second and Tazewell third. Pat Remiliard rode his second winner on the veteran which rewarded at a $13.20 mutuel.

Happy Anne, given a hustling ride by Kacala, won the sixth race, a six-furlong affair, by a half length from Uncle Donald with Below Cost third.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 4.

DEAR AL:

They put "No Boy" beside the name of Trace Call in the line-up for the Kentucky Derby last night. Smiling Buddy Hanford has moved on to a land where no one is left at the post and disqualifications are unheard of. I picked the mount on which Buddy met his death. From the crow's nest press box it appeared that Hanford, seeing that Chatwater, the other half of the entry, was not forcing the pace, decided that he would have to move quickly on Apprehensive if he was to take the race. It was this anxiousness which caused him to try to go between two horses, one of which probably knocked Hanford's horse off stride. Yes, sir, Buddy was trying. BILL.

FIRST RACE—FELICIANA has been showing fair speed this spring and seems suited to a sprint of this sort. She handled this kind last year. DECANTER is a possible place surprise. This one must get away quicker, however. PAINT BOX for the rest.

SECOND RACE—HAIR TRIGGER moved up fast at the finish of that last outing and may take this purse. Won in Florida. STIMULAW put up a good race in better company and may take the place from DONTARA.

THIRD RACE—INDIGO appears to be the class of this field if anywhere near last season's form. SILVERSKIN is a steady performer and will be ready to make the top one hustle. My long shot possibility is NAYLOR. The boy rolled off the last time when this one was going smoothly.

FOURTH RACE—MONEL soundly trounced a better field than this one the last time and that race repeated would take this from NIGHT PATROL. AIR PILOT may be ready to crack down after two trips to the post.

FIFTH RACE—CON AMORE will have to have a very bad ride to toss off this race. Illusive is a fair sort and should be no worse than second. Kakapo did some fair racing last season and may go higher than third.

SIXTH RACE—FLYING HOUR turned in a whale of a winning effort in graduating and gets my call here. MACK SENNETT has improved lately and has a good chance for the second money. LEVAAL to show.

SEVENTH RACE—SURETY ran a fine race from a slow beginning behind Pomposity at Havre de Grace and appears ready to leave the maiden ranks in this. FLUFFY LEE is in light again and may be second. OMARVITUS is the clocker's long-shot hope.

EIGHTH RACE—POLAR BRUSH gets in this with only a steadying impost. At the weights, BUBOLA, an honest sort, may find herself second. MODERN TIMES is one of the dangerous ones.

PIMLICO, MARYLAND, CHART, MAY 4, 1933.

WEATHER, CLEAR; TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $600; allowances. The Calvert. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:01. Off at 2:03½. Winner, C. V. Whitney's b. c. by Wildair—Fury Glass. Trained by J. A. Healey. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 0:54 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LYNX EYE, $4.40, $3.00, $2.60; IF IDA, $2.80, $2.20; LIBERTY OAK, $3.20.

LYNX EYE began quickly, opened up a safe lead when reaching the home stretch and was not extended as he galloped strongly until the finish. IF IDA, slower than usual in the early stages, circled her field and finished with good courage. LIBERTY OAK went close up from the start, but weakened when the final drive came. WHITE BIRD raced rather green, but had good speed all the way. HAPPY HAZARD showed excellent speed leaving the barrier. REPEAL and ROCKLYN were never factors.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. The Chestnut Ridge. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Winner, C. O. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LODORUS, $4.80, $2.60, $2.40; DIXIE BEE, $2.60, $2.60; BILLIE'S TRYST, $4.80.

LODORUS, away in the first flight and hustled into an easy lead after the opening furlong, held sway thereafter to win as his rider pleased. DIXIE BEE, closest to the winner at all stages, was easily best of the others. BILLIE'S TRYST improved his position along the inner rail and came with good energy to outlast MATHIAS. Latter, raced forwardly placed, lost some ground entering the home stretch and then weakened steadily. ASKE was hard ridden and raced stoutly. FLYING WIND was forced to race on the outside all the way. CHATTERDO was repeatedly taken up from the start.

THIRD RACE—Two and one-half miles. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Mount Alto Steeplechase. For hunters. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:00. Off at 3:00½. Winner, Justa Farm Stable's b. g. (5), by Heverend—Romage II. Trained by M. Fernandes. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 5:04 (16 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REVERENCE, $9.80, $4.40, $3.80; GREATOREX (Dorwood Stable-R. B. Young entry), $3.40, $3.00; SAN ROMOLO, $4.20.

REVERENCE, reserved for the first two miles while kept out of trouble, gained fast after the twelfth fence and coming to the outside of the faltering leaders at the last fence, drew out on the flat. GREATOREX, prominent and fencing cleanly, took command when approaching the final jump, but could not match strides with the winner. SAN ROMOLO moved up steadily when ready, and finished closely. KIM, poorly handled and in trouble most of the journey, made a strong effort at the final jump, but tired right at the end. BONIFACE II raced wide of the leaders throughout.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:38½. Winner, Justa Farm Stable's b. g. (4), by Queens Guild—Pastora. Trained by M. Fernandes. Value to winner, $800; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:14.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL PAST, $9.80, $5.00, $4.20; GENERAL LEJEUNE, $8.60, $6.20; BRIGHT BIRD, $4.60.

ROYAL PAST, kept near in attendance of the pacemakers, assumed command when straightened into the home stretch and was strongly urged to stall off GENERAL LEJEUNE, latter, outside early swung to the outside and finished strongly. BRIGHT BIRD, always a factor, held on well while saving ground. NIGHT VINTAGE lost ground all the way, but made up ground steadily. HACKY H had no mishaps. BENISH WAY opened up a safe early lead, but sulked on approaching the home stretch and would not extend himself thereafter when severely punished.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:08. Winner, Mrs. A. M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WILLIAM T., $13.20, $7.20, $5.00; PELHAM, $15.60, $7.80; TAZEWELL, $3.20.

WILLIAM T., taken into command when midway of the back stretch, drew into a safe lead when straightened away for the final drive and finished with speed in reserve. He pulled up lame. PELHAM, displaced after six furlongs, saved ground thereafter and coming again under punishment outfinished TAZEWELL. Latter, close up and on the outside, hung during the final drive. ARUNDEL, in tight quarters when rounding the final turn, weakened when put to a hard drive. GENERAL TOY raced well. RUANE, closer up than usual, was not good enough when the real test came.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:38. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAPPY ANNE, $9.80, $5.80, $4.80; UNCLE DONALD, $20.00, $12.40; BELOW COST, $6.00.

HAPPY ANNE, going in her best form under improved handling, gained command when leaving the back stretch, but was forced to a drive nearing the finish to stall off UNCLE DONALD. Latter, sluggish in the opening furlong, came with a belated rush on the outside of the field. BELOW COST went forwardly all the way and held on well. ETERNAL MAID weakened after three furlongs. RALLY RAY could not get to the front and weakened after a half mile. MR. SWIFT and CHATWATER were bothered when APPREHENSIVE fell. ORAL was messed about all the way. APPREHENSIVE was in tight quarters midway of the turn and fell.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. The Tasker. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:07. Off at 5:14½. Winner, H. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VISHNU, $9.80, $5.60, $2.60; INDIAN RUNNER, $4.40, $2.60; WEDDING RING, $2.20.

VISHNU opened up a commanding lead after setting the early pace, and was steadied to the finish to hold INDIAN RUNNER safe. Latter, a very slow beginner, circled around his field and finished with a bold rush. WEDDING RING followed VISHNU closely for a half mile and then tired. BLACKSTRAP raced strong while going wide from the start. CARRY THE NEWS and SHAVINGS were outrun. LUCKY JACK and SINGLE LADY had no excuses.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:41. Off at 5:42½. Winner, L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—POLITEN, $4.20, $3.00, $2.80; SOEUR BLANCHE, $3.80, $4.00; SAND BELL, $4.80.

POLITEN, placed to intermittent punishment soon after the break and kept in nearest pursuit of FIFE, took command when ready, but had to be strongly handled to withstand SOEUR BLANCHE. Latter entered contention with good speed, was inclined to swerve toward the inside all during the final half mile, but secured racing room and then finished gamely. SAND BELL, taken to the outside when moving into a forward position, came with good courage. FIFE sprinted into a long early lead, but was made entirely too much use of and flattened out badly. VERITY BALLOT came very wide into the home stretch. REDIVIVUS stopped.

E. Dusek Gets Chance at Londos

Indoor Season Will End This Week at Auditorium.

IT all comes to those who hate, or pretend to hate, their opponents with enough ferocity to be a first class villain, a good showman, and the proprietor of an unbroken string of decisions over top-notch wrestlers. So Ernie Dusek finally realizes his most cherished ambition, a bout with Jim Londos, one of the two claimants to the nonexistant world heavyweight wrestling championship.

Mr. Joe Turner, match-maker par-excellence, announced last night that Ernie will do battle with the masterful Greek Thursday night at the Auditorium in the grand finale of the winter season. The following week the lads go out to Griffith Stadium for a continuation of their muscle-mashing.

Garibaldi Victory Nets Londos Bout.

Dusek firmly established himself in the front ranks of prospective opponents of Londos by throwing, or rather falling on Gino Garibaldi Wednesday night. He accomplished his purpose after putting the Italian's head between the ropes with such enthusiasm as to almost strangle him.

This near-lynching of Garibaldi left him as weak as some of this new beer and Dusek found it comparatively simple to fall on Gino's prostrate form while Cyclone Burns gave his weekly exhibition of his mathematical knowledge.

Dusek actually deserves a crack at Londos if bouts are awarded on the merits of the gent's record. Hans Kampfer, Legs Grobmier and a host of others have met defeat at the hands of Rudy's tough little brother.

Savoldi's Victory Did Not Count.

Though Londos lost to Joe Savoldi in a much discussed bout at Chicago several weeks ago, he still ranks at the head of the class, and reports filtering in from the North indicate that he is still a good drawing card. Londos has signified his willingness to meet Savoldi at any place, any time and under any conditions—maybe.

Gino Garibaldi will have the opportunity of redeeming some portion of his self-respect in the 45-minute semifinal, in which he has been cast opposite Dick Raines.

Ladies with paying escorts will be admitted for 25 cents.

Golfers of Tech High Beat St. John's Prep

Tech High School conquered St. John's Prep golf team yesterday at East Potomac, 3½ to 2½, winning two singles and one doubles match.

W. Hird, of Tech, beat Stanley, 4 and 3, while in the same foursome, Frank Ortman, St. John's star, whipped Bowie, 3 and 2, and the St. John's pair won the best ball by 1 up.

In the other foursome, Sheehan, of Tech, turned back O'Leary, 1 up; Sullivan, of St. John's, tied Taylor, and the best ball went to Tech, 1 up.

St. John's faces Gonzaga in a regularly scheduled prep school league match this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Beaver Dam.

TECH, ROOSEVELT TO MEET IN HIGH SERIES GAME TODAY

Maroon, Gray Looks Best On Paper

Rough Riders May, However, Manage to Score Win.

TECH'S baseball warriors shoulder their bats and go ahuntin' for their second straight interhigh school series victory this afternoon at Eastern High School. Roosevelt's underestimated team is the quarry, and if the Rough Riders play as well today as they did against Eastern in the series inaugural, it will not be surprising if the hunters return home empty-handed.

On paper, the Maroon and Gray figures to be the better team. Led by Knocky Thomas, the Eckington ads blasted a couple of Western haulers for a 14-7 win in their series debut. Thomas belted the apple for a couple of home runs and the rest of the team followed his example, laying down a barrage of hits that kept Western on the run from the fourth inning on.

Tech's Defense Looked Good.

Tech's defense also looked good, despite the fact that Freddy Nau, its regular second baseman, was in a hospital at the time, pondering over the loss of a bothersome appendix. The boys were a trifle nervous at the start, but after they got their bearings it was a different story, much different as Western sadly recalls.

But Coach Foxley's "Murderers' Row" may be just a group of petty offenders after facing Frank Baroni, a promising young hurler uncovered by Coach Lynn Woodworth, of Roosevelt. Making his first start on the mound in the inter-high series, the plump youngster held Eastern's vaunted batsmen to five paltry hits, and but for a bit of ragged support afield and a weak offense, might have chalked up a victory.

Anacostia Dedicates New 18-Hole Golf Links Today

Houghton, Thorn to Meet Shorey, Carson in Match; Course Now One of Sportiest Municipal Layouts in Section.

By DAVE HERMAN.

AL HOUGHTON, Kenwood professional, and Arthur B. Thorn, formerly of Woodmont, who are tuning up their games in preparation for the all-important charity exhibition match with Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood Sunday at Kenwood, will take a leading part in the dedicatory ceremonies officially opening the sporty new eighteen-hole Anacostia golf course this afternoon.

Houghton and Thorn, who have been proving continual thorns in the side of local professional opposition, will inaugurate play over the links in an eighteen-hole match with Mel Shorey, East Potomac's galloping tutor, and Bill Carson, Anacostia pro.

The fireworks will start at 3 o'clock and the public is invited.

Anacostia's new course will be opened to the public tomorow morning. The addition of nine holes to the former nine-hole course helps make the course one of the finest public parks layouts in this section. The second nine is laid out over gently rolling country and includes a number of picturesque and tricky holes. Work began on the layout in the spring of 1932.

Par for the outgoing side is 35, for the incoming, 34. Women's par is 37, 38—75. The fairways are wide open, the greens velvet bent.

Measuring 460 yards, with a par of 5, the third hole is the longest on the course, and one of the toughest. There is a dogleg to the right, and the greens have a gentle slope that makes for trickery.

The fourth, 186 yards, first of the short holes, has an elevated tee, and the shot to the green is made difficult by traps guarding the entrance to the carpet. The sixth, 115, also has an elevated tee, and the greens are deeply trapped.

Coming over to the new second nine, one is impressed with the eleventh, 450 yards with a par 4. Here you encounter a blind green on either your second or third shot. Strung across the fairway are a number of traps and bunkers.

Then there is the sixteenth, 149 yards, which has a slightly elevated green, and a good stiff mashie shot is needed to get on.

The seventeenth, 255 yards, a par 4, and the eighteenth, 225, a par 3, are beautiful to play, and also rather deceptive. Two trees in the middle of the eighteenth fairway are apt to halt the advance of the golfers, while three treacherous traps guard the green.

Carson, the pro, has been at Anacostia for more than a year.

Par for the course follows:

Out ..... 4 4 5 3 4 3 4 4 4—35
In ..... 4 4 4 4 4 4 3 4 3—34—69

LADYSMAN'S HOPES ARE SEEN WANING

well as a good share of the other critics, to accept an Eastern favorite at face value may be prompted by experience. Two years ago, Equipoise came to grief the very day of the Derby and last year the highly-regarded Tick On, Eastern choice, failed to place.

Nevertheless, Ladysman remains the horse to beat. The reinforcements to the press gallery today failed to develop any agreement on what horse, if any, has the best chance to take the favorite's measure and lift the $50,000 prize of 3-year-old racing.

Head Play Hope Of Region.

The Blue Grass region has pinned its hopes confidently on Head Play, the $500 colt owned by Mrs. William Crump, of Nashville, trained by her husband, a former well-known rider, and developed to the extent of being held at the short price of 4 to 1.

At least a half-dozen others may be well backed by the time the bugle calls the Derby field to the post Saturday around 5 p. m., Central standard time. There is the Florida Derby winner, Charley O., owned by Mrs. R. M. Eastman, Chicago; Leo Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, surprise winner of the rich Belmont Futurity last year; Mr. Khayyam, son of a former Derby winner, which cost its owner, Mrs. James M. Austin, of Westbury, Long Island, only $400 as a yearling, and last, but not least, Broker's Tip, the chief candidate of the famous Kentucky colonel, Edward Riley Bradley.

Col. Bradley's horses have led the way home three times in a dozen years. He has seldom failed to have a real contender ready for the race that is closest to every Kentuckian's heart, and Broker's Tip has worked well enough to justify the odds of 10 to 1 on his chances.

Inlander Supported As Long Shot.

Those scanning the chances of long shots have had their eyes on Inlander, the Brookmeade Stable's 50-to-1 entry, which will be ridden by the veteran Mack Garner, as well as F. A. Griffith's Sarada, supported well enough so far to be held at 12 to 1.

Few Derby hopefuls had anything more than "blowouts" today. The same will hold true tomorrow, now that the main training grind is over. Mr. Khayyam made a good impression, however, in a mile workout, handily, in 1:44, and Head Play worked nicely.

Webb, Navy Ring Coach, To Referee at J. C. C.

Spike Webb, Naval Academy's famous boxing coach, and tutor of the American Olympic teams, has accepted an invitation to referee Monday night's boxing matches between the Jewish Community team and an all-star aggregation from Baltimore, which will feature the "Athletic Night" program to be staged by the J. C. C.

In addition to Webb, a number of other dignitaries, including Postmaster General James A. Farley, and Senator David I. Walsh, will be among the honored guests.

A testimonial dinner in honor of Angie Tardugno, who recently won the National amateur 118-pound crown at Boston, also will be given.

NATS BEATEN, 6-5, BY TRIBE'S RALLIES

Porter when Van ruled a walk for Burnett. Berg turned on the umpire as if to hurl his mask down Van's throat. Joe Cronin dashed in from shortstop to remonstrate, but Van hitched his breast protector above his chin and was firm and the stage was set for Averill's winning hit.

Idle since Sunday, the Nats grabbed their bats with a will in the first inning. A wild throw by Knickerbocker put Myer on base and Manush scored him with a pop-double to left. Goslin's fly advanced Manush and Cronin's single to center scored him. Schulte popped a single to right and when Burnett threw wildly to second Cronin went to third. After Knickerbocker retrieved the ball and heaved a weird throw back to second, Cronin came home and Schulte reached second, when he scored the fourth run of the inning on Bluege's single to left, the only clean hit of the session.

Holding the Tribe hitless for two innings, Crowder met up with his old batterymate, Roy Spencer, in the third, and just for old time's sake Spencer rapped a triple over Schulte's head and scored the Tribe's first run on Porter's double to left.

Tribe Knots String After Two Are Out.

The lower end of the Tribe batting order tied up the ball game with three runs in the sixth after Crowder had two out. Boss and Kamm singled, Knickerbocker tripled and Spencer singled for old time's sake again, and the Indians had their three runs and a 4-4 score.

Buddy Myer, with a double and Manush, with a single, projected the Nats into a one-run lead in the next inning, but Crowder gave the run back to Cleveland in the Tribe's half when Burnett singled and Averill doubled. The latter took third on Cronin's unwise relay to the plate, and Al Thomas sauntered to the box. He relieved the situation immediately by fanning Vosmik and then forcing Boss to pop to Bluege.

The curse of the West and Umpire Vangrafian descended on the Nats in the ninth.

Golden Glove Semifinals Tonight

Two K. O.'s in Early Rounds of Junior Boxing Event.

CONTESTANTS in three divisions of the Junior Golden Gloves boxing tournament, now in progress at the Boys Club, moved into the semifinal round last night. Two knockouts were recorded, the referee stopping both bouts when the lads on the receiving end found the going too rough.

Semifinal bouts will be held tonight starting promptly at 7 o'clock and tomorrow the champions will be crowned at Griffith Stadium. Tomorrow's bouts start at 2 o'clock.

Four exhibition matches are scheduled also. Sonny Jasme will oppose Joe Green in the feature. The Boys Club tumbling team will help entertain the fans with their capers. No admission will be charged nor will there be a collection.

Colonials' Glee Club To Sing Before Game

The George Washington University Men's Glee Club of 36 voices will provide the special attraction tonight at Griffith Stadium in connection with the Colonial athletic department's programs of entertainment for the benefit of the National Capital Civic Fund. The Glee Club is directed by Dr. Robert Howe Harmon.

The concert will start at 7 o'clock and continue for one hour, with a baseball game following between the George Washington University and West Virginia University nines.

This is the first outdoor appearance of the Men's Glee Club.

ST. JOSEPH'S PLAYS RIVAL.

St. Joseph's will tangle with an old foe when it plays Congress A. C. Sunday at 3 o'clock. The game will be played at Congress Heights.

THIS MORNING:

catches of pop flies all day, with Manush and Schulte taking care to avoid collisions.

There are air currents in the big Cleveland stadium. Fly balls stay up in the air uncommonly long, and hitters like Cronin, Goslin and Kuhel are handicapped. It's the boys who hit 'em sharply like Myer, Manush and Schulte, who have the advantage.

Schulte made two lucky hits today to keep the league lead. His first was a ball just out of Burnett's reach in the first inning, then in the third he beat out a bleeder to Kamm.

Manush, who hadn't made a hit in a week, should have had four today. He did collect two, but on other occasions he almost knocked down Burnett and Averill with whistling liners.

Luke Sewell bumped his knee against the backstop in chasing Boss' foul in the fourth, but continued in the game until relieved by Pinchhitter Sam Rice, who rolled out to Boss to start the eighth.

If Alva Bradley, the railroad magnate who owns the Indians, could harness twitchy Dick Porter's lost motion at the plate, he could electrify all his rolling stock with little expense.

The Nats shuffled off to Detroit a few minutes after the game today, to oppose the Tigers in the first of a three-game series. Earl Whitehill has reported his injured leg fit again and will pitch the opener against his old pals tomorrow.

President Clark Griffith asks that anxious Washington fans be advised that tickets for the Sunday, May 28, game with the Athletics and for the May 30 double-header with the Yankees, go on sale at the Nat Stadium tomorrow.

The above predictions give the times the water is high and low. Slack water (time of turn of current) occurs somewhat later. In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel, between Chesapeake Beach and Annapolis, flood and ebb currents begin about 3 to 4 hours after low and high water, respectively, by the shore. At other places given in the table slack waters occur from ½ to 1½ hours after the times of low and high water.

Chevy Chase Doubles Play Today Attracts Field of 32

FRANK SHIELDS, former Davis Cup star; Lester Stoefen, smooth-stroking Californian, and Manuel Alonzo will be among the international tennis stars who will compete today in the annual Chevy Chase invitation doubles championship, which is attracting a field of 32 players.

The draw will not be made until the field assembles this morning. Lawrence A. Baker, member of the Davis Cup committee, and chairman of the Chevy Chase tournament committee, has announced. Play will begin at 11 o'clock, with the second round slated in the afternoon, the semifinals tomorrow morning, and the finals in the afternoon.

Indications are that Shields will team with Alonzo, Stoefen will work with Watson Washburn, of the River Club, New York, a former Davis Cup player, and Tom Mangan, District star, will team with Frank MacPherson.

Sidney B. Wood, young star, wired yesterday that his business would prevent him from playing, while Pierre Landry, French star, also expressed regret at his inability to put in an appearance.

Dwight W. Davis, donor of the Davis Cup; Julian Myrick, former United States Lawn Tennis Association president, and many other men outstanding in the tennis field will be among the participants. Baltimore is sending its star, Phil Goldsborough, while T. E. Penzold is Virginia's lone entry.

G. W. NETMEN PLAY.

The George Washington University tennis team, victorious in two of its three matches so far, will try to make it three in a row today when it engages the netmen of Sewanee on the Columbia Country Club courts at 2:30 p. m. This is the first time George Washington and Sewanee have met in athletics.

MOUNT RAINIER SCHEDULED.

Mount Rainier A. C. will play host to Fort Washington Sunday in a game starting at 3 o'colck. Mount Rainier is undefeated.

Eastern High Defeats Episcopal by 16 to 8

Eastern High School defeated Episcopal High School, 16-8, in a wild orgy of hitting yesterday on the victors' field. Numerous errors of players on both teams helped mar the game. Sperry, of Episcopal, and Charley Cuozzo, of Eastern, clouted homers. Cecil Hale twirled the last five innings for the District nine and held his opponents hitless.

Episcopal Racqueters Defeat N. C. U. Frosh

U. S. FINANCE URGED FOR RENOVIZE DRIVE

Chamber Suggestion Hailed With Jubilation by Campaign Heads.

Recommendation of the United States Chamber of Commerce that Federal loans be made available to property owners for renovizing purposes was hailed with jubilation by officials of the local renovize campaign last night.

Arthur B. Heaton, general chairman of the campaign committee, viewed the act as the greatest impetus the campaign has received.

The largest "intention to renovize" coupon yet received by the committee was presented yesterday by Charles H. Tompkins, 1608 K street northwest, who stated that he will endeavor to spend $5,000 for sensible, needed repairs in the next six months. George E. Fleming, of 3201 Idaho avenue northwest, announced his intention of painting his house, but did not state the estimated amount involved.

Interest in the competition to provide a design for renovizing the dilapidated house at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue continues to grow. There have been a number of requests for the blue prints showing the design of the house, and each of the persons furnished with this material has announced intention of competing for the chairmanship of the design committee. The contest is open to laymen as well as architects, and contestants are requested to paste a sticker over their names, so that the identity of the successful designer will not be known until after the design is selected.

A meeting of the general council will be held at 2 p. m. Monday, at which time further plans for the campaign will be considered.

Franklin National Opening Planned

Depositors to Be Asked to Leave Part of Cash and Buy Bank Stock.

A plan for reopening the Franklin National Bank awaits only the approval of the Treasury Department and depositors to be put into effect, it was announced yesterday by officials of the bank, which failed to open after the banking holiday in March.

The plan calls for depositors to waive their right to withdraw one-third of their deposits and to buy stock in the bank in the amount of 6 per cent of the deposit. The remainder of their balance, 60.66 per cent, could then be withdrawn at any time. After approval, the plan will go into operation when 75 per cent of the depositors have agreed to waive their rights and buy stock.

The proposal has already been presented to the Treasury Department and several conferences have been held, although approval has not been given. The new stock in the bank which will be sold to depositors will be nonassessable, it is planned. The one-third of deposits, whose withdrawal is waived, represents securities which will be trusteed for patrons of the bank, who will be given certificates of participation for the amount waived. These certificates will be paid off as fast as the trusteed securities can be liquidated.

Symphony's Need Still Is at $5,000

Drive for Funds Will Be Continued for Another Two Weeks.

The sum of $5,000 still stands between the National Symphony Orchestra and another season of concerts, it was announced yesterday after reports had been turned in by the women's committee, in charge of the campaign for funds.

Since this revealed that during the last week the soliciting committees had been able to average more than $1,000 a day in subscriptions, a more hopeful view of the orchestra's future was expressed at the meeting held last night by the board of governors headed by Leland Harrison, and it was decided to continue the drive for another two weeks.

Figures showed that to date $41,000 had been subscribed to the orchestra fund, in sums ranging from 50 cents to $1,000.

Spring Festival Opens at Haven

Children at Neighborhood House Perform for Pleased Audiences.

The thirty-first annual spring festival at the Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest, got under way yesterday afternoon, with both parents and children enjoying the playlets and dances put on during the day and night.

Last night at the Sylvan Theater a series of five sketches were presented, while at the Neighborhood House the older members of the various boys' clubs got together for their annual reunion in connection with the celebration of national boys' week, being sponsored by the Board of Trade.

The festivities, which will last until Saturday night, are attended each year by hosts of children and parents. The sketches last night included parts of "The Old Man of the Mountain," and "Little Plays for Little People."

Two Under Arrest In Teacher Holdup

Police Claim Confession From Alleged Driver of Bandit Car.

Following the arrest yesterday of the second member of the alleged bandit gang, said to have held up and robbed Miss Margaret Hardy, Eastern High School teacher, of $760 Tuesday in front of the Washington Mechanics Savings bank, Ninth and East Capitol streets, police last night redoubled their efforts to round up the third member of the trio.

William R. Day, 23, of 913 E street southeast, was taken into custody early yesterday near Pennsylvania avenue and Anacostia road southeast.

Day, like Thomas A. Conley, 23, the first to be arrested, confessed his part in the holdup, saying he drove the car in which Conley made his escape after snatching Miss Hardy's purse.

Suspended Business Telephones Allowed

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday filed rates with the Public Utilities Commission extending the privilege of temporary suspension of service to business customers after June 1. Under this arrangement subscribers are permitted to suspend telephone service under certain conditions with an allowance of 50 per cent on monthly charges. Residential subscribers have had this privilege a number of years.

Service connection charges where instruments have been left in place during suspension of service are also modified under the new schedule.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

YOUR mechanical refrgerator, whether it be electrical or gas, does not destroy heat—it generates heat. The principle of mechanical refrigeration, in its ideal application, would neither create nor destroy heat, but until engineering skill overcomes friction and its resultant heat the mechanical refrigerator will generate heat.

In the electrical refrigerator, a gas generally sulphur dioxide, is evaporated in the cooling coils. The evaporated gas is then pumped into a series of condensing coils, where it returns to its liquid state, only to pass on into the cooling coils again, where it again evaporates. The process is continuous.

When sulphur dioxide evaporates in the cooling coils it absorbs a certain amount of heat. This absorption causes the coils to become cold. After the gas evaporates, it is returned to the outside of the ice box proper for condensation. When it is condensed it gives off heat—the whole process of refrigeration being, simply, the taking of heat from the inside of the box and leaving it on the outside.

This much considered, the mechanical refrigerator would neither create nor destroy heat, because the amount of heat absorbed in evaporation is exactly the same as the amount given off in condensation. But whenever there is friction, as in moving parts of an ice machine, the loss of power is transformed into heat.

In the gas refrigerator, a gas flame gives off heat.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

EPITAPHS FOR A MAJOR MUSTACHE.

(The mustache of Gen. Gaishai Nagaoka, flaring 20 inches on each side, was given a special funeral and buried in a mount beside the general in Tokyo the other day.—News item.)

THESE whiskers resting 'neath this spot
Knew 60 years of lavish growing;
He shed 'em, for he knew they'd not Mean anything where he was going.

* * * *

Oh, pause and shed
A bitter tear;
A grand mustache
Is buried here.

* * * *

A mustache lies
Within this grave—
It shows the folly
Of a shave.

* * * *

For many years this growth he wore
Upon his upper lip;
He knew he wouldn't need it for
The balance of the trip.

* * * *

For sixty years a man did prize
This brush, and none can doubt it;
He had to die to realize
He looked as well without it.

* * * *

The mustache lies here,
The owner does not;
The best friends, I fear,
Must in the end part.

* * * *

To any passerby in grief
This thought it comes, as he scans it:
Does it look better off the chief
Or he look better sans it?

* * * *

This mustache rests
In peace—and we Ask: "Shave, where is Thy victory?"

* * * *

BUT IF THE WHEELS WABBLE . . .

Washington now proposes to require the use of alcohol in all gasoline used as motor fuel. It is agreed by everybody that it is better to have it in the cars than in the drivers.

* * * *

ABOUT INFLATION, MAYBE?

The Libby Holman baby will get $2,000,000. You can imagine the futility of reading it nursery stories about wolves.

* * * *

Mahatma Gandhi is to go without food for three weeks, thus putting himself in the position of all people who dine in apartment hotels.

* * * *

GOOD WORK.

"A 60-foot length of rope extending from the window to the ground gave him a hint of the manner in which the thieves escaped from the museum."—New York Times. Marvelous, Watson, marvelous!

* * * *

Thieves are now robbing art museums, which is a very good sign that the depression is over.

Herr Hitler flew into one of his tantrums yesterday, says P. T. T., on an unconfirmed report from America that a Jewish trombone player had been seen in a German band.

BETTER TREATMENT PLEAS ARE SOUNDED FOR DISTRICT FUNDS

Senator Thomas Deals With Public Welfare Plan in Washington.

On the eve of a conference fight between House and Senate on controversial provisions of the District appropriations bill, Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate District Appropriations Committee, last night appealed for fair treatment of the District.

"So long as Congress is responsible for the administration of Washington, the National City, so long must Congress assume responsibility for the well-being of the citizens of the National Capital," he said in a radio address over WMAL.

"It is up to the Nation to see that Washington is treated fairly and justly."

Senator Thomas made no reference to the approaching annual conference battle, which will determine whether liberal Senate appropriations or parsimonious House allowances will be sanctioned by Congress.

Blanton's Return Awaited.

The conference yesterday was definitely postponed until next week by House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan, who awaits the return to the city of his colleague, Representative Thomas Blanton (Democrat), Texas. It was Blanton who last session blocked passage of the District appropriations bill.

Senator Thomas' speech dealt with the broad question of public welfare and was sponsored by the Community Chest. He was introduced by Elwood Street, director of the Chest.

There is no other place to get adequate funds for the relief of the destitute due to unemployment and the emergency except the Treasury of the United States, declared the Oklahoman, who pointed out that private contributions through the Community Chest and similar organizations have proved inadequate to meet the situation.

He added:

Public Improvement Important.

"One of the most important forms of relief is a program of public improvement. The members of the District subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee are, I believe, unanimously committed to that principle for the District of Columbia. They would like to make the National Capital 100 per cent presentable from the point of view of new construction and the tearing down of old, insanitary and unpresentable buildings.

"We are especially interested in encouraging the inclusion in the District budget of new work, such as bridges, schools, playgrounds and other capital improvements which will provide a maximum of work.

"Congress must be responsible for the plan of public improvement which meets not only the needs of the National Capital, but also the needs of Washington as a community of 500,000 people.

"Our committee has increased the appropriation for relief over that recommended by the House of Representatives, and has provided, in a bill which we trust will be passed, that these funds may be used as much as is necessary during the year, with the further understanding that if by January more funds are necessary we will see what we can do."

Wants City Satisfied.

He said he is going to insist that the city gets the administration it wants.

"The people are powerless if Congress will not give them consideration," he said. "Government without such consideration would be government without consent or knowledge of the government. Even a dictator usually governs better than that. Our government, as a democracy must, in respect to the National Capital, give heed to the wishes and needs of the citizens of that community and do all in its power to meet those needs and wishes.

"On the other hand, the residents of the National Capital have a mutual obligation. They must confer together as to the needs which must be met in their opinion and must present their opinions clearly, concisely and with adequate facts to the members of the appropriate committees of Congress.

"In the same way we expect that citizens will do all in their power to support community movements such as the Community Chest. The Community Chest, like the United States, is a federation. The United States is a federation of 48 States and the Community Chest is a federation of 63 welfare services. In each the principle of democracy is applied—in the United States, through the participation of voters; and in the Community Chest through the participation of contributors, board members and social workers. Cooperation for the common good is the essential spirit of each.

Visions Beauty for Capital.

"Thus Congress can only be expected to do its part in providing adequate funds for relief when the citizens of Washington have given their full share and paid their pledges fully for the support of those private philanthropies which are their legitimate responsibility and for which Congress can not assume responsibility.

"In other words, we should see the relation of Congress and of Washingtonians as a mutual relationship with Washington as part of the larger community of the Nation, and with the Government of the United States serving Washington as part of its community for which it is responsible. Thus working together the Congress of the United States and the citizens of Washington can do much to make this not only the most beautiful city in the land, but also the most fortunate and happy from the point of view of human well-being."

In introducing Senator Thomas, Mr. Street called attention to the relief situation in Washington. He said the Emergency Relief Division of the Board of Public Welfare is "doing a tremendous piece of work in a remarkably fine way."

$25,000 Damage Suit Follows Auto Collision

Because of an automobile collision at Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest last December, Morris Silverman, 3100 Eleventh street northwest, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court for $25,000 against George M. Dixon, 1012 Jackson street northeast.

Silverman claimed Dixon was the driver of a car that struck his, causing serious injuries.

DEWEY WILL UPHELD AFTER LONG BATTLE

Abrupt End Comes as Jury Closes Case With 20 Lawyers Involved.

The long drawn-out legal battle over the validity of the last will of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, wife of the hero of Manila Bay, ended abruptly in the District Supreme Court late yesterday when a jury in the court of Justice Jesse C. Adkins, by direction of the court, sustained the legality of the document.

In a proceeding that had been threshed out by attorneys representing the different litigants before they entered court, it was agreed that the will should go unprotested and that separate agreements would be reached by the contestants as to the split up of the estate, which is now roughly valued at $500,000.

Edward B. McLean, a nephew of Mrs. Dewey, will receive about one-third of the estate, and Frederick McLean Bugher, another nephew, will receive about two-thirds, it was estimated. A stepson, George Goodwin Dewey, of Chicago, who filed a protest against the legality of the will, was represented by attorneys who agreed to the settlement of the case.

Mrs. Dewey's last will was dated May 2, 1925, and it had a codicil dated May 6, 1925, attached to it. Both these documents were proven by C. F. R. Ogilby and Henry Ravenal, attorneys who signed the will in the presence of Mrs. Dewey.

Frank J. Hogan acted as the attorney in proving the will. There were approximately 20 other attorneys interested in the case on behalf of persons who shared to some degree in the will, through donations of trophies of Admiral Dewey or personal articles. The terms of the impending settlements were not divulged yesterday, the explanation being that some of its details were not settled.

Congressman's Protest Eliminates Car Switch

Because Representative Hatton W. Summers, of Texas, complained of the noise, the Public Utilities Commission yesterday ordered the removal of two street railway switches in the vicity of First and B streets southeast.

Another switch was ordered eliminated at Ninth and F streets in connection with the improvement of tracks on F street between Ninth and Fourteenth street preparatory to repaving.

Legal Lager Cuts Price Of Bootleg Liquor Here

Legalization of beer has cut consumption of hard liquor if bootleggers' price lists, seeping through unofficial channels to The Post, are a criterion.

Gin bucks and whisky sours are down to 15 and 20 cents and hard liquor by the bottle is not so dear, the creeping rumors have it. So Lieut. George B. Little, head of the police dry enforcement squad, was asked if beer hasn't lightened his labors.

The grizzled dry raider cocked an eye at the interrogator and said:

"Well, we got 500 more quarts of hard liquor in our raids for April this year than we did for April last year."

So, well?

TWO-GUN OUTLAWS TAKE $450 IN STORE

Only After "Company Insured Money," Trussed Employes Told.

Police last night were combing the city for a pair of two-gun bandits who early yesterday had held up and robbed the Western Auto Supply Co., at 911 H street northeast, of $450 after first trussing up five male employes and ordering a girl clerk to "sit tight."

According to H. E. Clark, manager of the store, the men strode into the place and after informing him and his assistant that a holdup was in progress said that they want only company money, money that was insured.

After lining up the employes, the bandits saw to it that they were properly bound and ordered the assistant manager, R. L. Wastler, to open the safe, which he did after an attempt at delay.

Mrs. Dorothy E. White, of 1606 Isherwood street northeast, office clerk, who came in while the robbery was in progress, was ordered to "sit tight" in the manager's office. Two customers, W. W. Hazer, of 614 Fifteenth street northeast, and K. Nicoson, of Hosslyn, Va., were forced to lie on the floor alongside the trussed-up employes. The robbers escaped through a back door into an alley.

SECURITIES CONTROL BY P. U. C. IS SOUGHT

W. A. Roberts Told to Draft Amendment to Bill Pending at Capitol.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday instructed William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel, to draft an amendment to the administration national securities bill, now pending in Congress, to assign the commission power over all local securities.

At the same time the commission will seek to clarify the measure in certain respects so that there may be no danger that the District agency's control over public utility securities, as specified in the public utility act, will be modified or nullified by enactment of the national bill, which requires a registration of public utility securities with the Federal Trade Commission unless they are under direct control of a Federal agency or officers. The commission fears there might be some question in this regard as to whether it is a Federal agency.

Certain provisions of the Blaine and Bowman bills may be incorporated in the commission's amendment. It is believed that the Public Utilities Commission is best fitted to exercise control over local securities because it is equipped with a staff of accountants.

At present there is no District agency which exercises control over the sale of all securities. The commission has clear control, however, over public utility stocks and bonds.

Pygmy Hippo Kills Its Third Offspring

Jungle Mother Rolls on Latest Infant and Crushes Out Life.

The white-hot jealousy of jungle blood surged within a beast and a pygmy hippopotamus crushed its third newly born infant to death.

The tragedy occurred recently at the Zoo when the mother hippo rolled on and killed its youngster a few minutes after it was born. The mother had previously killed two other babies in the same way. "She's just a bad mother," said William M. Mann, director of the Zoo.

The male hippo was born in captivity while its mate was a gift from Harvey Firestone, tire manufacturer, to President Coolidge, who turned it over to the Zoo.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

It is all very well for persons to drive blithely along and say, "Oh, I'll never have an accident, I'm too good a driver," but police statistics show that these drivers are no exceptions. The fact that they are so "cock-sure" makes them more subject to causing collisions.

The accident figures are:

Deaths	43	25
Injuries	1,322	1,214

"Be Careful!"

MARTIN M'NAMARA LATEST DARK HORSE FOR COMMISSIONER

Senator Walsh Tells Farley Lawyer's Naming Would Please Democrats.

By J. BERNARD M'DONNELL.

Appointment of Martin J. McNamara, Washington attorney, as District Commissioner, was urged on Postmaster General James A. Farley yesterday by Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts.

Senator Walsh is understood to have told the Postmaster General that Mr. McNamara's selection would be pleasing to many Democrats of the Bay State who have come to know the Washingtonian through his several years of law practice.

Question in Air.

The plea of the Massachusetts senator was indicative of the drive which friends of Mr. McNamara have launched in his behalf, with hopes of success increasing recently.

Who will be named, however, remains undecided. Mr. Farley left Washington yesterday for a ten-day trip and it was said at the White House that action probably would not be taken until after his return to the National Capital. That means that the various candidates and their friends and advocates will have another fortnight within which to bolster their claims.

Miss Taggart Urged.

Meanwhile, the old battle is going on beneath the surface for several other local jobs. Miss Etta Taggart, a lawyer and a Democrat, is being put forward by her friends for appointment as judge of the Juvenile Court, a post now held by Judge Kathryn Sellers, whose term has expired. President Hoover nominated Miss Pearl McCall, assistant district attorney, but the Senate did not act on the nomination and Miss McCall is thought now to be completely out of the race.

Miss Taggart, incidentally, is the leader of the Martha Washington Chapter of the Royeroft Junta, of New York, which met in semimonthly gathering in the Ambassador Hotel yesterday and discussed child psychology and several case studies of juvenile cases. For some reason the women think the Juvenile Court post should go to a woman member of the legal fraternity.

Woman's Fall on Rocks Causes Suit for $2,000

Mary J. Harkins, 1436 W street northwest, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court for $2,000 against the Texas Co. for injuries she claims she sustained October 19, 1932, when she fell as the result of stepping on loose stones as she was crossing a filling station roadway at Fourteenth and W streets northwest.

The stones, she claimed, were thrown on the roadway by automobiles using the filling station.

Dog Puzzle

Indian Bureau Head Will Pay $25 for Return of Lost Fox Hound.

A fox-hound which has hunted with Indians on most of the reservations in the country has been lost in the woods above Cabin John, and his master, John Collier, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, is puzzled as to what could have become of him.

The dog, Angus, has accompanied Mr. Collier on his trips to the reservations and is well able to take care of himself. There are no rapids in the river where he was lost, about 5 miles above Cabin John, and the dog is familiar with the neighborhood and could not have been lost. Angus is black with white spots and has a pure white tail and a little brown on his head.

A reward of $25 has been posted and notices have been put up in schools throughout Montgomery County. The dog has been with Mr. Collier about two years, and has gone through one bad automobile wreck with him.

BURDETTE IS FETED ON TRADE BOARD JOB

President Owen at Dinner Praises Membership Achievements.

Elmore T. Burdette, retiring chairman of the membership committee of the Washington Board of Trade, was accorded a testimonial dinner at the Kenwood Country Club last night in appreciation of what Claude W. Owen, new president of the board, described as "a perfectly splendid job."

A total of 230 new members were taken into the board during the year. Although this was not as great a number as have been enrolled in some other years, it was considered a record because of general business conditions.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retiring District Commissioner, and Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, were among the guests. Mr. Burdette was presented with a handsome clock.

Students from the Marjorie Webster School and the Hoffman School of Dance featured the entertainment program. Marion Warburg and Betty Raymond, daughter of William Raymond, popular local singer, and Janet Coon, of the Marjorie Webster School, an accomplished whistler, scored decided hits. Music was furnished by Thelma Schillings Cadettes.

W. Crosdale Witts, chairman of the 1933 shad bake, to be held May 20 at Bay Ridge, Md., announced that plans are being completed for a gala affair and advised members of the board to get their tickets as soon as possible.

Fred Smith, new chairman of the membership committee, was toastmaster.

MRS. J. P. ANDREWS REELECTED AS HEAD OF COLONIAL DAMES

National Society to Close 5-Day Biennial Council Here Today.

Mrs. James P. Andrews, of Hartford, Conn., was reelected president of the Colonial Dames of America at a meeting yesterday of the twenty-first biennial council of the National Society at the Carlton Hotel.

Mrs. Joseph Rucker, of Lamar, Ga., was elected honorary president and Mrs. William Howard Taft was elected honorary vice president.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Edward Shoemaker, Maryland, first vice president; Mrs. William H. Wilmer, District of Columbia, second vice president; Mrs. Holmes Forsyth, Illinois, third vice president; Mrs. Charles H. Merriman, Rhode Island, secretary; Mrs. Frederick A. Packard, Pennsylvania, treasurer; Mrs. Victor B. Woolley, Delaware, registrar, and Mrs. Egbert Jones, Mississippi, historian.

The final session of the five-days' meeting will begin at 9 a. m., when Mrs. Henry Dickson Bruns, president of the Louisiana Society places a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the name of the national society.

This afternoon the 200 delegates will visit Gunston Hall, the home of George Mason, author of the Virginia Bill of Rights. The day will be concluded by the installation of officers and final reports of the standing committees.

Yesterday's meeting included an illustrated lecture on the history of the States and a speech on Sulgrave Manor in Northampshire, England, the home of the ancestors of George Washington.

Slash of $35,000 Hits Traffic Unit

14 of 18 Employes Must Be Discharged, Says W. A. Van Duzer.

Reduction of $35,000 in the District traffic department's appropriation, as adopted by the Senate Wednesday, will bring about the discharge of 14 of 18 employes and will curtail greatly the department's activities, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said yesterday.

The traffic department's original estimate for 1934 was $77,640. This was cut to $45,000 in the Budget Bureau's latest recommendation. The $35,000 slash by the Senate leaves but $10,000, or enough to carry along probably one executive and two or three assistants. There are now two former traffic directors in the department.

Not only will no new signal lights be installed, but all activities as the painting of white lines for traffic lanes, inspection of used automobiles when sold and the like, will be seriously curtailed.
